BRAKEMAN KILLED

Howard F. Barber Run Over at Middlesex St. Station Today

Howard F. Barber, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad, presumably a brakeman, was run over and killed by a passenger train at the Middlesex street station a few minutes before nine o'clock this morning.

Barber, who was about 35 years old, was standing on the lower step of one of the forward cars of the Concord train due in Lowell at 8.56. The train was a long one and Barber either attempted to jump or stumbled from the step. He fell to the platform and rolled under the train. Four cars passed over him, mangling him terribly. His identity was disclosed by papers he had in his pocket showing him to be a member of the order of Railway Trainmen and an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad. His home is at 14 Pearley street, Concord, N. H. The body was removed to Healey's undertaking parlors in Branch street and his people have been notified.

IN POLICE COURT

Aged Man Charged with Illegal Keeping

David Collins, who gave his age as 76 years, appeared before Judge Hadley in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with unlawfully keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquors.

As a result of a complaint made at the police station, the liquor inspectors visited the home of Collins in Adams street last Sunday and seized a quantity of whiskey.

Collins admitted to the court that he had been doing wrong but asked Judge Hadley to take his age and the condition of his health into consideration. Probation Officer Slattery also spoke a good word for Collins. As a result of the talk with Mr. Slattery Judge Hadley placed Collins on probation for two months.

Five Months In Jail

Mrs. Dolan was charged with being drunk, had pleaded guilty and a fine of $2 had been imposed when the woman's husband stated that he wished to speak to the court relative to the actions of his wife. Mr. Dolan said that he could do nothing with her and if unable to secure anything better that she would drink alcohol and Jamaica ginger. He also told the court that she had been arrested frequently in Maine. After hearing the man's story the court withdrew the $2 fine and sentenced Mrs. Dolan to five months in jail.

Other Offenders

William Smith, charged with being drunk, looked as though he was very much under the weather. To all appearances the man was still under the influence of liquor, but Supt. Welch informed the court that Smith was shamming, saying: "This man wanted a glass of whiskey this morning and when he was refused it he said he would act like a fool when he got into court." Smith will spend the next 20 days in jail.

John J. Carroll and John W. Powell were each fined $6 while two first offenders were fined $2 each.

LOW DEATH RATE

Lowell's Health Was Good This Week

The health department feels pretty good over this week's death rate which is remarkably low, the weather undoubtedly having something to do with it. There were no deaths from the contagious diseases nor from tuberculosis. The mortality is as follows:

Death rate for the week endink November 13, 1909: 10.26 against 17.26 and 20.50 for previous two weeks.

Infectious diseases reported for the week ending November 13, 1909: Typhoid fever, 2; scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 5; measles, 7.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—Coroner Lincoln continued today the investigation into the death of Elmer Parmenter, who met his death while going to the polls in an auto on election day. The cortege proceeded to St. Michael's church, where at 9 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of the church, with Rev. Fr. Mullin as deason and Rev. Fr Murphy as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Thomas P. Boulger sang the Gregorian mass and at the offertory sang "Pie Jesu." At the conclusion of mass "In Paradisium," and as the remains were borne from the church "De Pro Fundis" was chanted. Miss Carolyn White presided at the organ. DRIVEN FROM BEDS

20 Families Driven Out By Flames This Morning

Fire Started in Jackson Street Junk Shop and Spread—Gallant Rescue of Little Girl Found Alone in Burning House by a Fireman—Three Horses Perished in Flames—Fire Department Did Good Work

The quiet of slumbering Lowell was broken at about 2 o'clock this morning by the ringing of fire bells, and some woke as in a dream to find the sky illumined by the glare of a fire that threatened life and property. Thanks to the good work of "Bob" Carland, a ladderman of truck 3, no loss of human life will be recorded, and while the fire covered considerable ground the property loss is practically insignificant because of the fact that the buildings burned were being torn down to make way for the new storage warehouse to be erected by a Boston concern.

The scene of the fire was in Jackson and Middlesex streets, and it was responsible for no less than four alarms, three box and a telephone alarm. The first alarm was sounded from box 72 at 2.05 a. m., and a second alarm was sent in at 2.13. Then came the telephone alarm and later an alarm from box 172, located at the corner of Appleton and Favor streets. Sparks from the Jackson street fire carried to Appleton street and took root there, but did not do any material damage.

Started in Junk Shop

The fire which had gained very considerable headway before the arrival of the firemen is supposed to have started in T. McAvoy's junkshop in Jackson street and it is said by firemen and others that had the wind been blowing at all hard there would have been something in the nature of a widespread conflagration. The surroundings were of the sort to appeal to the flames and hungry tongues of fire were licking their way from pillar to post when the firemen arrived. Ten minutes after the second alarm was sounded no less than fifteen streams were pouring in on the fiery furnace from Middlesex, Jackson and Revere streets.

The Property Destroyed

The property destroyed consisted of an old stable that was being torn down, an old blacksmith shop, and two out buildings, all of which were to be eliminated to make room for the big storage warehouse.

A tenement block owned by A. C. Wheelock and fronting on Middlesex street at a point known as the "big yard," was badly gutted; other tenement property was more or less damaged and the ambitious flames found their way to a long wooden building owned by the Appleton company and in which is located, Bergeron & Fontaine's laundry. This place was badly scorched and all of the windows on the side nearest the burning buildings were shattered by the force of water. No estimate of the damage has yet been made, but because of the nature of the property it will not be very great.

Three Horses Perished

Three horses perished in the flames and there are two pigs missing. The pigs found their way to the open, but inasmuch as they have not been recovered it is thought that they went back to their pen where they were drowned or suffocated. When the firemen arrived the pigs were running about in the open. Two of the horses burned belonged to Mr. Brennan, who has a wood yard on the premises, and the third horse was the property of Mr. Wilson, a tea man.

Escaped in Night Clothes

At least 20 families, the tenants of A. C. Wheelock and H. A. Racicot, whose building is numbered 317 Middlesex street, escaped in their night clothes and the excitement at the time can better be imagined than described. Fortunately the night was not very cold and the shivering ones scantily clothed took refuge in doorways in Middlesex street. Most of the tenants were foreigners who could speak but little English and their loss, principally by water, will weigh heavily upon them as it is understood that but few of them carried any insurance.

Baby Girl Rescued

When Lieut. Herbert Merrill and Robert Carland of truck 3 arrived on the scene they went through the Wheelock block to arouse the sleeping inmates. All of the rooms with the exception of one on the upper floor were deserted and there they found a baby girl. Sparks that entered by an open window had set fire to the bed in the room and the little one, two-years-old, was standing in the middle of the room waving her tiny hands apparently frightened at the danger and the noise that surrounded her. Mr. Carland took the little tot in his arms and carried her to the street. Upon his arrival there he found a woman hysterically weeping and calling for her baby in a foreign tongue. When the child was placed in her arms by the sturdy fireman her joy knew no bounds. She smothered the little one with kisses and her gratitude to the fireman she extended on bended knees.

Streets Were Crowded

Despite the fact that the fire occurred at an hour whenall Lowell was supposed to be wrapt in slumber a crowd of several hundred gathered almost as quickly as did the firemen, and before the fire was under control Jackson and Middlesex streets in the vicinity of the

CITY IS QUIET

The National Guard to be Withdrawn From Cairo, Ill.,

CAIRO, Nov. 13.—Orders for the demobilization for the fourth regiment of the Illinois National guard which has occupied Cairo since early yesterday were expected by the commanders of the organization early today. The absence last night of any sign of a disposition to review mob rule and the safe arrival at Kankakee of Arthur Alexander, who was escorted from here late yesterday by two companies of militia led both the local and state authorities to believe that there was no chance of further disturbance in this city.

Alexander, who is suspected of complicity in the murder of Annie Pelley is the only person in whom members of the mob have any interest. The announced intention of Sheriff Davis and General Wells was to land the negro at some point so far from Cairo that no attempt would be made to take him from the authorities and it is the general opinion here that this object was fully accomplished by the journey to Kankakee. Whether a special grand jury is to be summoned to consider possible charges against members of the mob may also be determined today. It is likely, however, that the matter will be left for the next regular grand jury which is to meet early in December. Under present conditions of public opinion it is conceded by the local police authorities that the chances of obtaining indictments against members of Thursday night's mob are remote.

A GREAT CROWD

At Game Between Lowell and Lawrence High Teams Today

The Lowell and Lawrence High school elevens met on the gridiron at Spalding park this afternoon in one of the most interesting and exciting games ever witnessed here. The rivalry between these two teams is very keen. It is the sole ambition of the Lowell team to defeat the down-river aggregation and the same can also be said of Lawrence, for the latter team takes particular pains to have its men in the pink of condition on the day that it is pitted against Lowell.

If the scores of the different games in which Lowell and Lawrence have taken part this year can be taken as a criterion it would appear that the Lawrence eleven has a trifle the better of the argument. In none of the regular games played so far this season has Lawrence been scored upon. Boston English was beaten by a 5 to 0 score by Lawrence, while the game between Lowell and Boston Latin resulted in a victory for Lowell by a score of 6 to 5.

The Lowell boys were in the pink of condition for the game. They retired early last night and this morning the squad assembled and a training table dinner was served. Early in the afternoon the team was taken to the field and final instructions given.

The attendance at the park was very large, the student body of both schools turning out in large numbers, while former pupils of the school and many football enthusiasts were on hand with flags and various noise making contrivances.

Special cars were run between this city and Lawrence during the afternoon in order to accommodate the large number that came to this city to witness the game. Between 1 and 3 o'clock this afternoon cars were run every few minutes between Merrimack square and Spalding park.

"I TRIED TO MAKE A PHOTOGRAPH

Of That Display of Hood's Goods In Dows' window," said a Merrimack street photographer, "and while the negative came out pretty well, I found I also had the Courier-Citizen building, which was three hundred feet back of the camera on Merrimack street, in the right hand corner of the picture. This was because of the reflection in the plate glass. But all the same it is a good photograph of the best window display of the kind ever made in this city. Lowell should be proud of a concern that makes such a varied list of choice medicinal and toilet articles."

FOR NEW FIREMEN

Appropriations Committee Wants $1375

In order to get a report before the board of aldermen at its meeting next Tuesday evening the appropriations committee will meet at 6.15 on that evening.

Among the matters to be taken up is the request of the fire department for an appropriation of $1375 to pay the salary of 15 additional permanent firemen for the remainder of the year. If the money is found the 15 new men will be appointed at once.

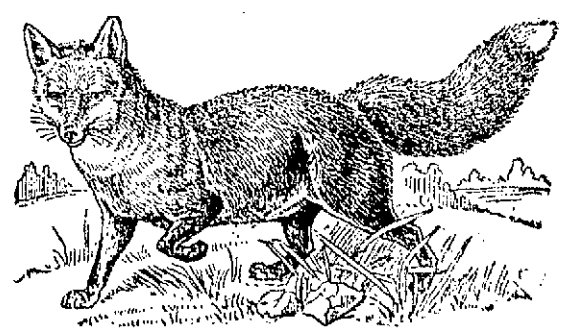

The request for $1000 for walks at the North common, for which the ward two councilmen have been working for some time, also comes before the committee.

Some time ago the park commission asked for a transfer of $1000 from the appropriation for labor to that of sundries and the committee allowed a transfer of $500. Now the commission asks that the other $500 be transferred and will appear before the committee to show why the transfer should be made.

The health, state aid and soldiers' relief will ask for additional money to complete the year and the school board threatens to ask for $5,000.

A BOY BANDIT

Killed Police Officer and Then Wounded Himself

EUDORA, Kan., Nov. 13.—Earl Bullock, a boy bandit of Lawrence, Kan., accompanied by William McKay, 25 years of age, of Jacksonville, Fla., in an attempt yesterday to repeat his exploit of a month ago, robbed the Eudora State bank of $8000 after shooting Fred Starr, a banker, and later probably mortally wounded himself when closely pressed by armed citizens.

In his first holdup of the Eudora State bank, Bullock, who is 17 years of age, shot and killed a policeman. When officers had about concluded that Bullock had left the state with the loot of the previous holdup, he and McKay entered the state bank about closing time.

Fred Starr, cashier of the Kaw Valley State Bank of Eudora, who was in the state bank with his day's clearings, stood by as the outlaw held up the state bank's cashier, Henry Wilson. Although Starr did not resist the holdup, Bullock shot him through the jaw, snatching more than $8000. Bullock and McKay fled. Each youth had two revolvers.

Cashier Wilson spread the alarm and citizens armed with shotguns, rifles and revolvers pursued the bandits across the fields. In attempting to swim the Kaw river the boys lost ground and in a few minutes the pursuers were at their heels.

McKay surrendered, but Bullock, wrenching the revolvers from his faltering partner's hands, sped on into the woods.

John Miller, who knew nothing about the pursuit, stepped into Bullock's path and the boy, thinking him a pursuer, fired several shots which barely missed Miller. Seeing that the youth was ready to shoot at anyone, the pursuers fired a score of shots at Bullock, who returned the fire. The hunted robber with scant hope of escape fired his remaining bullet through his own head.

Thinking Bullock dead, most of the pursuers turned their attention to McKay, with the intention of lynching him, but officers hurried McKay to the Lawrence jail in an automobile.

McKay is a tall, slender and apparently weak youth, who was led into the crime by Bullock's lurid description of the thrilling life of a desperado.

HENRY L. STIMSON, PROSECUTOR OF THE SUGAR TRUST CASES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—There is a strange mixture of politics and trust rivalry in the revival of the scandals involving the American Sugar Refining company, which have recently resulted in wholesale resignations of men long in the employ of the company in New York. The story that the government was entitled to $30,000,000 when it accepted something less than $8,000,000 for the weighing frauds perpetrated on the sugar trust docks in Brooklyn has been revived and undoubtedly will cause a further investigation. Henry L. Stimson, special prosecutor for the United States in the sugar cases, denies that the government accepted anything less than its due following the weighing frauds. William Loeb, collector of customs at New York, comes to the rescue of ex-President Roosevelt in reply to hints that the sugar trust was not prosecuted as vigorously as it might have been. It is believed that a reopening of the cases will result in a series of further sensations.

NEGRO SUSPECT

Was Escorted Out of Town by Militia

CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 13.—Will Arthur Alexander, the last of the persons arrested in connection with the murder of Miss Annie Polley, safely out of town, and the Fourth regiment, Illinois National guard, on guard in the streets and about the jail, the mob spirit that kept Cairo ablaze with excitement for four days is quelled.

No crowds were allowed to gather at any place and every known danger point was occupied by troops. Bayonets held sway where 24 hours before the rope, the torch and the pistol were in evidence. Alexander, implicated in the murder of Miss Polley by the dying statement of "Froggy" James, one of the victims of the mob, was sent to an unannounced point north of Cairo late yesterday. He was escorted from the jail to a special train on the Illinois Central railroad by seven companies of militia, two of which guarded the negro on the train during the trip. There were 50 men for the militia from the small crowd that watched the departure.

The display of force was greater than the rioters had anticipated, and while there were murmurs all along the route, there was no effort to break the line.

Sheriff Davis, who made strenuous and repeated efforts for two days to save James from lynching, said last night that disposition of Alexander had been left to state officers. He has begun investigating the riots of Thursday night.

Coroner's verdicts yesterday were rendered on the men lynched and in each case the jury found that "he came to his death by injuries at the hands of persons unknown to us."

Sheriff Davis in a long interview yesterday told of having recognized several members of the mob which took James from his care Thursday night. No steps to bring those implicated in the uprising to trial have been made yet.

Mayor George Parrens said yesterday that he was [illegible] Thursday night and heard no shots or other sound to indicate that the city of which he is chief executive was in the grasp of a lawless horde.

Alexander Wilson, state's attorney, said that he was in several parts of the city, trying to quell the mob spirit, but he would not say that he recognized any of the leaders. He would present any evidence that came to him to a grand jury, he said.

While county officers previously declared that the evidence against "Froggy" James was purely circumstantial, they were inclined yesterday to lay stress on the evidences of his guilt.

The only ground for holding Alexander was declared to be the dying confession of James. None of the officers would acknowledge that any direct evidence of this alleged confession had come to him.

In an effort to clear up the murder of Miss Polley, the police yesterday searched the houses frequented by James and Alexandr for the missing money, handbag and bracelet of the murdered girl. They found nothing.

Blame for the riot is generally ascribed to an inadequate police force and the fact that many men accused of felonies have been acquitted despite seemingly strong evidence against them.

MRS. ROOSEVELT

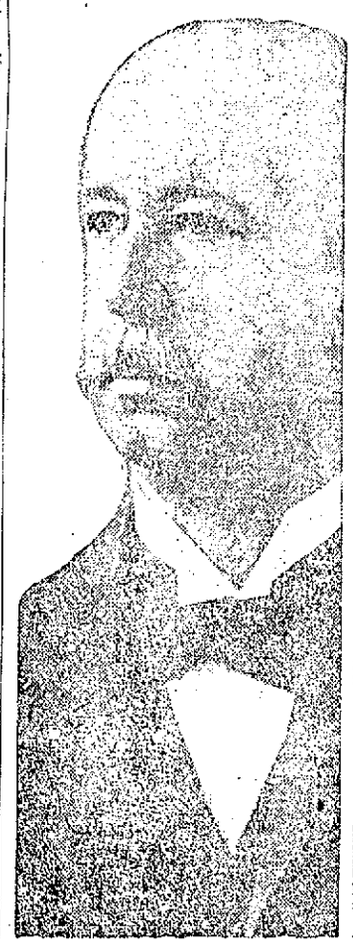

With Daughter is on Way Home

NAPLES, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, boarded the steamer Konig Albert, for New York last evening. Several friends bade them farewell. Before departing Mrs. Roosevelt said she had received no direct communication from Colonel Roosevelt or her son Kermit, but was hopeful that some news from them would come to her by wireless during the voyage to the United States.

CHAS. S. MELLEN

May Direct Big Railway Combine

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—It is believed that at the meeting of the directors of the Boston & Maine railroad which is to be held here on Nov. 16, Charles S. Mellen president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, will be elected president of the Boston & Maine to succeed Lucius Tuttle, resigned. This action will bring about openly the consolidation of the two systems, in which many stockholders are now jointly interested. These stockholders want the Boston & Maine raised to a standard uniform with the New Haven, and they believe Mr. Mellen can more easily accomplish the task by direct and actual management than through a subordinate.

AMES GETS BUSY

He Starts His Campaign Against Lodge

Although he has made no formal announcement Congressman Ames has begun his campaign for senator to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge in the United States senate and his candidacy will be welcomed by the republicans of the different cities in which Lodge has interfered in matters of local interest. Lodge is reputed to be the man who interfered with success in the legislature when Lowell was trying to get a new charter and for years he has had his hand in everyone's business until even the members of his own party have become weary of his boosting. The recent state election showed that Lodge's popularity is greatly on the wane and that his reign is near an end. Already several candidates for his position have been mentioned, notably, Hon. Samuel W. McCall of Winchester, but Congressman Ames is the first in the field and he's there with respectable backing.

A Boston paper discussing the situation this week said:

The revolt against Lodge and Gardner now fairly covers northeastern Massachusetts. Essex county, the home of both leaders, is its hotbed.

Mr. Ames tied up to Arthur L. Nason, according to Mr. Ames' friends, because the 4th Essex senatorial district lies within the Gardner congressional district, because J. Otis Wardwell's place on the state committee went along with the senatorship, and because the scene of conflict was close to Lodge's door.

The Lowell congressman believed that here was a good place to test the feeling of the people of Massachusetts toward Lodge and Gardner and Wardwell at one sitting. Nason won. Lodge and Gardner were "rebuked," so to speak, and Wardwell was fired from the state committee.

COAL STEAMER

Sank Off Wharf at Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—The big coal steamer Kanawha went down suddenly in 27 feet of water at the Curran and Burton wharf here last evening with her cargo of 3600 tons of coal.

So suddenly did the steamer sink into the Providence river that J. J. Costello, a fireman asleep in his bunk, narrowly escaped drowning. He had a hard fight to reach the deck. The Kanawha arrived late yesterday afternoon from Norfolk with 5440 tons of Pocahontas coal for Curran and Burton. Work of unloading began as soon as the steamer docked.

A member of the crew whose duty it was to close the sea cocks evidently forgot a big one on the port side for as the coal was taken out of the starboard side the vessel listed to port and the water flowed in. Captain W. H. Small and all his crew but Costello was on deck, when suddenly the steamer sank quickly in the Providence river. The crew clung to the high places, portions of the bow and stern remaining above water. Operations toward raising her were begun today.

The Kanawha was built for service on the Great Lakes. She is owned by L. E. Chesebro & Co. of Boston and chartered for coal carrying by Curran and Burton.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Mother and Her Child Found Dead

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 13.—Carrying with her into eternity her four months old baby, Mrs. Frank Brodeur, closing doors and windows of her kitchen, turned on a gas cock and awaited death. With the infant in her arms Mrs. Brodeur's body was found when her husband, a motorman, returned home last night. Family troubles are believed to have been responsible for the act. The woman left a note in which she said:

"I hope you will be happy now that I am gone."

EXPLORER PEARY

Spoke Before National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—"I had made good to myself, my friends and the flag of my country," declared Commander Robert E. Peary last night, after describing to a prominent audience how after years of toil and persistent effort he at last reached the North pole. It was the commander's first lecture since his return from his last trip to the frozen north and it was delivered under the auspices of the National Geographic society, which already has endorsed him as a discoverer of the pole.

Commander Peary made no direct reference to Dr. Frederick A. Cook. He intimated, however, that he did not regard it as possible that any expedition attained the top of the earth ahead of his own.

Fully two hours were occupied by Mr. Peary in the telling of his story, which was illustrated by stereopticon views made from photographs taken by Peary in the north. He endeavored to impress upon his hearers the many hardships which had to be endured, the almost insurmountable obstacles which had to be overcome and the complete preparation and experience necessary to make the expedition a success. Arriving at the hall Commander Peary was escorted to the platform amidst applause, by Prof. Willis L. Moore, president of the National Geographic society, who also introduced him.

Mr. Peary related the incidents of the trip in a simple, straightforward manner. He gave much of the credit to the other members of his expedition, and spoke of the fundamental importance of his supporting parties.

In describing his feeling, as he said, when he reached the goal of his ambition, Commander Peary declared that the conditions were very commonplace and that they were the same as they had been experiencing for days before. There were no new unusual sensations for the eye or ear to detect except that the sun moved parallel with the horizon.

"It was a feeling," declared Commander Peary, "that at last after 23 years, in spite of every financial and other difficulties, I had made good to myself, my friends and the flag of my country."

Among those present at the lecture were Secretary and Mrs. Knox, Secretary and Mrs. Dickinson, Secretary and Mrs. Nagel, Secretary to the President F. W. Carpenter and Mrs. Donald McLean, former president of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Practically every other embassy or legation in Washington was represented, the majority of the legations by the ministers themselves.

VALUE OF MILK

Prof. Lockwood Lectured to Pomona Grange

Prof. W. P. B. Lockwood, head of the department of dairying at Massachusetts Agricultural college, spoke in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, last evening, on "The Value of Milk as a Food and Its Care in the Home." He spoke under the auspices of the Middlesex North Pomona grange.

"If one can keep milk at 40 degrees or below that we will get along very well," he said.

"It has been figured out that one bacteria will reproduce five to seven bacteria in 24 hours, at a temperature of 50 degrees. Ten degrees higher one bacteria will reproduce 750 bacteria.

"There are three principal kinds of bacteria, as follows: The inert, which are not harmful and which are usually present in the largest numbers; the souring, of which there are about fifty varieties, and whose principal functions consist in souring milk, and the peptinal, which result generally from filth and decayed organic matter. These latter are pathogenic, or disease producers.

"The fly furnishes a big problem to the producer and it should to the consumer. They carry millions of bacteria into milk, and when near manure piles are a very great menace to health.

"When it is possible for the consumer to get milk in bottles from a reliable source he should invariably do it."

He then spoke of the "Do'ts" and "Don'ts" for the consumer, the "Do'ts" being as follows:

Use bottles from the best source of supply, if possible.

Put the bottles in the ice box, the cellar or other cool, clean place as soon after receiving as possible.

Use clean receptacles.

Use cold water to wash the receptacles with at first. Later scald with hot water.

Keep the milk in the original retainers and put cap on or an inverted glass.

Have tight covers on retainers.

Avoid buying cheap milk, which is usually milk below standard or old milk.

Avoid buying milk at groceries or other places where varied kinds of supplies are on sale.

Keep the refrigerator clean. It should be scalded at least once a week.

Rinse the top of the bottle, after receiving and before using any milk.

The "Don'ts" are:

Don't use unclean utensils.

Don't put tickets in the milk cans. The boy who delivers the milk may have dirty hands.

Don't allow the sun to shine on the receptacle after the milk is delivered.

Don't use a towel or rag to wipe out the receptacle. Scald it and then let it dry off.

Should diphtheria, typhoid or scarlet fever break out in the family, don't return the bottles to the milk dealer without a physician's knowledge and under conditions prescribed by him.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

CHARLES F. BUCK REMEMBERED BY HIS FRIENDS

Mr. Charles F. Buck observed his 22d birthday yesterday at his home, 65 Pine street and his friends assisted him in observing it right. When the company had assembled Nathan C. Moulton, representing the members of Lodge 19, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, presented him a beautiful meerschaum pipe. He also received a gold mounted cane from friends at the Whitcall Mfg. company.

Refreshments were served and games were played, and a very pretty musical program was carried out.

Among the program numbers were a piano solo by Miss Daisy Labounty; "Camp Life," by Joseph Cunningham; "Songs My Mother Used to Sing," was sung by Mr. Joseph Perkins; a violin selection by Miss C. Raymond also made a great hit, and Mr. Brock sang "My Wife's Gone to the Country" with great effect. Mr. Moulton was accompanist. Miss Phillips gave some very good readings, and the party closed with everybody singing "America."

JUDGE MOORE

HAS MADE NEW RECORD AT HORSE SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—With horse show week drawing to its close, it became apparent last night that Judge William H. Moore has established a record never before equaled in the history of the National association. His 11 entries have thus far taken 10 firsts, six seconds and one third—a showing all the more remarkable in that C. W. Watson of Baltimore, who swept everything before him last summer at the International Horse show in London, and the open air meets on this side, has only one first, six seconds and six thirds to share among 18 entries, while Alfred and Reginald Vanderbilt, with 27 entries, have captured but two blues, seven seconds and seven thirds.

The lively interest in draught horses shown by the crowd is deemed a healthy symptom by breeders.

Mothers find Perry Davis' Painkiller invaluable in the nursery, and it should be kept at hand in case of accident. For pain in the breast take a little Painkiller in sweetened milk and water, bathing the breast in it clear at the same time. If the milk passages are clogged, from cold, or other causes, bathing in the Painkiller will give immediate relief. Ask for New 25c Bottle.

PASTOR MADE CHARGES

Against Haverhill Police Board and Hearing Was Held

HAVERHILL, Nov. 13.—The municipal council last night gave a hearing on charges preferred Nov. 4 by Rev. Frederick B. Greul, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, against the license board.

After counsel for the commission had admitted the facts set forth in the petition, which asked for the removal of the three members, the council took the matter under advisement and upon considering the evidence will render a verdict, probably not before next Thursday night.

The charges resolved themselves down to two points: First, that Haber F. McKenna, Herbert F. Taylor, and John M. Roche, as license commissioners, granted licenses to unfit persons, the specifications including the names of five persons who in the preceding no-license year had been convicted in the district court of a liquor law violation; and that the commission granted licenses to persons who did not have the premises from which they made application equipped with facilities to serve a meal.

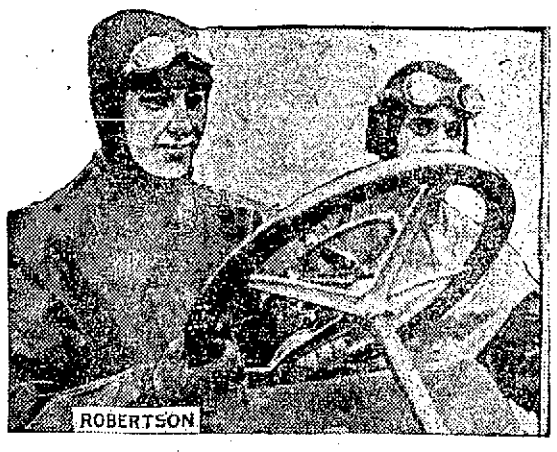

Boyd J. Jones and Judge John J. Ryan, appearing for the commissioners, agreed with Johnson and North, for Dr. Greul, that the facts were true in the main. Dr. Greul was called to testify, and he said his motives were inspired by nothing but for the good of the community.

Commissioner Taylor was put on the stand by Atty. Jones and admitted that he did not investigate the complaint upon which the five persons named as unfit had been convicted. He said, however, that he had been legally advised that the grant would stand all test.

Atty. Jones contended that the commissioners were the sole judges as to who the fit persons were; he said there had been nothing but a technical violation, which did not warrant the removal of the board. Atty. Johnson disagreed and demanded that the council vote to remove.

The hearing was spirited, there being several clashes between counsel; and at times the audience of some 500 persons broke out into thunderous applause as one lawyer or the other passed out some brilliant remark.

NEW AUTO RECORD

GEORGE H. ROBERTSON

Robertson Made 50 Miles in 40 Minutes, 14.40 Seconds

ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—Yesterday's automobile races reached their height when George H. Robertson, driving a 60 horse power Fiat, lowered the American track record for 50 miles by 4m. 7s. The previous record was held by John Aiken, who made the distance at Indianapolis in 44m. 21.2s. Aiken drove a National to second place in yesterday's race and Stillman to third in a Marmon, and both bettered the Indianapolis mark. Aiken made the distance in 43m. 11.41s. and Stillman in 45m. 30.56s. Robertson's time was 40m. 14.40s.

Eight cars started in the contest and five finished, despite the record breaking pace. Lewis Strang, piloting his 200 horse power Fiat, set a terrific pace in the first 17 miles, but in the 18th, as he was passing the judges' stand, the tire of the rear right wheel exploded, compelling his withdrawal. His time for the first 10 miles was 7m. 18.32s.

Strang traveled on an average of three seconds a mile faster than Robertson. On this basis it is figured that had he finished the race he would have gone the 50 miles in four minutes less than the time made by Robertson.

While on the 27th mile Harding, in an Apperson, made an attempt to escape from a pocket. Lorimer blew a tire, running against the fence and losing a wheel. Harding was about six feet behind when he also blew a tire, but managed to avoid running into his rival. Neither driver was injured.

A more serious accident occurred during the practice hour, when a specially designed and high powered Pope Toledo car was wrecked. H. J. Kilpatrick the driver, and R. Church, mechanician, were thrown 150 feet from their seats, but they fell in underbrush and escaped with slight injuries. The car was a total loss.

The blowing up of Strang's tire gave Robertson the lead at the end of the 20th mile. He was followed by Aiken, Harding, Lorimer, Stillman, Dingley and Disbrow. After the accident to Harding and Lorimer, Stillman occupied third place until he finished. The summary of the other races:

Twenty mile handicap, entries restricted to drivers and cars who had contested in the New York to Atlanta tour—Won by Benz (Stoecker), Matheson (Whalen), second, Renault (Shaab) third. Time 20m. 36.86s.

Twelve mile stock chassis—Won by National (Aiken), Chalmers-Detroit (Lorimer) second, Chalmers-Detroit (Dingley) third. Time 10m. 7.65s.

Ten mile handicap—Won by Marmon (Harroun), Chalmers-Detroit (Knipper) second, Chalmers-Detroit (Matson) third. Time 8m. 51.01s.

Six mile stock car—Won by Fiat (Robertson), National (Aiken) second, Apperson (Dingley) third. Time 4m. 43.41s.

Twenty-four mile amateur—Won by John Rutherford in a Stearns, J. P. Riser in a Pope-Hartford second. Time 20m. 35.25s.

Two mile free for all—Won by Strang, Christie second, Robertson third. Time 1m. 34.37s.

A $200,000 GIFT

To the Academy at Strafford, N. H.

MARLBORO, Nov. 13.—By the death of Mrs. Della E. Cate the trustees of the academy at Strafford, N. H., will soon come into the possesson of about $200,000. Mrs. Cate was the wife of George N. Cate, who died several years ago. He was for years one of the city's most successful business men, and when he died he left an estate valued at about $250,000. During her life Mrs. Cate was to have the interest accruing from the possessions of her husband, and at her death the property not otherwise disposed of was to go to the trustees of the academy referred to, which is located in the native town of Mr. Cate.

When a lad, poor but desirous of getting an education, there were certain opportunities given Mr. Cate at the academy which came to him as a very welcome surprise, and he many times declared that if he ever accumulated enough to make it an object the little educational institution in his native town would be remembered. He was very fond of rehearsing to his friends how much he appreciated what had been done for him by the academy trustees when he was a youth.

Mrs. Cate left a personal estate valued at about $20,000. Of that amount one-seventh, in accordance with the provisions of her will, will go to the Marlboro hospital, one-seventh to the Ladies' Charitable society connected with the Unitarian church of this city. The other beneficiaries will be relatives. She left a number of very valuable books, and some of these will be given to the public library, as provided in her will.

EX-SEC. CARLISLE

Said to Have Passed Comfortable Night

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of the late President Grover Cleveland, was reported this morning at St. Vincent's hospital in this city where he is a patient, to have passed a good night and to be resting comfortably.

That the ex-secretary, now 74, has been and still is seriously ill was learned today, although it is stated that he is in no immediate danger. The hospital authorities and his physicians at first would discuss his case only guardedly, but this morning an authoritative expression as to the nature of his malady and his present condition was obtained.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant in charge of Mr. Carlisle's case and the hospital physicians authorized the following statement:

"Mr. Carlisle has an attack of acute intestinal obstruction associated with chronic kidney complications. No operation was performed. He is resting quietly and is apparently in no immediate danger."

Nearly sixty cases were passed on by board during the day and a number of others on the calendar were referred by Secretary John F. Farrell for future decision. At the closing session of the board the claim of Bridgeport, Connecticut, against Goldsboro, N. C., was allowed.

The application of the Cactus league of Texas with headquarters at El Paso, Texas, was favorably acted upon.

Pennsylvania is to have a new state league.

SUPREME COURT

Decided That Judge Dana Erred

The full bench of the supreme court yesterday sustained the defendant's exceptions in the cross suits of George E. Searle vs. the Roman Catholic bishop of Springfield, holding that Judge Dana erred in excluding from the jury any Roman Catholic.

Under the ruling of Judge Dana two jurors were excluded from the panel. The actions related to the title of a building on land that had been acquired by Bishop Beaven on Union street, Easthampton, as a site for a church.

When the case came up for trial counsel for the plaintiff asked the judge to rule that a Roman Catholic could not sit on the jury, on the ground that the defendant was the Roman Catholic bishop of Springfield, a corporation sole under the acts of 1898, who held the title to the real estate in trust for the Roman Catholic church and that such jurors had an interest in the suit analagous to that which taxpayers have in a suit against the city or town in which they reside.

The supreme court says:

"It is not contended, and it could not successfully be contended, that holding the same religious belief as one of the parties, or affiliation with him in the same church, would disqualify a person from sitting as a juror in his case. The application of such a doctrine would be unjust and impracticable.

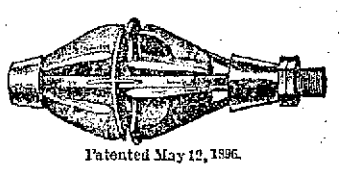

"The real estate held by the defendant is in the town of Easthampton, and it was bought as a site for a church. The excluded jurors were not taxpayers in that town, and it may be assumed that they were not members of the parish that was expected to use the church. The ruling applied to all jurors of the Roman Catholic faith, without reference to their residence or to any close affiliation with the local church."

The court holds the ruling was a violation of the statutory provision and of the defendant's right to have the excluded men sit as jurors unless challenged by the plaintiff.

The court is of opinion that the ruling was an injury to the defendant, which entitles him to a new trial. In the superior court a jury returned a verdict of $800 for the plaintiff, but a new trial will be held.

MILLS IN BILLERICA

Are Enjoying a Very Prosperous Season Just Now

While the mills in this city, and in fact nearly all the mills throughout New England, are curtailing, just a few miles out of Lowell—North Billerica.—the Talbot and Faulkner mills are running on full time, and in the Talbot mills several departments are running overtime in order to balance up.

Both mills have found this year a very prosperous one and with the number of orders on hand at the present time and prospective orders there is nothing that would indicate that there will be any curtailment in either mill for a long time at least.

The Talbot Mill

The Talbot mill, which is the larger of the two corporations in North Billerica, besides furnishing plenty of work, also looks after the interests of the employe. The management has from time to time offered special inducements to the employes in order to show the latter that their work is appreciated.

Among the many advantages and inducements offered to the employes of the Talbot mills are up-to-date houses at reasonable rates, special prizes for the care of gardens and lawns about those houses, reading room, library, dining room, and many other things, including pensions.

Savings Bank Insurance

Now the management of the mill has gone a little further in its effort to assist its employes and in the course of a short time a savings bank insurance will be in operation.

G. S. Hutchinson of Boston addressed a number of the employes of the company last Tuesday evening relative to the new plan under which the Massachusetts legislature has authorized savings banks to issue various forms of life insurance policies under such conditions that the rates are lower than those of the regular companies.

Yesterday the following notices were distributed to the employes of the mill: "To the Employes of the Talbot Mills:

"The legislature of Massachusetts has authorized savings banks to issue various forms of life insurance policies under such conditions that the rates are lower than those of the regular companies.

"Believing that this kind of life insurance is a perfectly safe investment and also that it is most desirable for wage earners to make such provision for their families, or for their old age, we have decided to act as agent for the banks issuing these policies. We shall do this without compensation from any source, and shall willingly bear the expense involved in order that we may assist our employes in the following ways:

"1. Securing full information about the matter.

"2. In taking out policies if they wish to.

"3. In forwarding to the banks their monthly payments.

"With this object we have engaged Mr. G. S. Hutchinson to come to the mill on Monday, Nov. 15, and to remain as many days as may be necessary to give all who wish an opportunity to talk with him. He is fully competent to explain the various kinds of insurance, and after receiving the information, there will not be the slightest obligation to apply for a policy if you do not wish to.

"If you are interested in the subject, please sign the enclosed card and give to the overseer of your department. He will notify you when you can leave your work to talk with Mr. Hutchinson.

"Yours truly,
"Talbot Mills,
"Frederick S. Clark, Pres."

Purchasing Outside Yarn

President Frederci S. Clark, of the Talbot mills, in conversatoin with a representative of The Sun yesterday afternoon stated that the future outlook is very good and that there is every reason to believe that this year will be a very successful one from an industrial standpoint.

At the present time the mill is running "full" in every department and the card room is being run overtime. In order to keep up with orders it is necessary for the mill to purchase outside yarn.

During the present year the company has substituted new and up-to-date looms to take the place of some older ones.

The Faulkner Mill

Agent W. A. Evans of the Faulkner mill also had good news. Business at this plant has been very good and Mr. Evans does not anticipate any change in the conditions. Orders have been given for a number of new Knowles looms which will be installed within a short time. The management is also seriously considering the advisability of installing a new boiler in the power plant of the mill.

Father Mathew T. A. S.

The 22d anniversary of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence society will be observed tonight in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall. Extensive arrangements have been made for the event.

Among the speakers who will deliver addresses are Edward F. Slattery, James O'Sullivan, Rev. John Foley, O. M. I., J. Nelson Parker, Charles H. Kohlrausch, Hugh J. Molloy and others.

The exercises will open with a banquet at 6.30 o'clock.

A STAR KICKER

Cunningham of Princeton is a Wonder

PRINCETON, Nov. 13.—In years to come when the football experts are discussing the merits of the different star kickers the name of Cunningham, Princeton's clever halfback and sensational toe artist, will always be mentioned. When the value of the field goal was reduced from four to three points last winter many were inclined to believe that this move would discourage goal kicking. Such is not the case, however, and the man with the educated toe is as much feared now as he ever was. Several times this season Cunningham's booting has been instrumental in helping the Tigers to win over their opponents. In the game against Fordham university it was heady work on the part of the clever toe of Cunningham that saved the Tigers from being played to a scoreless tie. With but a few minutes left to play in the second half of the game Princeton recovered the ball on a fumble. Cunningham was called upon to drive the oval over the crossbar for the three points that meant saving his team from the ignominy of a tie with a supposedly weaker eleven, and he was equal to the task. In the game with Yale the slogan was, "Watch Cunningham and his educated toe!"

THANKSGIVING DAY

Proclamation Was Issued by Gov. Eben S. Draper

Gov. Draper yesterday designated Thursday, Nov. 25, as Thanksgiving day in a proclamation as follows:

By His Excellency
Eben S. Draper
Governor.
A Proclamation
For a Day of Public
Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient custom, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the 25th day of November, as Thanksgiving day.

Annually, since colonial days, the people of the commonwealth have observed a day of thanksgiving for the mercies which have been vouchsafed to them by Almighty God.

No year has been more appropriate for such an observance than this year of 1909. In material things we have cause for thanksgiving, because our people are prosperous. What is of more importance is that liberty of conscience, which caused the settlement of the Massachusetts colony, has been preserved in the laws of the commonwealth and is believed in by the people.

We have great cause to be thankful that the people of this day and generation recognize peculiarly their obligations to each other, and the strong and well-to-do are giving of their strength and means to help their less fortunate neighbors.

May all the people take some time of this day to thank Almighty God for the blessings which have been so bountifully showered on the United States as a nation, and Massachusetts as a commonwealth.

Given at the council chamber this third day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nine, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-fourth.

Eben S. Draper.

SCHOOL CENSUS

The Work of Taking It Has Been Completed

The work of taking the school census including children between the ages of five and fifteen years, was completed a few days ago. The census was taken by the truant officers and janitors, nine in all, and a man to every ward. The work of taking the school census is quite a formidable task, a fact quickly realized when one stops to think that every house in the city is visited by the census takers and in some instances they have hard work to have parents understand their mission and the information that is required. The census taker could spin some funny yarns if he wanted to and occasionally he does. The laugh is on one fellow who called at a house and was met at the door by a German woman. "Have you any children between the ages of five and fifteen years?" he asked. "Nein," replied the woman. Nein is the German for no, but the census taker wasn't up on German and he thought she meant that she had nine children and that's the way he booked it.

The census by wards for this year is as follows: Ward 1, 943; ward 2, 1695; ward 3, 1357; ward 4, 1623; ward 5, 1326; ward 6, 3253; ward 7, 1511; ward 8, 1248; ward 9, 1715. Total, 14,710—an increase of 146 over last year, the total last year being 14,594. These census include the public and parochial schools, and ward 6 is the ward that shows the big gain. The total of that ward last year was 2,905 and this year it is 3353.

BOWLING RECORD

Broken by Catholic League Teams

Bowling records were shattered to the winds last night when the St. Peter's and C. M. A. C. teams of the Catholic league met on the alleys. The St. Peter's team won by the narrow margin of four pins. Both teams rolled over the 1400 mark, the winning team having a total of 1447.

The single string team record of 517 made by the C. M. A. C. is also a new record as are the single of 148 and triple of 352 by McCarty of the winning team.

There were several other good games played including contests in the Manufacturers, Lamson and other leagues. The scores:

THE LOWELL CLUB

To Get $500 For Sale of Venable

MEMPHIS, Nov. 14.—The petition of Johnstown, Pa., to enforce the sale of player Wilkes by Lowell, Mass. to Johnstown was allowed by the arbitration board yesterday.

The claims of Wheeling, W. Va. and Lowell, Mass. relatives to the sale of Player Venable for $1000 were adjusted by each club being allowed $500 as it was shown both had an equity on the player. A reprimand was issued to both clubs for failing to file with Secretary Farrell, the sale of Venable.

STREET WORK

DEPARTMENT ABOUT FINISHED FOR THE YEAR

The street and sewer departments are about finished with their outdoor work, a few small sewers and a stretch of paving in Bridge street being all the work remaining to be done.

The street department expected to finish the Bridge street job this year, but has been waiting on the Locks and Canals company, which is to put a new bridge over the canal at the Massachusetts mills. The Locks and Canals company has failed to put in the bridge and hence the paving cannot be done this year.

NEW SPANISH TREATY

Raises Question Between United States and Cuba

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Through the U. S. minister in Havana the state department has called upon the Cuban government for a statement intended to disclose whether or not the newly negotiated treaty between Spain and Cuba constitutes such an arrangement as would destroy the preferential treatment granted American imports into Cuba under the existing reciprocity treaty. The continuance of this treaty, which has done much to foster trade between Cuba and America, depends probably upon the nature of this answer.

Under the terms of the reciprocity treaty, United States imports into Cuba were to be granted a preferential rate ranging between 25 and 40 per cent, in return for a like preferential rate of 20 per cent on Cuban goods coming into the United States. Now news comes from Madrid that Spain has practically completed a new treaty with Cuba, allowing an abatement of 60 per cent on Cuban imports into Spain in return for concessions of a like nature of Spanish goods entering Cuba.

PETER DELOREY

Says That His Confession Was All a Lie

For three hours and sixteen minutes yesterday Peter Delorey was on the witness stand denying the "confession" which he made to the police in the North Cambridge police station the night of April 2, 1909, relating to the murder of Annie Mullins.

For three hours of that time he was under the rigid questioning of District Attorney Higgins.

Delorey declared he had not been warned by the police that what he might say would be used against him at the trial.

"Lieut. Gordon said James Mantir had confessed he had cut Annie Mullins' throat and that I was with him, so I said the same thing about him," declared Delorey.

"I was frightened," he said. "When I denied I knew anything about it, Lieut. Gordon said I was lying. Then my aunt told her story. I was frightened and I cried. They kept telling me I was lying and that the Greek had confessed. Finally I said 'Yes' it was true. I don't remember all of the story I told."

Witness is Nervous

There was a noticeable difference between Mantir's attitude while testifying and that of Delorey. While Mantir was at all times cool and quiet, Delorey was plainly nervous and ill at ease.

His eyes were glistening with tears once during the cross examination. District Attorney Higgins began to question him about the alleged confession. Standing close in front of Delorey with outstretched hand and finger pointing accusingly at his face, the prosecutor went over the narrative, sentence by sentence, and asked: "Did you tell Mr. Gordon and Mr. Byrnes that?"

"I don't remember that I did," Delorey would reply, and District Attorney Higgins would come back each time: "Will you say that you did not?" and Delorey would answer: "I will not."

The largest crowd since the trial opened was in the courtroom and thronging the building and yard during the day. They literally fought for admission in their anxiety to see Delorey and hear him retract his "confession."

Mantir Recalled

District Attorney Higgins recalled Mantir to ask about scenes at the North Cambridge police station, where Delorey "confessed."

"Did Peter cry?" he was asked.

Mantir looked at Peter Delorey in the cage, smiling, then bobbing his head up and down and puckering his face humorously, sniffed: "Like that," he said, laughing.

"Did you say at any time: 'Me no talk'?" demanded District Attorney Higgins.

Mantir flared up: "I not say it in that way. I said: 'How can I go with girl that time when I can't speak good English?'"

When Peter Delorey was first put on the stand by Lawyer McDermott for direct examination his replies were scarcely audible.

Coming to the day of Annie Mullins' death, March 27, 1908, Delorey said he left the farm of his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Delorey, in the morning with some cranberries, gold stones sent to Boston for assay by Mrs. Delorey, and a valise.

"I got off the car at North Cambridge," said Delorey, "and went into the pool room a little while and then I went to my aunt's, Mrs. Alma Delorey, at 33 Dudley street, to leave half the cranberries. Then I went home about noon with the rest of the cranberries.

"That afternoon I went to North Cambridge again and about 4 o'clock I started for Boston to see Mr. Harding. The next morning I got up about 6 o'clock and went in to Boston after breakfast. I met Mr. Harding on Union street at 7 o'clock on the way to the Central market on North street. I worked all day in his stall."

Retracts Confession

Attorney Frank McDermott asked him: "At the time you were in the station house with Officers Gordon and Byrnes did you tell them you were with James Mantir in Marathon Field at the time Annie Mullins was killed?"

"I did," answered Delorey instantly.

Everyone started up expectantly as the lawyer continued, "And was it true?"

Delorey straightened up, and with his arms folded across his breast faced the jury. "It was not," he answered.

"Your witness," said Mr. McDermott, facing toward the district attorney.

District Attorney Higgins began his cross-examination at 12.08. Delorey declared he had been in Marathon field but once in his life and that time he merely crossed it. He said he did not know there was a depression in it. This is the gully at the edge of which Annie Mullins' body was found. When District Attorney Higgins asked him what happened at the time of his arrest he replied: "Which time?"

"Why, were you arrested more than once?" flashed back the prosecutor. "I was," answered Delorey. "I was arrested in February for loitering in North Cambridge and fined $5."

A copy of the court record was then introduced by the prosecutor showing that he had been arrested and fined on March 9, 1908, instead of in February as he stated.

Delorey declared Lieutenant Gordon did not say, "I think you are not telling the truth," when the witness denied last spring that he had been with Annie Mullins, but said: "I think you are lying."

He declared Gordon told him Mantir had confessed and said Peter helped him.

"Then you said you would tell the truth?" asked District Attorney Higgins. "I did," replied Delorey.

"And you began to tell the truth?"

"I did not."

"Then what you said was all lies made out of whole cloth?"

"Yes."

THEY'RE ELECTED

Town Clerks Vouch for Stevens and Cuff

Town Clerk Brennan of Dracut met with City Clerk Dadman at city hall yesterday and after canvassing the returns of the 14th representative district both formally declared George H. Stevens to be the regularly elected representative from that district. Of course George was wise to the fact before, but he couldn't get his name on the payroll until the clerks endorsed him.

Town Clerks Chandler of Tewksbury and King of Billerica also met with the city clerk and canvassed the returns of the 19th decstrict, after which they allowed that Tommy Cuff had won something. Then the city clerk showed them his town and they all went home happy in the full performance of their duty.

A NEW BRIDGE

To be Built Between Hudson and Nashua

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 13.—Another conference between the Nashua board of public works and the selectmen of Hudson was held at the city hall here last night and resulted in placing the preparations for the proposed new bridge in better shape. The report from the engineer engaged by the town of Hudson to examine the bridge was read.

Contrary to rumors, this report declares that the bridge could be put into condition for ordinary traffic for weights not exceeding five tons for from $4500 to $7500 and states that the bridge was not designed for street car travel and cannot be made to stand up under heavy interurban cars.

A sub-committee, consisting of Arthur W. Dean and Erwin O. Hathaway of the Nashua board and James P. Howe and Kimball Webster of Hudson was appointed, with Mr. Dean as chairman and Mr. Hathaway as secretary. The four are empowered to make preparations for a new bridge and secure figures as near as possible. The sub-committee will proceed as far as it can without the authority to make contracts and ask for bids.

The Hudson selectmen hope to secure an attendance at the adjourned special town meeting next Wednesday to take action on an appropriation for the town's part of the work.

INTERURBAN ROAD

Counsel Coolidge Puts the Blame Up to the Commissioners

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The state board of railroad commissioners yesterday began the hearing of final arguments as to the necessity of a high speed electric railroad between Boston, Lowell and Lawrence.

Counsel Coolidge, for the Boston & Maine, occupied practically the entire forenoon in his argument, devoting himself principally to the contention that the railroad commissioners are at fault if transportation facilities in this district are not what they should be. It is the sworn duty of the board he said, in case it finds existing transportation systems are not what they should be, to recommend improvements, and having failed to do this, the board now has not the right to inject into this territory a new system to tap the Boston & Maine's business, and render that company less able to give to the public the character of service it has a right to expect.

City Solicitor Frank W. Kaan of Somerville argued that no public necessity has been shown for the construction of such a road through that city.

At the afternoon session James F. Jackson, ex-chairman of the railroad commission, made the closing argument for the petitioners. He called attention to the statement made to the board at a former hearing by Pres. Dumaine of the Boston railroad holding company, which he said was a statement carefully prepared and studied as to its contents. Mr. Dumaine even going to the extreme of asking the newspaper men to use great care in reporting him. This statement, Mr. Jackson said, really contained nothing except an assertion that the Boston & Maine will make such improvements as it thinks necessary, just as it has always done.

Mr. Jackson reviewed the evidence presented in favor of the new project, stating that no one denies that it will be a public benefit to some extent; the question for the commission to determine is whether its benefits outweigh the damages it will cause, and if they find to this effect, then the petitioners are entitled to the certificate they pray for.

At the opening today the stocks opened up, and the steady gait which was assumed yesterday was present, and the prices took leap after leap. Trading was the best of any session held this week and the closing at noon gave the opinion to many that a very strong and aggressive market may be looked for Monday. The stocks which practically have been the buying and selling basis of the week, although holding the place attained on the sheet during the early part of the week were not as lively today, and they seemed to give way to the element of the entire list of stocks. Irregularity prevailed as was expected and the greatest selling occurred when drives were formed. Buying was mostly for trading and not for investment and this fact lent some assistance to the sheet which may have injured the situation had the stocks been held for increases.

IN THE OPENING PRICES OF STOCKS

Gains and Losses Were Quite Equally Divided—The Copper Stocks Showed Notable Strength—Railroad Stocks Not Materially Altered From Yesterday's Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The changes shown by the opening prices of stocks were insignificant and dealings very light. Gains and losses were quite equally divided. Butterick Publishing rose 1⅛ and Utah Copper ½. Interborough-Met. declined ⅛.

A firm tone permeated the market, the copper stocks showing notable strength. Utah Copper was bought in round amounts up to 57⅞ a gain of 1⅛. Advances in other stocks of this class was less noteworthy. Railroad stocks were not materially altered from yesterday's final prices.

The market closed firm and active. The movement in the coppers was the only feature. The rise in Utah Copper reached 6⅝. Tenn. Copper 2 and Amal. Copper 1⅞.

Boston Copper Market

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—On broad active trading local copper stocks advanced sharply today with Butte stocks leading. The close was at the highest. North Butte 60¾, up ½; Butte Coalition 30¾, up 1; Utah Consolidated 46, up 1½.

Copper continued to be the stock favored most by the traders this morning and the activity which was manifest in this section gave rise to the rumor that an old fashioned copper market was being nursed. Cole-Ryan and the Guggenheim holdings were the stocks where the activity was particularly noticeable but it was thought that the entire copper situation would be helped materially in the rallies. Amalgamated and the Smelters were the buyers of the session and while not making much headway on the list they presented some life which the stocks have not enjoyed for some time.

In the presence of the money rates being announced at a stiff discount and the prospects of a poor bank statement coming out today, the afternoon hours of yesterday's market proved to be the most profitable that the market has observed for a long time. From an unprofitable and uninteresting session it developed prices which were really astonishing for the short space of time. Rallies were found and the stock prices went soaring upward and the sheet which during the morning hours of the session had been a repetition of the previous days' experience, took on the new change and every stock of any importance was sent on a good buying scale. The stocks which benefited most by the change of affairs were the industrials, copper and steel.

The Money Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $6,769,000 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule; this is an increase of $1,726,425 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week. The statement follows:

Loans, decrease, $20,731,500.
Deposits, decrease, $26,672,500.
Circulation, decrease, $55,500.
Legal tenders, increase, $37,400.
Specie, decrease, $4,974,100.
Surplus reserve $6,769,000, increase $1,726,425.

Ex U. S. deposits $7,187,175, increase $1,737,850.

The percentage of actual reserve of the clearing house banks today was 25.94.

The statement of banks and trust companies of Greater New York not reporting to the clearing house shows that these institutions have aggregate deposits of $1,251,897,700; total cash on hand $143,961,000 and loans amounting to $1,202,283,300.

Prime mercantile paper 5 to 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm at 483.15 @483.35 for sixty days and at 487.35 for demand. Commercial bills 482½@483. Bar silver 50¾. Mexican dollars 42. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds heavy. Money on call nominal; no loans. Time loans strong; sixty days 5¼ and 90 days 5@5¼ per cent; six months 5 per cent. Exchanges, $372,456,395; balances, $12,063,054. For the week: Exchanges, $2,251,992,195; balances, $87,561,128.

Favorabe news was heard on all sides and the announcement of the securing of $4,000,000 in gold by the Bank of England was welcomed. The centre of anxiety this morning, was the wiping out of the surplus reserves being held in New York. In the event of the rate of discount being increased to 6 per cent, however, it will enable the bank to show and increase in the list. Although the money market may attain higher rates next week it will not injure the market and the prices will not be lowered any in change.

WINSTON CHURCHILL ATTACKED

BRISTOL, Eng., Nov. 13.—A wild-eyed suffragette, armed with a horsewhip, attacked Winston Spencer Churchill here this afternoon and it was only after a struggle that the woman was repulsed. Churchill and his wife had just arrived by train and were leaving the railroad station when a woman suddenly darted out from the crowd and commenced to belabor the cabinet member with a rawhide. Churchill promptly seized his assailant and succeeded in wrenching the whip from her hands after a sharp struggle during which the two barely escaped falling from the platform to the tracks below. The militant suffragette was arrested and imprisoned. She refused to give her name.

In Case That is Being Heard in Taunton

TAUNTON, Nov. 13.—The million-dollar will case involving the admission to probate of the will of Elizabeth F. Noble of Mansfield was opened in the probate court here yesterday morning before Judge Fuller. Heirs from a dozen or more states were present in person or represented by counsel in the attempt to set aside bequests of $700,000 to various charitable societies. Mrs. Noble was 94 at the time of her death and 83 when she made the will. It is contended that she was not of sound mind when the will was executed.

Jennings, Morton & Brayton appeared for William Kindall, a legatee; Clarence J. Shearn of New York appeared for Elizabeth Johnson; Rhodes, Gray & Gorham appeared for penal charities, and Henry M. Rogers appeared for the other charities. Albert E Pillsbury also appeared, and several others of the counsel for individual legatees.

Counsel McClellan, for the will, outlined the case. Mrs. Noble's charitable bequests, he said, were in accord with the sympathies expressed during her lifetime. When the will was made it appeared to Mrs. Noble that the residue was larger than she had anticipated. A provision was inserted in the will that if the residue was larger than $40,000, six other charitable societies were to be remembered.

Witnesses to the will were called in the persons of Mrs. Marion Moultrop of Mansfield, Mrs. Alma M. Hagerty and Charles G. Hagerty.

Mr. Hagerty was questioned at length, and, in reply to a query, said the estimated value of the estate was $812,598.56. Asked what other wills he had found, Mr. Hagerty said the first instrument he found was in a box sent to him after the death of his client. It was executed in New York, March 15, 1892, and the next in order of date was a will purporting to be executed Oct. 24, 1896, at witness' office in Mansfield. Witness did not draw the will, but Mrs. Noble said that she had it written in New York, and wanted Mr. Hagerty to witness the execution.

Witness proceeded to testify to the various wills, and at adjournment this afternoon it was announced the hearing would be resumed on Monday. Many fashionably dressed women from various states were in attendance at the hearing.

The institutions which will benefit should the will be upheld by the court are the New York Society for Improving the Conditions of the Poor, the Children's Aid Society of the City of New York, the New York Ladies' Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the American Humane Education society of Boston and the State Association of the Young Men's Christian Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

U.S. GOVERNMENT

Spends $18,000,000 in Experimental Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Secretary Wilson has issued a statement pointing out that the United States government is spending in the neighborhood of $18,000,000 a year on experimental work in increasing the yield and efficiency of the farms of the country. The statement was inspired by the charge made by William C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines at a dinner in New York this week that the nation could better afford to invest the cost of one battleship in agricultural experiment work than to expend it in the increase of the navy. A battleship costs approximately $9,000,000.

Secretary Wilson declares that the government is expending each year exactly twice as much as two first class battleships cost and the money is being used in precisely the manner recommended by President Brown.

The assistance given the farmers of the United States, the secretary declared, is not confined to any locality. As an instance of the aid the department renders, Secretary Wilson recited the case of a farmer who was raising only twenty bushels of potatoes to the acre and who, dissatisfied, appealed to the department for assistance and advice. Both were given him promptly and Mr. Wilson says he now is raising two hundred and fifty bushels to the acre on the same land as a result of the seed and information given him by the government.

THE HORSE SHOW

Will Come to a Close Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Children's morning opened the last day of the National Horse show. Successful far beyond the shows of recent years and up to the mark of the best of previous exhibitions, the Madison Square garden show of 1909 will close tonight with the awards of the various championships. Winners in the various classes will parade for the distinctive honor, an exhibition which always brings out the multitude.

It would be difficult, however, to crowd the amphitheatre more than it has been crowded nearly every night of the show.

During this morning in the presence of a big assemblage of children, the ponies in harness and under saddle were put through their paces. Driving horses took a prominent part in the afternoon program. The last of the international contests was decided last night. The British officers won it and with it the majority of these events three wins to two for the American army officers.

THE ARCHBISHOP

Issues a Circular Letter to Pastors

Next Tuesday will be the 25th anniversary of the consecration of Pope Pius X as bishop of Mantua, and in observance of the silver jubilee period of the sovereign pontiff's life, the Most Rev. Wm. H. O'Connell has issued a circular letter to the pastors of the Boston archdiocese which will be read in all the churches Sunday morning.

The letter reads as follows:

Reverend and Dear Father —On Tuesday, Nov. 16, our holy father, Pope Pius X, will celebrate the silver jubilee of his consecration as a bishop.

Everything that concerns the sacred person of His Holiness naturally awakens the deepest interest in our hearts, and on this occasion I know that you will all show your great affection for our reigning pontiff by offering mass and asking for prayers of the faithful that God may bless our Holy Father and strengthen him to carry out the great and wise plans he has inaugurated of "Restoring all things in Christ."

W. H. O'Connell,
Archbishop of Boston.

STABBED BY GIRL

Young Woman Went to Aid of Companion

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—John J. Sullivan, 26, of 71 Dover street, was taken to the City hospital yesterday morning with wounds received from a girl who fled in a taxicab with another man after stabbing Sullivan.

According to Sullivan, the man who was walking with the girl made an offensive remark to him near Washington and Castle street. He retorted and the man hit him. A scuffle followed and Sullivan was having the best of it when the girl stuck the blade of a knife into his back.

The girl's hands were covered with blood and her companion called a taxicab and they drove off.

Court Allows That Sum to a Baby

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—That a three year old baby cannot get along without an income of $15,000 a year, if she is heiress to an estate worth $320,000 and yielding an income of nearly $20,000 a year, was the dictum laid down by Judge Truax in the supreme court yesterday.

The lucky baby is Althea Rudd Ward, daughter of T. Edwin Ward and grand-daughter of the late George Rudd. When the grandfather died he left an estate valued at $640,000, of which little Althea was made the legatee of one-half.

Thomas Dimond, general guardian of the little girl, was made defendant in yesterday's action, the father being the plaintiff. He set forth that a child brought up in the surroundings to which little Althea had been accustomed could not live properly and be educated and reared as she should be on less than $15,000 a year. Judge Truax took the same view of the matter and ordered her father be paid $15,000 a year from the estate.

The Weston was lying at anchor, waiting to enter the Soo locks when the Hope rammed her port side.

PRICE OF EGGS.

At present fresh eggs are 55 cents a dozen, and the supply even at that price is quite limited. Here is an object lesson for farmers on the necessity of raising poultry. It seems that the farmers of this state could make money by raising poultry for the production of eggs which always command a good price in the local markets.

PENSIONS FOR RAILWAY EMPLOYES.

Apart from an improved system there is nothing that will tend more to decrease the number of accidents on railroads than good treatment of the employes. In this connection it is gratifying to find the Boston and Maine, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central railroads establishing pension systems for their employes. Good wages, reasonably short hours and pensions after a certain period of faithful service should inspire the employes to do all in their power to prevent accidents.

RESIGNING UNDER FIRE.

Rather than pass through the ordeal of a hearing on charges of irregularity conflicting with rule 19 of the police department, Officer Hersey has resigned. It is reported, however, that he will apply for a reinstatement within six months. If an officer can evade punishment for any offense committed, by resigning and then making application to get back with any prospect of success, it is time the police department made a rule to prevent any such abuse. The charge against Officer Hersey has been placed on file in the police department, but should he hereafter make application for reinstatement, it would depend largely upon the police board then in office whether these charges would be brought up against him.

THE DISGRACE OF ILLINOIS.

It would be impossible to conceive of a more blood-thirsty and barbarous mob of citizens than that which lynched negro James, hanging him to a telegraph pole, piercing his body with bullets and then dragging it nearly a mile to be publicly burned. The head was cut off and elevated upon a stake and the heart was cut out and cut in pieces to be given as souvenirs to the mob.

Was ever such barbarity witnessed in a civilized land? When this tragedy had been completed, another prisoner, a white man, was taken from prison and lynched with somewhat less cruelty.

Not only the city of Cairo and the state of Illinois are disgraced by this outrage but the entire country. Governor Dineen sends troops to the scene but that will not prevent a repetition of the outbreak whenever a murder is committed.

If leaders in these lynching mobs were brought to justice and hanged there would be fewer such outbreaks in the future, but while Governor Dineen sends troops to Cairo, he does not institute an investigation that might result in the arrest of the ringleaders.

THE APPLE CROP NEGLECTED.

Among other crops neglected in New England is the apple crop which, according to the best authorities, might be made one of the best assets of the New England farmer. The farmers of past generations planted some orchards here and these bear the greater part of the apple crop of New England. The trees are old and rotting. They receive very little attention and little in the line of pruning, protection against the moth pests or any assistance in the enrichment of the soil.

It is estimated that with proper care and cultivation the sum of $300 an acre can be easily made from apples at the present prices. This, of course, would require special cultivation and attention.

There is a great deal of waste land that might easily be converted into apple orchards. Of course an apple tree, like every other tree that bears fruit, requires a soil in which there is some nourishment or plant food. There are many tracts of waste land abundantly rich to grow apples, and if apple trees were planted in such places, in a short time they would prove quite profitable. Worcester county, in this state, has the credit of being the best county for apples. Other counties could do equally well if the farmers paid special attention to the cultivation of apples. There is scarcely any crop that can be raised with as little cost as apples, once the trees have reached maturity.

THE CANDIDATES ASSAIL EACH OTHER.

We notice with regret that some of the democratic candidates for mayor are becoming quite personal in their remarks relative to one another. In doing this they are laying the foundation for democratic defeat, because they are furnishing ammunition to be used against their own party by republicans. Until within the past few days the canvass was conducted quietly and without personal attacks, but now it seems a different policy is being pursued by some of the candidates. The candidates who do this must realize that they are sowing dragons' teeth that may rise into armed men to strike them down on election day.

Let the candidates who address large audiences at the mill gates, on the street corners and elsewhere, remember that they owe an obligation to their party not to adopt a course that may make victory at the polls impossible. When a candidate is defeated for the nomination he may promise support to the man who bitterly assailed him but he finds it a difficult thing to do and he cannot force his friends to support the nominee, try he ever so hard.

The people of Lowell, regardless of party, look to the democrats for redemption from the humiliating conditions that have prevailed during the present year. It is the duty of democrats to select their strongest man as candidate for mayor and then unite as never before for his election. The man who undertakes to deal out abuse against this or that candidate is only helping to make his own election impossible, even though nominated, thereby helping to elect the republican candidate.

OASIS.

Let them go by—the heats, the doubts, the strife;
I can sit here and care not for them now,
Dreaming beside the glimmering wave of life
Once more—I know not how.

There is a murmur in my heart, I hear
Faint, oh, so faint, some air I used to sing;
It stirs my sense and odors dim and dear
The meadow breezes bring.

Just this way did the quiet twilights fade
Over the fields and happy homes of men,
While one bird sang as now, piercing the shade,
Long since—I know not when.

THY WILL BE DONE

Not in dumb resignation
We lift our hands on high;
Not like the nerveless fatalist
Content to trust and die.
Our faith springs like the eagle
Who soars to meet the sun,
And cries, exulting, unto Thee,
O Lord, Thy will be done!

When Tyrant feet are trampling
Upon the common weal,
Thou dust not bid us bend and writhe
Beneath the iron heel,
In Thy name we assert our right
By sword or tongue or pen,
And even the headsman's axe may flash
Thy message unto men.

Thy will! It bids the weak be strong
It bids the strong be just;
No lip to fawn, no hand to beg,
No brow to seek the dust,
Wherever man oppresses man
Beneath Thy liberal sun,
O Lord be there, thine arm made bare.
Thy righteous will be done!

The society woman who entertains much will appreciate a little story that is laid at the door of Count von Moltke. The count one evening invited to his home a large number of friends and acquaintances. Some of these people he had met but recently and among the number were two brothers who were members of the general staff. The count, as he strolled from group to group, tried to recall the names of these officers, whom he desired to welcome personally, but his memory failed him utterly. He could not even remember how or when or where he had met them. He might of course, have asked some of his other guests who the gentlemen were, but that would have been confessing that he did not know whom he was entertaining, which, of course did not appeal to him to be good policy. He decided, therefore, to ascertain from the men themselves who they were. Accordingly, he approached a group of officers among whom was one of his two unidentified guests and joined in the conversation there. Awaiting a favorable opportunity, the count explained. The questioned officer looked in the direction indicated: "Oh," he said. "Why, your excellency, that is my brother." "Certainly! Of course! Why, how stupid of me!" the count explained as he made a smiling retreat. It was some time before he gained courage to approach the "tall officer near the fireplace," but one of the officers who had witnessed the count's first attempt to ascertain his guest's name, observed that he finally joined the second group as he had the first and that after a short conversation he turned away as he had done before. The observer, being curious, found opportunity later to speak to the "tall officer." He inquired what the count had asked him. "He asked me," the officer explained, "who that officer was over there near the table." "And what did you tell him?" the inquisitive one inquired. "Why I said that he was my brother."

Suffragettes made their first appearance in politics, Prof. Frank Abbott says in his "Society and Politics in Ancient Rome," in 195 B. C. The occasion for the uprising of the women "to have more than half an ounce of gold, to wear a parti-colored garment or to ride in a chariot within the city or within a mile of it except for religious purposes." This was too much to be endured by the gentle ladies, and the maids and matrons of Rome rose up in their wrath and stormed the Forum very much as the suffragettes of London have stormed parliament and "blocked up all the streets of the city and the approaches to the Forum, importuning men as they came down to the Forum to vote for the restoration of their rights."

The Paris Petit Journal tells some stories gathered from the imperial nursery at Livadia about the children of the czar. The most interesting of the family is the little czarowitch, Alexis Nikolowitch. He is full of fun and play, fond of soldiers, insists on being saluted in military fashion, tyrannizes over his father, and loves no one so much as his nurse, Marie Ivanovna, and his orderly, Stepan, a grizzled veteran who never advanced to a higher grade than corporal. The liking for the orderly has its foundation in fact that the through him he receives occasionally slices of the black bread which is served to the soldiers in the barracks. When he says his prayers at night he always asks a blessing on Stepan before naming his father or mother. When chided for this disrespect by his mother, he said: "Millions of Russians pray for the czar; one prayer for Stepan can be spared."

M. U. Odd Fellows

The third annual dance by the Burial Lot association of the I. O. O. F., M. U., was held in Prescott hall last evening. There was a good attendance. Hibbard's orchestra furnished the music. The following were responsible for the success of the social: General manager, George Emsley, P. P. G. M.; assistant general manager, Fred Bell, P. G.; floor director, Frederick M. Silk; assistant floor director, William Saunders; chief aid, George Camp; aids, Charles Neild, James Everett, George Chase; reception committee, Brothers Charles Sargent, Roland Taylor, Willis Bowles, Merritt Johnson, Isaac Tinker, Jesse Whitworth, Wm. Walker, Arthur Mansell, William Boutilier, Walter Bird, E. Hanson, and Wm. Bostwick.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night. Sachem James Kershaw occupied the stump. Three applications were received and referred to a committee. An invitation was received from Passanquoi tribe 27, of Haverhill to attend their Trading Post (Fair) at Lafayette hall, tonight. It was accepted, and a number of the brothers will attend.

The degree staff exemplified the warriors' degree in a creditable manner, and the visting chiefs spoke words of praise for the staff. The warriors will be exalted to the chief's degree at the next meeting. The anniversary committee stated that some of the high officers of the order are expected to be present. Remarks for the welfare of the tribe were made by G. E. Sutherland, William Martin, A. W. Garland, G. W. Randall and L. F. Steele.

Centralville Foresters

A prize drawing contest and dance was held under the auspices of Court Centralville, Foresters of America, in Foresters' hall last night, the occasion being the 12th anniversary of the organization of the court.

Those in charge were: General manager, Matthew Coope; assistant general manager, Duncan McKeon; floor director, John P. Hulmes; assistant floor director, George M. Shields. The aids were members of the court. Gilmore's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

Knights of Pythias

Chevalier-Middlesex lodge, No. 2, met last night in regular session, with a large attendance and with many out-of-town guests. The rank of knight was conferred in long form on six esquires. Friday, the 19th, the rank of knight will be conferred on the remainder of the class, and on that occasion the new paraphernalia will be on exhibition for the first time.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"This Woman and This Man" was presented last night at the opera house. The leading role of "Thekla Muller" was acted in an admirable manner by Miss Minnie Victorson. Miss Victorson is a very clever actress, and would play to better advantage in a play of a different character. Master Joseph Hughes as "David Thompson," and Joseph DeStefan as "Norris Townsend," were both in leading parts and met favorable criticism.

"THE CANDY SHOP."

Today at the opera house, matinee and evening, comes "The Candy Shop," the big new musical gaiety sponsored by Charles Dillingham, that is now ending an all autumn run at the Tremont theatre, Boston, where it was presented at the close of its all summer run in Chicago. It also enjoyed an all spring stay in New York. The cast of "The Candy Shop" is one of the most imposing musical comedy organizations of the day. Rock and Fulton, popular here in vaudeville and musical comedy companies Frank Lalor, a comedian well known throughout the country, Lucy Weston, famous comedienne, Mrs. Annie Yeamans, Louis Harrison, Douglas Stevenson, W. J. McCarthy and Mlle. Rayo, a premier danseuse are some of the big names on the list. The choruses are said to rank with the most attractive of the feminine ensembles of the gayest of the Dillingham organizations. George V. Hobart wrote the book of the production, and John L. Golden, composer of the music of Elsie Janis' "The Hayden," the score. The Chicago run, which began in June is said to have surpassed the attendance records of all prior summer musical shows in the middle western city. The run of "The Candy Shop" passes in a candy salon in a fashionable quarter in New York, and in one of Coney Island's summer amusement parks on a summer night. The roles are said to be happily cast. William Rock's role is that of a soda water attendant who becomes stage-struck, and hires out with a moving picture theatre. Miss Fulton's role is that of a lovelorn candy shop girl. Mrs. Yeamans plays a suffragette part, and Louis Harrison a Coney Island amusement promoter. Lucy Weston plays herself, and W. J. McCarthy, a broken Dutch dialect character. Douglas Stevenson is the gaiety's lyrical juvenile. He will be recalled as the support two seasons ago of Edna Wallace Hopper, and before that as the Adonis of the companies sent on tour by Joe Weber. Last season he appeared as the prince in Weber's burlesque of "The Merry Widow."

HELEN GRAYCE

During the three past seasons Miss Grayce has undoubtedly done more for the popular priced drama than any other star on the stage today. She has succeeded in giving the very best of the recent successes in a perfect manner at popular prices. Plays that are even now being presented at the highest prices are offered by her at the minimum admission rates and the general public is thus given an opportunity to see all that is recognized as being the very best in the dramatic line. Among the productions that will be made next week at the Opera House are "When We Were Twenty-One," "In the Palace of the King," "The Toast of the Town," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The Pit," "In the Bishop's Carriage," and "Secret Orchard." Miss Grayce is a most prepossessing and talented actress. She has surrounded herself with a carefully selected company of metropolitan artists, while each and every play is staged with its special settings.

ELSIE JANIS.

Elsie Janis, lately "The Hoyden" of Cosmo Hamilton's fanciful comedy, is now "The Fair Co-Ed" of Mr. George Ade's cleverly satirized mid-western "fresh water" college play. Mr. Ade, it is said, has written a fitting successor to his merry "College Widow," and in "The Fair Co-Ed" Miss Janis is even happier than she was as the dainty and delightful "Hoyden" of previous seasons. Miss Janis and her associates in Mr. Charles Dillingham's company in "The Fair Co-Ed" will shortly be seen at the Lowell Opera House.

HATTIE WILLIAMS

Hattie Williams in "Detective Sparks" is one of the big New York hits soon to be seen at the Opera House. Miss Williams has just completed a run of one hundred nights at the Garrick Theatre, New York city, and after a short tour of the principal cities in the East will return to that theatre for another three months and then start on a trip to the Pacific coast.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Vaudeville of the "sure-to-please" sort will be shown on the stage of the Hathaway theatre next week, and large audiences should prevail, as unlimited enjoyment opportunities are provided. Among the many pleasing contributors to a program that is excellent throughout, are the Farrell-Taylor company, in "That Minstrel Man," the funniest blackface act in vaudeville. The humor of the skit is interpreted by two men and a woman, and they do it with the cleverness that gives the act an unresistible zest. James R. McCann & Co. will present a very entertaining one act comedy, "Uncle Charles From Charlestown." McCann and his associates are talented comedians, and they handle the brilliant lines and situations of the playlet in admirable fashion. McDevitt and Kelly are past masters at light and graceful stepping, all the latest and catchiest steps are included in their repertoire, and their dancing act is well worth watching. A novelty that has never before been seen in this city is supplied by Marabini, the ice sculptor. Using as his material a huge block of ice, Marabini evinces marvelous skill in sculpturing the frigid substance into various forms of beauty, and the exhibition is destined to arouse eager interest. A roar of fun never fails to go up with the advent of Morgan and Chester, who are infectiously funny comedians. The title of their skit, "The Arrival of Dr. Cook," is suggestive of timeliness, in view of the present Polar controversy, and this suggestion is more than borne out with its presentation. Miss Mayhew Adams is a charming violinist, and every music-lover will be entranced by the sympathy and technique of her playing. Sam Doty, monologist, has at his command an exhaustless flow of witty conversation, and his sallies are continually provocative of merriment. The show closes with a series of the latest moving pictures.

STAR THEATRE

"The Girl Scout," a thrilling tale of life on the Canadian border, depicting events which have been recorded in history, is the feature picture at the Star theatre today. There are vaudeville acts by Marsh and Middleton, two clever young women, and John Lovely, eccentric dancer. New vaudeville and other new features will be presented Monday.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Prodigal Son" will be shown for the last times at the Theatre Voyons today, and it should not be missed for its story is one that everyone should know and know well. "From Cabin Boy to King" pleases the lovers of dramatic pictures for the adventures of the young hero are sensational enough for anyone. There is a laughable comedy and a beautiful scenic subject included in this banner show. The songs are good and well sung, Mrs. Bales winning much praise for her great work in "Mollie Maloney," the popular hit of Lowell today.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today is continuous performance day at the Academy of Music, and a bill varied enough to suit everybody and by far one of the best and snappiest shows of the season is being presented. In the feature act, Kenney and Hollis presenting "The College Chums" have met with phenomenal success. Ben Wilson, the sweet tenor singer, has made many friends as his singing is far above the average. Three reels of the latest pictures, illustrated songs and the views of the world complete an excellent program.

REVIVAL WEEK

AT THE NEW CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

At the Calvary church at 6.30 p. m., the Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches will unite in the evangelistic service.

AT CHURCH DOOR

Girl's Brother Slashed Intended Bridegroom

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—As he was emerging from the Italian church of the Sacred Heart, North square, yesterday with his bride-to-be, Francesco Musolino, 38 years old of 113 Brighton street, was assaulted with a razor by Paoli F. Lena, 45 years old, of North square, a brother of the young woman.

Musolino and his sweetheart, Miss Concetta Lena, went to the church shortly before noon yesterday to complete arrangements for their marriage. As they were leaving the church Lena, it is charged, struck at Musolino with a razor, inflicting a wound on the cheek. Musolino raised his right hand to protect himself from a second low and the razor struck his right thum, almost severing it. Musolino was taken to the Relief hospital. His injuries are not serious.

VIEWS OF THE NEW WHITE HOUSE OFFICES BUILT ON THE ROOSEVELT TENNIS COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—When President Taft returned from his long journey he found the new executive offices at the White House completed, furnished and in spick and span shape for his occupancy. In fact, a part of the presidential office force had been occupying the rooms for a week before the president arrived. The new annex built on the ground formerly used as a tennis court by Mr. Roosevelt, cost with its furnishings in the neighborhood of $100,000, and the president now occupies the most spacious office quarters ever yet provided for a chief magistrate of the U. S. The furnishings in the president's private office and the cabinet room are of mahogany, upholstered with leather of a greenish tint. The president's chair in his private office swings on a swivel. The chair he occupies in the cabinet room is of solid wood, differing somewhat in make from the chairs used by the cabinet members. It is probable that a new tennis court will now be laid out in the president's "back yard." Colonel Spencer Cosby, superintendent of grounds and buildings, is now preparing plans for it, and it will be chiefly for the use of Miss Helen Taft and Robert Taft, who are ardent devotees of the game which President Roosevelt made popular at the White House.

SUPTS. OF SCHOOLS

Tell of the Need of Courses in Industry

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The importance of industrial education and the growing need for the introduction of vocational courses in high schools was emphasized in the report and papers read before the New England Association of School superintendents at the 55th meeting, held yesterday in Latin school hall, Warren avenue.

A committee of Superintendents was appointed a year ago to investigate the criticisms of high school courses and the demand for different instruction, and reports were submitted yesterday by Payson Smith of Augusta, Me.; J. C. Gray of Chicopee, Charles H. Morss of Medford and W. A. Baldwin of Hyannis.

Mr. Smith declared that the schools will lose pupils unless an effort is made to supply subjects which the communities demand, while Mr. Gray reported that vocational training would not only benefit students who are taking up industrial courses, but would be of advantage to those engaged in classical studies. Mr. Morss called attention to the effort being made all over the country to effect a closer relation between colleges and secondary schools. Mr. Baldwin suggested courses in practical ethics, political economy, sociology and civil government.

Other reports were on educational progress, by Ellor E. Ripley; legislative enactments, by George H. Martin, and necrology, by G. A. Southworth. Papers on school penmanship were presented by Harry Houston of New Haven Haven, George E. Gay of Haverhill, A. H. Keyes of Dover and J. C. Moody of New Britain.

At the afternoon meeting the following officers were elected: President, Frank O. Draper of Pawtucket; vice-president, Bernard M. Sheridan of Lawrence; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Deevin Call of Hartford; executive committee, Payson Smith of Augusta, A. H. Keyes of Dover and F. E. Parlin of Cambridge.

The question whether the association should affiliate with the American Institute was left open till the next meeting.

At the invitation of Supt. Brooks of Boston, as trustee of the Museum of Fine Arts, the assembly visited the new art building and the 1915 Boston exposition.

Salisbury, $5 and costs; stealing fur coat from fur store, sentenced to 30 days in the Providence county jail. Trembley's case was at first held for trial and continued until Nov. 23, but his reappearance and change of plea settled the matter at once and he went out to Cranston.

EVENING SCHOOLS

More Teachers Dropped During Past Week

The attendance at the elementary evening schools is about 250 less than last year and the decrease in attendance has been met with a steady reduction in the number of teachers. The schools opened this year with 23 less teachers than last year and thus far seven more have been dropped. The "18 year old minor" law, so-called, is responsible for the dropping of the attendances. The high school at which attendance is voluntary is ahead of last year.

SKETCHES OF THE FIRE BETWEEN MIDDLESEX AND JACKSON STREETS, SHOWING FAMILIES ESCAPING IN THEIR NIGHT CLOTHES, ESCAPED ANIMALS, AND THE BURNED CARCASS OF A HORSE.

ARE DRIVEN OUT

fire were banked with human faces. The fire was discovered by Frank Santfire, the night clerk at the St. Charles hotel. Mr. Santive has a reputation as a wide-awake watchman. It was Mr. Santive who discovered the Richardson house fire.

Soon Under Control

By the time that the incident having to do with the rescue of the baby was closed, streams were playing on the fire from all directions and half an hour later the fire was under control. Fortunately there was but slight wind blowing at the time and there was lots of open territory that gave the firemen good opportunity to get at the seat of the conflagration. The heat was intense but the firemen worked nobly and succeeded in confining the flames to a comparatively small area.

Were Badly Scared

According to the story told by a man who dropped into The Sun office shortly before the noon hour today, the two pigs are still in the land of the living and two men, employes of the Lowell machine shop, were given the scare of their lives by the porkines. The two men in question were on their way to the shop at about 5 o'clock this morning and while passing through Jackson street they heard a series of peculiar grunts. They could not see anything or anybody, according to the story told by the man who called at The Sun office, one of the scared ones jumped into the canal and the other sought refuge in the Appleton mills. The fellow who jumped into the canal was taken out more dead than alive. He hurried home for dry clothing and it remained for the fellow who pulled himself through a window in the Appleton mills to tell the story of his and his comrade's fright. "We thought it was the evil one," said he, "and the reason I didn't follow suit and jump into the canal was because I can't swim. In view of the fact that I was so badly scared I wonder how it happened to dawn upon me that I couldn't swim. I am willing to buy all kinds of things if nothing is said of it, but who in the world would ever expect to meet two infuriated pigs in Jackson street at 5 o'clock in the morning? The chances are that the two runaway grunters met somebody who invited them in. The price of pork is soaring high these days and this may have something to do with the mysterious disappearance of the pigs.

Take good care of your eyes. You will never have another pair. It is pretty hard to see people ruining their eyes when a pair of glasses properly fitted would save them. It cannot be the fear of expense, for my prices are always moderate. It cannot be the fear of getting the wrong glasses for my scientific examinations guard against that. Call and let me examine your eyes. If you do not need glasses I will tell you so. If you do I will fit you perfectly. The most up-to-date optical parlors in the state.

M. T. I. NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST ABOUT SOCIETY AND UNION

A general meeting of the presidents of societies and the deputies recently appointed by President Shea of the C. T. A. U. will be held in Boston tomorrow to discuss several important questions.

For the first time in years Lowell has lost its representation on the board of deputies of the union. Since 1904 not less than three men from Lowell have been on the board at one time, but now the list has been revised and Lowell was overlooked, a fact that will cause much comment throughout the state as well as locally. North Chelmsford societies fared better than Lowell, for Miss Loretta Ward, a prominent worker in the Ladies' society, has been chosen as deputy to the St. Charles T. A. S. Ladies' auxiliary, one of the finest ladies' societies in Massachusetts.

The appointment of James F. McGovern, Sr., of Woburn as deputy to the Mathews of Lowell pleases not only the gentleman himself but the members of the local society as well. Mr. McGovern is regarded as an earnest exponent of the cause and has been prominent in total abstinence work in Woburn for nearly 40 years.

Former Vice Pres. James F. Riley has resigned the position he held in Fitchburg to accept a more lucrative one in Boston.

The announcement that Wm. J. Gargan had been appointed deputy to the St. John T. A. S. was a bit premature as subsequent reports show. In the first list that was made up, Mr. Gargan was named for the position but later when the list was revised by Pres. Shea, Mr. Edward E. Gaughan of Cambridge was named for the place. It is known that there were many candidates for positions as deputy and although Mr. Gargan's candidacy was urged it appears that Mr. Gaughan's popularity in the Cambridge society was not to be overlooked and hence the appointment.

The committee appointed to consider plans for the observance of the anniversary of the Mathews has several plans under consideration, one of which will be recommended to the institute.

BRIDE HAD MOVED

And Prospective Groom Hustled for License

It wasn't a case of "My wife's gone to the country" with George E. Hildreth, aged 33, of Leominster, Mass., but rather "My bride's gone to the country," for when George blew into Lowell yesterday with a marriage license from his home town and attempted to get one from Lowell, the home town of his 18 year old bride, he discovered that his bride had moved to Methuen and he was obliged to go to that burg for his other half and the other half of his marriage license.

When Hildreth applied to the city clerk for a license he answered all the questions but that as to the bride's residence. He wasn't sure of the street as the young woman had recently moved. He was instructed to find out the name of the street. Returning in about an hour and wreathed in smiles Hildreth said: "It's all right. There isn't any street and number; it's just plain Methuen."

But Methuen plain or decorated didn't go with the city clerk, and George was informed that he would have to visit the down-river town and wake up the town clerk ere he could wed. George went forthwith, got the license, was married and lived happy ever after.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 13.—With the members of each team confident that the final call of time would see victory in their hands, the Yale and Princeton elevens met this afternoon at Yale field in what for the New Jersey men was the final game of the season and for the Blue team the first of the big games of the college football year. The Yale team with the exception of Capt. Coy, who stayed at home over night, slept at the infirmary, while the Princeton players remained at their quarters in Farmington, coming down to this during the morning. A great throng of visitors with their pennants of blue or of orange and black poured into the city in the morning. A great throng ternoon eager for the great struggle. Pretty girls with corsage bouquets of either chrysanthemums or violets and college graduates wearing the colors of their team gave animation and picturesqueness to a scene which although no novelty here, is always interesting. The day broke bright and clear and while from the spectators' point of view the weather was all that could be desired, the coaches and players were hoping that it would be cooler.

The line-up follows:

Yale		Princeton
Klipatrick	le	le Ballin
Hobbs	lt	Capt. lt Sigling.
Andrus	lg	lg Waller
Cooney	c	c Bamman
Goebel	rg	rg Buckingham
Lilley	rt	rt McCronan or MacGregor
Vaughan	re	re Welch
Howe	qb	qb Bergin
Daley	lhb	lhb Cunningham
Murphy or Philbin	rhb	rhb Sparks
Coy,	fb	Capt. fb Hart

Teams Arrive

A great Yale yell at 1.45 heralded the flying wedge which dove in from the entrance which when broken into individuals revealed Coy's team. A minute later the Princeton stands broke into life as Captain Sigling led his orange-legged warriors to the gridiron. Lilley kicked off for Yale, Welch getting the ball at his 25-yard line and running it back 12 yards. McCormick made five yards around Vaughan's end. McCormick kicked to Philbin at Yale's 30-yard line and he ran it back in mighty clever fashion to his 35-yard line. Philbin then took the ball in another run to Princeton's 45-yard line.

Coy was shoved through the line for eight yards. Daley went through Sigling for seven yards. Philbin got eight yards more. Howe was sent through for three yards, but Yale was penalized 15 yards. Coy carried the ball to Princeton's 26 yard line.

Coy failed at a drop kick from the 35 yard line.

The ball was brought in by Princeton to its 25 yard line where McCormick dropped back, but it was a fake, Reid going through Cooney for three yards. McCormick kicked to Philbin at Yale's 35 yard line. He dodged it back 10 yards. The ball went back to Coy at his 35 yard line and he took it out of bounds at Yale's 52 yard line. Coy punted to Bergin at Princeton's 30 yard line.

McCormick kicked to his own 50 yard line. Coy made an onside kick to Princeton's 15 yard line. Yale was penalized five yards for offside play. McCormick punted to Philbin at his own 15 yard line and he ran 28 yards but the ball was brought to Princeton's 43 yard line. Yale was penalized 15 yards for holding. Coy tried a long end run without gain. He then punted to Bergin at Princeton's 25 yard line. McCormick returned the ball to Philbin at Yale's 47 yard line. The latter got it to the midfield line. A line play gave Yale 3 yards.

Coy punted to Bergin at Princeton's 20 yard line, the latter being thrown instantly. McCormick punted to Coy at midfield where Hart threw him like a flash.

Coy Gained Seven Yards

Coy was driven through Bamman for seven yards. Philbin then took the ball for five yards more on a plunge through McCrohan. Coy went like a steam engine through the whole Princeton team to the 35 yard line. Daley was shot over outside of left tackle for five yards more. Daley made it eight more through the other side of the Princeton line. Then Coy burst through centre to the 12 yard line. Daley tore off four yards more.

On the next play Coy was forced out of bounds at the six yard line. Princeton held Yale's gain on the next savage attack to four yards. Princeton was given the ball on downs at the 3 yard line and McCormack dropped back to the line to punt.

Princeton Scores

McCormick's kick was blocked and the ball bounded along the ground behind the goal post with both teams dashing after it. McCrohan fell on the ball and also made a safety, giving Yale two points.

The ball was brought into the 25 yard line and McCormick punted to Coy at his 40 yard line. He returned the kick to Bergin at the 30 yard line.

McCormick tried an end run and then he punted to Philbin at Yale's 50 yard line. This player once again made a wonderful run to Princeton's 35 yard line. Yale got three yards on a play against the line and then made an onside which Ballan got on his own 22 yard line. McCormick punted to Philbin but the ball was brought back for offside play. McCormick again punted to Coy who signalled for a fair catch at midfield. Coy punted to Bergin at the 20 yard line and the little quarterback was thrown back five yards.

McCormick punted to Philbin at Princeton's 50 yard line. He made 9 yards on the run back.

McCormick dropped back for a kick which was blocked and the ball went behind the goal line by half a foot where Lilley fell on it for a touchdown. Hobbs kicked an easy goal.

Score: Yale 8, Princeton 0 (first half).

MICHIGAN VS. PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—The university of Michigan football team met the university of Pennsylvania eleven today on Franklin field. AT COLLINSVILLE

The parishioners of the new St. Mary's parish are most enthusiastic over the coming of Rev. Thomas Walsh, as their resident pastor, and while the parish numbers a comparatively few Catholics, the residents look forward to its development in the near future, while its geographical feature will greatly increase its numbers during the summer months. The parish starts at Girard avenue in Walbrook, one side of the street being in St. Mary's parish and the other in St. Michael's, Lowell, for under the division the Navy Yard continues in the Lowell parish. The line runs over in one direction to the Mammoth road, below Collinsville, and on the other it takes in the village of New Boston. The upper line is at the state line, thus including Tyngsboro, Lakeview, Long Pond, Willow Dale, Mountain Rock to Hudson, N. H.

Rev. Fr. Walsh has taken the Hervey cottage at Canney's corner for the present but the land adjoining the church, where the lawn parties were formerly conducted, has been purchased and a parochial residence will be built on it. The men of the parish are to excavate and build the foundation themselves. A grand whist party and dance will be held on Thanksgiving eve in aid of the new parish. While the parish is in embryo state Fr. Walsh is most enthusiastic over its possibilities and he asks the co-operation of the parishioners in bringing about its development.

"I TRIED TO MAKE A PHOTOGRAPH

Of That Display of Hood's Goods in Dows' window," said a Merrimack street photographer, "and while the negative came out pretty well, I found I also had the Courier-Citizen building, which was three hundred feet back of the camera on Merrimack street, in the right hand corner of the picture. This was because of the reflection in the plate glass. But all the same it is a good photograph of the best window display of the kind ever made in this city. Lowell should be proud of a concern that makes such a varied list of choice medicinal and toilet articles."

DRIVEN FROM BEDS

20 Families Driven Out By Flames This Morning

Fire Started in Jackson Street Junk Shop and Spread—Gallant Rescue of Little Girl Found Alone in Burning House by a Fireman—Three Horses Perished in Flames—Fire Department Did Good Work

The quiet of slumbering Lowell was broken at about 2 o'clock this morning by the ringing of fire bells, and some woke as in a dream to find the sky illumined by the glare of a fire that threatened life and property. Thanks to the good work of "Bob" Carland, a ladderman of truck 3, no loss of human life will be recorded, and while the fire covered considerable ground the property loss is practically insignificant because of the fact that the buildings burned were being torn down to make way for the new storage warehouse to be erected by a Boston concern.

The scene of the fire was in Jackson and Middlesex streets, and it was responsible for no less than four alarms, three box and a telephone alarm. The first alarm was sounded from box 72 at 2.05 a. m., and a second alarm was sent in at 2.13. Then came the telephone alarm and later an alarm from box 172, located at the corner of Appleton and Favor streets. Sparks from the Jackson street fire carried to Appleton street and took root there, but did not do any material damage.

Started in Junk Shop

The fire which had gained very considerable headway before the arrival of the firemen is supposed to have started in T. McAvoy's junkshop in Jackson street and it is said by firemen and others that had the wind been blowing at all hard there would have been something in the nature of a widespread conflagration. The surroundings were of the sort to appeal to the flames and hungry tongues of fire were licking their way from pillar to post when the firemen arrived. Ten minutes after the second alarm was sounded no less than fifteen streams were pouring in on the fiery furnace from Middlesex, Jackson and Revere streets.

The Property Destroyed

The property destroyed consisted of an old stable that was being torn down, an old blacksmith shop, and two out buildings, all of which were to be eliminated to make room for the big storage warehouse.

A tenement block owned by A. C. Wheelock and fronting on Middlesex street at a point known as the "big yard," was badly gutted; other tenement property was more or less damaged and the ambitious flames found their way to a long wooden building owned by the Appleton company and in which is located. Bergeron & Fontaine's laundry. This place was badly scorched and all of the windows on the side nearest the burning buildings were shattered by the force of water. No estimate of the damage has yet been made, but because of the nature of the property it will not be very great.

Three Horses Perished

Three horses perished in the flames and there are two pigs missing. The pigs found their way to the open, but inasmuch as they have not been recovered it is thought that they went back to their pen where they were drowned or suffocated. When the firemen arrived the pigs were running about in the open. Two of the horses burned belonged to Mr. Brennan, who has a wood yard on the premises, and the third horse was the property of Mr. Wilson, a tea man.

Escaped in Night Clothes

At least 20 families, the tenants of A. C. Wheelock and H. A. Racicot, whose building is numbered 317 Middlesex street, escaped in their night clothes and the excitement at the time can better be imagined than described. Fortunately the night was not very cold and the shivering ones scantily clothed took refuge in doorways in Middlesex street. Most of the tenants were foreigners who could speak but little English and their loss, principally by water, will weigh heavily upon them as it is understood that but few of them carried any insurance.

Baby Girl Rescued

When Lieut. Herbert Merrill and Robert Carland of truck 3 arrived on the scene they went through the Wheelock block to arouse the sleeping inmates. All of the rooms with the exception of one on the upper floor were deserted and there they found a baby girl. Sparks that entered by an open window had set fire to the bed in the room and the little one, two-years-old, was standing in the middle of the room waving her tiny hands apparently frightened at the danger and the noise that surrounded her. Mr. Carland took the little tot in his arms and carried her to the street. Upon his arrival there he found a woman hysterically weeping and calling for her baby in a foreign tongue. When the child was placed in her arms by the sturdy fireman her joy knew no bounds. She smothered the little one with kisses and her gratitude to the fireman, she extended on bended knees.

Streets Were Crowded

Despite the fact that the fire occurred at an hour whenall Lowell was supposed to be wrapt in slumber a crowd of several hundred gathered almost as quickly as did the firemen, and before the fire was under control Jackson and Middlesex streets in the vicinity of the

NOTE

That friends of the present chief executive don't want you to nominate JAMES E. O'DONNELL for Mayor.

WHY?

Citizens of all parties concede that if O'Donnell is nominated, O'Donnell will be elected, and because O'Donnell has had a creditable career, and has demonstrated his strength as a vote-getter.

THEN

Why not support O'Donnell's candidacy? By nominating O'Donnell you will elect the next Mayor of Lowell.

A GREAT STRUGGLE

Neither Harvard Nor Dartmouth Scored in First Half

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 13.—Under fair weather conditions Harvard and Dartmouth lined up in the great stadium on Soldiers field today in their annual contest. For Dartmouth the game was the climax of the season's schedule, while for the Crimson it was of special interest, inasmuch as the all important game with Yale is now only a week distant. While neither team has met with defeat this season, Dartmouth's goal line has not been crossed although last Saturday at Princeton two field goals were scored against the Hanoverians. Harvard's goal line has been crossed once, by Williams earlier in the season, but no other score has been marked against the Crimson's record.

The rivalry between the two teams is intense and the outcome of today's struggle was awaited with interest. In the past six years each team has won two games and two games have been tied. While Harvard was favored in the betting today, the supporters of the Green were hopeful of victory for the New Hampshire hillmen. Nearly every one of the 37,000 seats in the stadium was occupied long before the game was called.

The lineup:

Harvard		Dartmouth
G. Browne	le	le Daley
McKay	lt	lt Sherwin
L. Withington	lg	lg Tobin
F. Withington	c	c Needham
Fisher	rg	rg Farnum
Fish	rt	rt Lang
Smith	re	re Bankhart
O'Flaherty	qb	qb Brady
Corbett	lhb	lhb Ryan
Leslie	rhb	rhb Ingersoll
Minot	fb	fb Marks

Both teams ran on to the field at 1.55 and immediately each side of the stadium fired back cheers for the players.

Then Harvard cheered Dartmouth and the visiting undergraduates returned the compliment. The usual practice followed with each side joining in their different cheers. The weather was dull and lowering but the rain kept off and the wind blew toward the bowl of the stadium.

Harvard Won Toss

Harvard won the toss and took the advantage of the wind giving them the kick-off.

Captain Tobin kicked off the Harvard goal line and Harvard put the ball in play on her 25 yard line. The Crimson kicked on the second play to Dartmouth 45 yard line.

A change of kicks and a tilt in which Harvard showed ability to make her first down with the ball on their own 43 yard line. Dartmouth kicked on second down the Harvard 45 yard line. Harvard kicked from her 50 yard line and two minutes later Dartmouth followed with one from her own 25 yard line, the ball landing in the centre of the field in Harvard's possession.

Harvard Made Gains

Harvard rushed the ball eight yards and then tried an onside kick which gave the ball to Dartmouth on their 12 yard line. In the first ten minutes of play Harvard gradually pushed Dartmouth toward the green goal.

Up to that time neither side had shown a very formidable offense.

Each side kicked on the third down and once more it was Harvard's ball in the center of the field. Minot began rushing and ploughed eighty yards through the center. Two more and then Minot made a first down on Dartmouth's forty-yard line. Dartmouth held well and got the ball on downs on their forty-yard line.

Dartmouth kicked on the third down to Harvard's 35-yard line and on the second play Corbett made 25 yards and carried the ball into Dartmouth's territory. There Harvard could not gain and Minot kicked to Dartmouth's 18-yard line.

Dartmouth again kicked to the center of the field and after O'Flaherty had run it 20 yards kicked on the third down to Harvard's 25 yard line. O'Flaherty ran the ball back 25 yards for Harvard.

After this a Harvard man got the ball on Dartmouth's 40 yard line on a punt.

Once more Dartmouth's defense proved too strong and Harvard kicked to Dartmouth's five yard line. Marks kicked to the center of the field and the ball went through O'Flaherty and Harvard did not recover it until it was on their own forty yard line. A Crimson penalty put the ball still farther back in the Crimson territory.

Minot kicked on the third down to Dartmouth's 36 yard line.

After an exchange of punts once more Harvard had the ball on her own 42 yard line. This time neither side seemed able to show a consistent offense and almost invariably kicked on the third down.

Had to Kick

More kicking and then Dartmouth got the ball on their own 45 yard line but was forced to kick on the third down. Up to this point the play had been straight line plunging with no forward passes or onside kicks. Most of Dartmouth's plays were sent between tackle and the greater part of Harvard's in center. One run of Ingersoll of ten yards after a penalty was the only feature of the Green play in the first 25 minutes.

One of Ingersoll's punts drove Harvard back to her own 25 yard line. Then came three Harvard rushes and Minot was given the ball for the distance. Minot immediately punted to Dartmouth's 30 yard line and Ingersoll ran it back 10 yards.

The Harvard centre proved almost impervious for Marks was jammed in for almost no gains. On the other hand Minot was usually able to gather 10 or 15 yards. Harvard, however, seemed to be saving strength for the second half and kicked on the third down frequently whenever Dartmouth started to gain.

There are frequent delays on account of injuries which extended the half to an unusual length.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 13.—In the 24 hour bicycle race at the end of 12 hours' riding the eight contestants were all tied for first place. The score was 245.7 miles. The record is 267.2, made by Elks and McFarland in 1900.

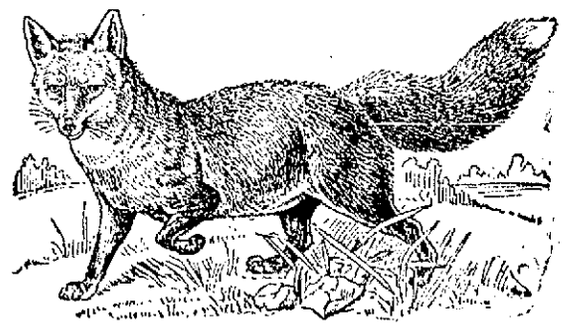

BRAKEMAN KILLED

Howard F. Barber, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad, presumably a brakeman, was run over and killed by a passenger train at the Middlesex street station a few minutes before nine o'clock this morning.

Barber, who was about 35 years old, was standing on the lower step of one of the forward cars of the Concord train due in Lowell at 8.56. The train was a long one and Barber either attempted to jump or stumbled from the step. He fell to the platform and rolled under the train. Four cars passed over him, mangling him terribly. His identity was disclosed by papers he had in his pocket showing him to be a member of the order of Railway Trainmen and an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad. His home is at 14 Fearley street, Concord, N. H. The body was removed to Healey's undertaking parlors in Branch street and his people have been notified.

MEANDERING HOBO

Caused Great Excitement on President Taft's Train

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A meandering hobo seeking shelter from a ticket hunting conductor on board the Federal express bound from Boston to Washington, last night, wandered haplessly into President Taft's private car, the Mayflower, locked himself in the kitchen and created the greatest excitement of all the president's travels.

Jimmy Sloan of the secret service was given the rare opportunity of distinguishing himself by making a real arrest, while Will Anderson and Ed. Letcher, the two presidential porters of the Pullman service, became real heroes.

The incident occurred just outside of Bridgeport, Conn., and the hobo was delivered by Sloan to the authorities of that place.

President Taft's car was switched on the Federal express at New Haven shortly after midnight. Two local day coaches had been placed on the express ahead of the president's car and it was from one of these that the hobo found his way into the front end of the Mayflower. Letcher, when he discovered the hobo crouched in a corner of the kitchen, almost turned white but in another minute he had pounced on the wanderer and had safely embraced him in arms that hung with the grim strength of a grizzly. Letcher called for Anderson and Anderson called for Sloan. Jimmy said a few polite things to the tramp who claimed at first to be a brakeman on the New Haven road. He was immediately discredited by the train crew and at Bridgeport was handed over to the police. The president meantime was asleep in his stateroom at the rear end of the car in blissful ignorance of the excitement on board.

LOSS IS $250,000

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13.—The immense plant of the Union Distillery Co. known as the Edgemont Springs distillery at Carthage, near this city, was almost destroyed by fire early today. The loss is estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000, fully covered by insurance.

IN POLICE COURT

Aged Man Charged with Illegal Keeping

David Collins, who gave his age as 76 years, appeared before Judge Hadley in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with unlawfully keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquors.

As a result of a complaint made at the police station, the liquor inspectors visited the home of Collins in Adams street last Sunday and seized a quantity of whiskey.

Collins admitted to the court that he had been doing wrong but asked Judge Hadley to take his age and the condition of his health into consideration. Probation Officer Slattery also spoke a good word for Collins. As a result of the talk with Mr. Slattery Judge Hadley placed Collins on probation for two months.

Five Months In Jail

Mrs. Dolan was charged with being drunk, had pleaded guilty and a fine of $2 had been imposed when the woman's husband stated that he wished to speak to the court relative to the actions of his wife. Mr. Dolan said that he could do nothing with her and if unable to secure anything better that she would drink alcohol and Jamaica ginger. He also told the court that she had been arrested frequently in Maine. After hearing the man's story the court withdrew the $2 fine and sentenced Mrs. Dolan to five months in jail.

Other Offenders

William Smith, charged with being drunk, looked as though he was very much under the weather. To all appearances the man was still under the influence of liquor, but Supt. Welch informed the court that Smith was shamming, saying: "This man wanted a glass of whiskey this morning and when he was refused it he said he would act like a fool when he got into court." Smith will spend the next 20 days in jail.

John J. Carroll and John W. Powell were each fined $6 while two first offenders were fined $3 each.

LOW DEATH RATE

Lowell's Health Was Good This Week

The health department feels pretty good over this week's death rate which is remarkably low, the weather undoubtedly having something to do with it. There were no deaths from the contagious diseases nor from tuberculosis. The mortality is as follows:

For the week ending November 13, 1909: Population, 96,380; total deaths, 19; deaths under five, 5; acute lung diseases, 4.

Death rate for the week ending November 13, 1909: 10.25 against 17.26 and 20.30 for previous two weeks.

Infectious diseases reported for the week ending November 13, 1909: Typhoid fever, 2; scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 5; measles, 7.

Board of Health.

The demand upon the city dispensary is also unusually light.

AN INVESTIGATION

INTO THE DEATH OF ELMER PARMENTER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—Coroner Lincoln continued today the investigation into the death of Elmer Parmenter, who met his death while going to the polls in an auto on election day. It is hoped to fix the responsibility on either the driver of the machine or the motorman of an electric car. A decision is expected next week.

INMATES ESCAPE

Make Their Way Out of Truant School

Two boys, inmates of the Middlesex County Truant school, in North Chelmsford, made their escape from that institution last night by lowering themselves from a window in the dormitory which they occupied.

At the time of going to press the boys were still at large.

Yesterday noon two Cambridge boys, who have been confined at the school, also made their escape, but they were later arrested in Medford and returned to the school.

LOWELL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

A GREAT CROWD

At Game Between Lowell and Lawrence High Teams Today

The Lowell and Lawrence High school elevens met on the gridiron at Spalding park this afternoon in one of the most interesting and exciting games ever witnessed here. The rivalry between these two teams is very keen. It is the sole ambition of the Lowell team to defeat the down-river aggregation and the same can also be said of Lawrence, for the latter team takes particular pains to have its men in the pink of condition on the day that it is pitted against Lowell.

If the scores of the different games in which Lowell and Lawrence have taken part this year can be taken as a criterion it would appear that the Lawrence eleven has a trifle the better of the argument. In none of the regular games played so far this season has Lawrence been scored upon. Boston English was beaten by a 5 to 0 score by Lawrence, while the game between Lowell and Boston Latin resulted in a victory for Lowell by a score of 6 to 5.

The Lowell boys were in the pink of condition for the game. They retired early last night and this morning the squad assembled and a training table dinner was served. Early in the afternoon the team was taken to the field and final instructions given.

The attendance at the park was very large, the student body of both schools turning out in large numbers, while former pupils of the school and football enthusiasts were on hand with flags and various noise making contrivances.

Special cars were run between this city and Lawrence during the afternoon in order to accommodate the large number that came to this city to witness the game. Between 1 and 3 o'clock this afternoon cars were run every few minutes between Merrimack square and Spalding park.

DYNAMITED THEIR VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Before leaving Greytown Thursday after their defeat, the Nicaraguan revolutionists dynamited the two government vessels, the Managua and the Norma, ships of about 300 tons burden each and burned various places in the city. The recapture of Greytown, the officials say, is of great importance to the government as heretofore ports on the Atlantic have been held by the revolutionists. The victory over the latter presages in their opinion an early collapse of the rebellion.

PROF. SNEDDEN IN CHARGE

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The entire supervision of the Massachusetts educational institutions was today placed in the hands of Prof. David Snedden of Columbia university as commissioner of education. He will begin his duties on Monday.

The appointment is under a recent act of the legislature which completely reorganized the system of educational control in the state, including a new state board of education. It is expected that special attention will be given to industrial training.

CHESTER JORDAN

Convicted of Murder Will Not be Granted New Trial

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 13.—Chester S. Jordan, the Somerville man who was convicted last night of murdering his wife, Honorah Jordan, will not be granted a new trial, according to a ruling filed by Judges William B. Stevens and Charles Bell of the superior court in the office of the clerk of courts at East Cambridge today. Attorneys for Jordan made a motion for a new trial on the ground that one of the jurors who convicted Jordan, Willis White of Maynard, was insane during the trial and at the time the verdict was rendered.

In their ruling, Judges Stevens and Bell find that as a matter of evidence Juror White was of sufficient mental capacity during the trial to arrive at a rational conclusion.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD

Her Companion Was Discovered in a Dying Condition

HARTFORD, Nov. 13.—The local authorities are making every effort to clear up the facts concerning the finding of a woman dead in a local hotel yesterday and a man with her whose death was nearly accomplished. He was removed to a local hospital and this morning was reported as being much improved. The conditions of the room indicated apparently that the couple had agreed to end their lives, and with that object had taken morphine. They registered at the hotel on Sunday, it was stated, as R. S. Brown and wife of Canton, but later developments seemed to indicate that the woman may have been Blanche Ferguson of Washington, D. C., and that the man's name is F. J. Reid, possibly of Cleveland, O. The police are not sure of the identity, however, in either case, according to statements made by them this morning. Telegrams have been received at police headquarters both from Washington and from Canton and with these in hand the investigation is being pursued. The man, while conscious and resting easily at the hospital, refuses to tell his name or to give any information about himself or his companion. It is expected, however, that the authorities will have some definite information within a few hours.

$300 PER DAY

For the Use of City Streets

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—The Detroit United railway today acceded conditionally to the city's demand for $300 per day for the use of streets upon which the franchises are said to expire tomorrow. The company specifies that it waives no rights and that the city waives none as far as an ultimate readjustment is concerned.

CITY IS QUIET

The National Guard to be Withdrawn From Cairo, Ill.,

CAIRO, Nov. 13.—Orders for the demobilization for the fourth regiment of the Illinois National guard which has occupied Cairo since early yesterday were expected by the commanders of the organization early today. The absence last night of any sign of a disposition to review mob rule and the safe arrival at Kankakee of Arthur Alexander, who was escorted from here late yesterday by two companies of militia led both the local and state authorities to believe that there was no chance of further disturbance in this city.

Alexander, who is suspected of complicity in the murder of Annie Pelley is the only person in whom members of the mob have any interest. The announced intention of Sheriff Davis and General Wells was to land the negro at some point so far from Cairo that no attempt would be made to take him from the authorities and it is the general opinion here that this object was fully accomplished by the journey to Kankakee. Whether a special grand jury is to be summoned to consider possible charges against members of the mob may also be determined today. It is likely, however, that the matter will be left for the next regular grand jury which is to meet early in December. Under present conditions of public opinion it is conceded by the local police authorities that the chances of obtaining indictments against members of Thursday night's mob are remote.

KING MANUEL IS ILL

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 13.—King Manuel of Portugal who is on his way to visit King Edward arrived here this morning. He is slightly indisposed and in order to break the journey spent the day here. He expects to proceed tonight direct to Cherbourg from where he will sail for England.

FOR NEW FIREMEN

Appropriations Committee Wants $1375

In order to get a report before the board of aldermen at its meeting next Tuesday evening the appropriations committee will meet at 6.15 on that evening.

Among the matters to be taken up is the request of the fire department for an appropriation of $1375 to pay the salary of 15 additional permanent firemen for the remainder of the year. If the money is found the 15 new men will be appointed at once.

The request for $1000 for walks at the North common, for which the ward two councilmen have been working for some time, also comes before the committee.

Some time ago the park commission asked for a transfer of $1000 from the appropriation for labor to that of sundries and the committee allowed a transfer of $500. Now the commission asks that the other $500 be transferred and will appear before the committee to show why the transfer should be made.

The health, state aid and soldiers' relief will ask for additional money to complete the year and the school board threatens to ask for $5,000.

POLITICAL NEWS

Candidates Were Busy Last Night

The ward six friends of Major Robert J. Crowley met at his headquarters last evening and the meeting was presided over by John T. McCarthy while William Mackenzie was secretary. Major Crowley addressed the meeting on the issues of the campaign. There were about 300 present and the meeting was most enthusiastic. At the close of the meeting reports were submitted by the rallying committees.

Rep. John F. Meehan addressed a large gathering at the Lyon street school house last evening, speaking on the issues of the day. He was liberally applauded.

Rep. Meehan claims that he can in all fairness expose a man's public record and that he does not consider this as mudslinging or dealing in mere personalities.

O'Donnell Meetings

James E. O'Donnell appeared at several informal gatherings of friends in different parts of the city last evening and there was no meeting at his headquarters. He appealed strongly for a clean and honorable campaign without any mudslinging. He said in all cases he was guided by his convictions of right and was the tool of no special interest.

There is a noticeable absence of enthusiasm about republican headquarters these days.

Maloney Rally

A largely attended rally at the High street ward room was addressed by Wm. E. Maloney last night. He spoke of the issues already outlined by him in former addresses. Mr. Maloney was loudly applauded when he concluded his address.

SECY. McVEAGH

To Probe the Customs House Frauds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has come out with the flat statement that not only will he probe to the bottom the scandal growing out of the frauds committed in the New York custom house by the so-called sugar trust and its agents, but he purposes to renovate the entire service. He declares he will shoulder all the responsibility for such a campaign and that the investigation will be thorough and vigorous.

Attorney General Wickersham also has been gathering evidence through his corps of special agents.

Secretary MacVeagh, however, indicates that he is going further than merely seeking to punish those who have been guilty of past wrongdoing.

LABOR SUNDAY

To be Observed by the Laboring Men

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 13.—A closer union of the church and the workingman is suggested in a resolution presented to the American Federation of Labor convention by its secretary, Frank Morrison. The resolution calls attention to the growing interest in the study of the labor movement by the church and by the clergy; it asserts that many ministers are discussing problems of the toilers in their pulpits and asks that the first Sunday in September be officially designated by the American Federation of Labor as Labor Sunday. It asks that the churches of America be requested to devote some part of this day to the presentation of the labor question and that the various labor bodies be requested to co-operate in every legitimate way with the ministers who thus observe "Labor Sunday."

The convention went on record as in favor of securing an extension of the eight hour law to cover all government work, whether by contract or sub-contract, and President Taft will be urged to recommend such a measure in his message to congress. Favorable action was taken on a resolution asking Secretary Nagel of the department of labor and Commissioner Neill of the bureau of labor to create in that bureau a department for the investigation of the condition of working women and requesting that a woman be appointed as the head of such a department.

The deep waterway project throughout the country was endorsed and a continuance of the campaign of education for the prevention of tuberculosis was advocated.

PASTOR MADE CHARGES

Against Haverhill Police Board and Hearing Was Held

HAVERHILL, Nov. 13.—The municipal council last night gave a hearing on charges preferred Nov. 4 by Rev. Frederick B. Greul, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, against the license board.

After counsel for the commission had admitted the facts set forth in the petition, which asked for the removal of the three members, the council took the matter under advisement and upon considering the evidence will render a verdict, probably not before next Thursday night.

The charges resolved themselves down to two points: First, that Haber F. McKenna, Herbert F. Taylor, and John M. Roche, as license commissioners, granted licenses to unfit persons, the specifications including the names of five persons who in the preceding no-license year had been convicted in the district court of a liquor law violation; and that the commission granted licenses to persons who did not have the premises from which they made application equipped with facilities to serve a meal.

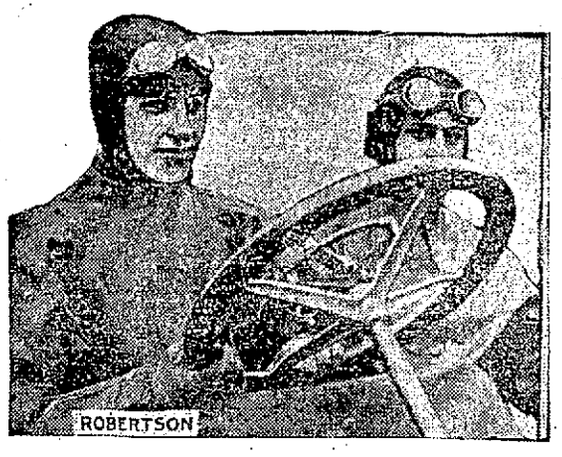

Boyd J. Jones and Judge John J. Ryan, appearing for the commissioners, agreed with Johnson and North, for Dr. Greul, that the facts were true in the main. Dr. Greul was called to testify, and he said his motives were inspired by nothing but for the good of the community.

Commissioner Taylor was put on the stand by Atty. Jones and admitted that he did not investigate the complaint upon which the five persons named as unfit had been convicted. He said, however, that he had been legally advised that the grant would stand all test.

Atty. Jones contended that the commissioners were the sole judges as to who the fit persons were; he said there had been nothing but a technical violation, which did not warrant the removal of the board. Atty. Johnson disagreed and demanded that the council vote to remove.

The hearing was spirited, there being several clashes between counsel; and at times the audience of some 500 persons broke out into thunderous applause as one lawyer or the other passed out some brilliant remark.

NEW AUTO RECORD

GEORGE H. ROBERTSON

Robertson Made 50 Miles in 40 Minutes, 14.40 Seconds

ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—Yesterday's automobile races reached their height when George H. Robertson, driving a 60 horse power Fiat, lowered the American track record for 50 miles by 19m. 7s. The previous record was held by John Aiken, who made the distance at Indianapolis in 44m. 21.2s. Aiken drove a National to second place in yesterday's race and Stillman to third in a Marmon, and both bettered the Indianapolis mark. Aiken made the distance in 43m. 11.41s. and Stillman in 45m. 30.56s. Robertson's time was 40m. 14.40s.

Eight cars started in the contest and five finished, despite the record breaking pace. Lewis Strang, piloting his 200 horse power Fiat, set a terrific pace in the first 17 miles, but in the 18th, as he was passing the judges' stand, the tire of the rear right wheel exploded, compelling his withdrawal. His time for the first 10 miles was 7m. 18.32s.

Strang traveled on an average of three seconds a mile faster than Robertson. On this basis it is figured that had he finished the race he would have gone the 50 miles in four minutes less than the time made by Robertson.

While on the 27th mile Harding, in an Apperson, made an attempt to escape from a pocket. Lorimer blew a tire, running against the fence and losing a wheel. Harding was about six feet behind when he also blew a tire, but managed to avoid running into his rival. Neither driver was injured.

A more serious accident occurred during the practice hour, when a specially designed and high powered Pope Toledo car was wrecked. H. J. Kilpatrick the driver, and R. Church, mechanician, were thrown 150 feet from their seats, but they fell in underbrush and escaped with slight injuries. The car was a total loss.

The blowing up of Strang's tire gave Robertson the lead at the end of the 20th mile. He was followed by Aiken, Harding, Lorimer, Stillman, Dingley and Disbrow. After the accident to Harding and Lorimer, Stillman occupied third place until he finished. The summary of the other races:

Twenty mile handicap, entries restricted to drivers and cars who had contested in the New York to Atlanta tour—Won by Benz (Stoecker), Matheson (Whalen), second, Renault (Shaab) third. Time 20m. 36.86s.

Twelve mile stock chassis—Won by National (Aiken), Chalmers-Detroit (Lorimer) second, Chalmers-Detroit (Dingley) third. Time 10m. 7.65s.

Ten mile handicap—Won by Marmon (Harroun), Chalmers-Detroit (Knipper) second, Chalmers-Detroit (Matson) third. Time 9m. 51.01s.

Six mile stock car—Won by Fiat (Robertson), National (Aiken) second, Apperson (Dingley) third. Time 4m. 43.31s.

Twenty-four mile amateur—Won by John Rutherford in a Stearns, J. P. Kiser in a Pope-Hartford second. Time 20m. 35.25s.

Two mile free for all—Won by Strang, Christie second, Robertson third. Time 1m. 34.37s.

EX-SEC. CARLISLE

Said to Have Passed Comfortable Night

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of the late President Grover Cleveland, was reported this morning at St. Vincent's hospital in this city where he is a patient, to have passed a good night and to be resting comfortably.

That the ex-secretary, now 74, has been and still is seriously ill was learned today, although it is stated that he is in no immediate danger. The hospital authorities and his physicians at first would discuss his case only guardedly, but this morning an authoritative expression as to the nature of his malady and his present condition was obtained.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant in charge of Mr. Carlisle's case and the hospital physicians authorized the following statement:

"Mr. Carlisle has an attack of acute intestinal obstruction associated with chronic kidney complications. No operation was performed. He is resting quietly and is apparently in no immediate danger."

A $200,000 GIFT

To the Academy at Strafford, N. H.

MARLBORO, Nov. 13.—By the death of Mrs. Della E. Cate the trustees of the academy at Strafford, N. H., will soon come into the possesson of about $200,000. Mrs. Cate was the wife of George N. Cate, who died several years ago. He was for years one of the city's most successful business men, and when he died he left an estate valued at about $250,000. During her life Mrs. Cate was to have the interest accruing from the possessions of her husband, and at her death the property not otherwise disposed of was to go to the trustees of the academy referred to, which is located in the native town of Mr. Cate.

When a lad, poor but desirous of getting an education, there were certain opportunities given Mr. Cate at the academy which came to him as a very welcome surprise, and he many times declared that if he ever accumulated enough to make it an object the little educational institution in his native town would be remembered. He was very fond of rehearsing to his friends how much he appreciated what had been done for him by the academy trustees when he was a youth.

Mrs. Cate left a personal estate valued at about $20,000. Of that amount one-seventh, in accordance with the provisions of her will, will go to the Marlboro hospital, one-seventh to the Ladies' Charitable society connected with the Unitarian church of this city. The other beneficiaries will be relatives. She left a number of very valuable books, and some of these will be given to the public library, as provided in her will.

A NEW LEAGUE

IS TO BE ORGANIZED IN PENNSYLVANIA

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13.—The National board of arbitration concluded its work late yesterday and adjourned to meet again in July in New York city, which meeting will principally be devoted to the important work of re-classifying the leagues.

Nearly sixty cases were passed on by board during the day and a number of others on the calendar were referred by Secretary John F. Farrell for future decision. At the closing session of the board the claim of Bridgeport, Connecticut, against Goldsboro, N. C., was allowed.

The application of the Cactus league of Texas with headquarters at El Paso, Texas, was favorably acted upon.

Pennsylvania is to have a new state league.

SUPREME COURT

Decided That Judge Dana Erred

The full bench of the supreme court yesterday sustained the defendant's exceptions in the cross suits of George E. Searle vs. the Roman Catholic bishop of Springfield, holding that Judge Dana erred in excluding from the jury any Roman Catholic.

Under the ruling of Judge Dana two jurors were excluded from the panel. The actions related to the title of a building on land that had been acquired by Bishop Beaven on Union street, Easthampton, as a site for a church.

When the case came up for trial counsel for the plaintiff asked the judge to rule that a Roman Catholic could not sit on the jury, on the ground that the defendant was the Roman Catholic bishop of Springfield, a corporation sole under the acts of 1898, who held the title to the real estate in trust for the Roman Catholic church and that such jurors had an interest in the suit analagous to that which taxpayers have in a suit against the city or town in which they reside.

The supreme court says:

"It is not contended, and it could not successfully be contended, that holding the same religious belief as one of the parties, or affiliation with him in the same church, would disqualify a person from sitting as a juror in his case. The application of such a doctrine would be unjust and impracticable.

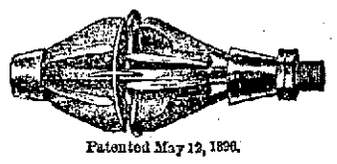

"The real estate held by the defendant is in the town of Easthampton, and it was bought as a site for a church. The excluded jurors were not taxpayers in that town, and it may be assumed that they were not members of the parish that was expected to use the church. The ruling applied to all jurors of the Roman Catholic faith, without reference to their residence or to any close affiliation with the local church."

The court holds the ruling was a violation of the statutory provision and of the defendant's right to have the excluded men sit as jurors unless challenged by the plaintiff.

The court is of opinion that the ruling was an injury to the defendant, which entitles him to a new trial. In the superior court a jury returned a verdict of $800 for the plaintiff, but a new trial will be held.

MILLS IN BILLERICA

Are Enjoying a Very Prosperous Season Just Now

While the mills in this city, and in fact nearly all the mills throughout New England, are curtailing, just a few miles out of Lowell—North Billerica,—the Talbot and Faulkner mills are running on full time, and in the Talbot mills several departments are running overtime in order to balance up.

Both mills have found this year a very prosperous one and with the number of orders on hand at the present time and prospective orders there is nothing that would indicate that there will be any curtailment in either mill for a long time at least.

The Talbot Mill

The Talbot mill, which is the larger of the two corporations in North Billerica, besides furnishing plenty of work, also looks after the interests of the employe. The management has from time to time offered special inducements to the employes in order to show the latter that their work is appreciated.

Among the many advantages and inducements offered to the employes of the Tabot mills are up-to-date houses at reasonable rates, special prizes for the care of gardens and lawns about those houses, reading room, library, dining room, and many other things, including pensions.

Savings Bank Insurance

Now the management of the mill has gone a little further in its effort to assist its employes and in the course of a short time a savings bank insurance will be in operation.

G. S. Hutchinson of Boston addressed a number of the employes of the company last Tuesday evening relative to the new plan under which the Massachusetts legislature has authorized savings banks to issue various forms of life insurance policies under such conditions that the rates are lower than those of the regular companies.

Yesterday the following notices were distributed to the employes of the mill:

"To the Employes of the Talbot Mills:

"The legislature of Massachusetts has authorized savings banks to issue various forms of life insurance policies under such conditions that the rates are lower than those of the regular companies.

"Believing that this kind of life insurance is a perfectly safe investment and also that it is most desirable for wage earners to make such provision for their families, or for their old age, we have decided to act as agent for the banks issuing these policies. We shall do this without compensation from any source, and shall willingly bear the expense involved in order that we may assist our employes in the following ways:

"1. Securing full information about the matter.

"2. In taking out policies if they wish to.

"3. In forwarding to the banks their monthly payments.

"With this object we have engaged Mr. G. S. Hutchinson to come to the mill on Monday, Nov. 15, and to remain as many days as may be necessary to give all who wish an opportunity to talk with him. He is fully competent to explain the various kinds of insurance, and after receiving the information, there will not be the slightest obligation to apply for a policy if you do not wish to.

"If you are interested in the subject, please sign the enclosed card and give to the overseer of your department. He will notify you when you can leave your work to talk with Mr. Hutchinson.

"Yours truly,
"Talbot Mills,
"Frederick S. Clark, Pres."

Purchasing Outside Yarn

President Frederci S. Clark, of the Talbot mills, in conversatoin with a representative of The Sun yesterday afternoon stated that the future outlook is very good and that there is every reason to believe that this year will be a very successful one from an industrial standpoint.

At the present time the mill is running "full" in every department and the card room is being run overtime. In order to keep up with orders it is necessary for the mill to purchase outside yarn.

During the present year the company has substituted new and up-to-date looms to take the place of some older ones.

The Faulkner Mill

Agent W. A. Evans of the Faulkner mill also had good news. Business at this plant has been very good and Mr. Evens does not anticipate any change in the conditions. Orders have been given for a number of new Knowles looms which will be installed within a short time. The management is also seriously considering the advisability of installing a new boiler in the power plant of the mill.

Father Mathew T. A. S.

The 22d anniversary of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence society will be observed tonight in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall. Extensive arrangements have been made for the event.

Among the speakers who will deliver addresses are Edward F. Slattery, James O'Sullivan, Rev. John Foley, O. M. I., J. Nelson Parker, Charles H. Kohlrausch, Hugh J. Molloy and others.

The exercises will open with a banquet at 6.30 o'clock.

A STAR KICKER

Cunningham of Princeton is a Wonder

PRINCETON, Nov. 13.—In years to come when the football experts are discussing the merits of the different star kickers the name of Cunningham, Princeton's clever halfback and sensational toe artist, will always be mentioned. When the value of the field goal was reduced from four to three points last winter many were inclined to believe that this move would discourage goal kicking. Such is not the case, however, and the man with the educated toe is as much feared now as he ever was. Several times this season Cunningham's booting has been instrumental in helping the Tigers to win over their opponents. In the game against Fordham university it was heady work on the part of the clever toe of Cunningham that saved the Tigers from being played to a scoreless tie. With but a few minutes left to play in the second half of the game Princeton recovered the ball on a fumble. Cunningham was called upon to drive the oval over the crossbar for the three points that meant saving his team from the ignominy of a tie with a supposedly weaker eleven, and he was equal to the task. In the game with Yale the slogan was, "Watch Cunningham and his educated toe!"

TOMMY HUESTON, POOL CHAMPION

KLING DEFEATED

HUESTON IS AGAIN THE POOL CHAMPION

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 13.—Thos. A. Hueston of St. Louis for the third time becomes champion pool player of the world. He defeated John C. Kling, in the fourth and final block of their 800 ball match last night. The total score for the series stood:

Hueston, 800; Kling, 653.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Proclamation Was Issued by Gov. Eben S. Draper

Gov. Draper yesterday designated Thursday, Nov. 25, as Thanksgiving day in a proclamation as follows:

By His Excellency
Eben S. Draper
Governor.
A Proclamation
For a Day of Public
Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient custom, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the 25th day of November, as Thanksgiving day.

Annually, since colonial days, the people of the commonwealth have observed a day of thanksgiving for the mercies which have been vouchsafed to them by Almighty God.

No year has been more appropriate for such an observance than this year of 1909. In material things we have cause for thanksgiving, because our people are prosperous. What is of more importance is that liberty of conscience, which caused the settlement of the Massachusetts colony, has been preserved in the laws of the commonwealth and is believed in by the people.

We have great cause to be thankful that the people of this day and generation recognize peculiarly their obligations to each other, and the strong and well-to-do are giving of their strength and means to help their less fortunate neighbors.

May all the people take some time of this day to thank Almighty God for the blessings which have been so bountifully showered on the United States as a nation, and Massachusetts as a commonwealth.

Given at the council chamber this third day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nine, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-fourth.

Eben S. Draper.

SCHOOL CENSUS

The Work of Taking It Has Been Completed

The work of taking the school census including children between the ages of five and fifteen years, was completed a few days ago. The census was taken by the truant officers and janitors, nine in all, and a man to every ward. The work of taking the school census is quite a formidable task, a fact quickly realized when one stops to think that every house in the city is visited by the census takers and in some instances they have hard work to have parents understand their mission and the information that is required. The census taker could spin some funny yarns if he wanted to and occasionally he does. The laugh is on one fellow who called at a house and was met at the door by a German woman. "Have you any children between the ages of five and fifteen years?" he asked. "Nein," replied the woman. Nein is the German for no, but the census taker wasn't up on German and he thought she meant that she had nine children and that's the way he booked it.

The census by wards for this year is as follows: Ward 1, 943, ward 2, 1595; ward 3, 1257; ward 4, 1623; ward 5, 1326; ward 6, 3253; ward 7, 1511; ward 8, 1248; ward 9, 1715. Total, 14,710—an increase of 146 over last year, the total last year being 14,594. These census include the public and parochial schools, and ward 6 is the ward that shows the big gain. The total of that ward last year was 2,905 and this year it is 3253.

BOWLING RECORD

Broken by Catholic League Teams

Bowling records were shattered to the winds last night when the St. Peter's and C. M. A. C. teams of the Catholic league met on the alleys. The St. Peter's team won by the narrow margin of four pins. Both teams rolled over the 1400 mark, the winning team having a total of 1447.

The single string team record of 517 made by the C. M. A. C. is also a new record as are the single of 148 and triple of 352 by McCarty of the winning team.

There were several other good games played including contests in the Manufacturers, Lamson and other leagues. The scores:

THE LOWELL CLUB

To Get $500 For Sale of Venable

MEMPHIS, Nov. 14.—The petition of Johnstown, Pa., to enforce the sale of player Wilkes by Lowell, Mass. to Johnstown was allowed by the arbitration board yesterday.

The claims of Wheeling, W. Va. and Lowell, Mass. relatives to the sale of Player Venable for $1000 were adjusted by each club being allowed $500 as it was shown both had an equity on the player. A reprimand was issued to both clubs for failing to file with Secretary Farrell, the sale of Venable.

STREET WORK

DEPARTMENT ABOUT FINISHED FOR THE YEAR

The street and sewer departments are about finished with their outdoor work, a few small sewers and a stretch of paving in Bridge street being all the work remaining to be done.

The street department expected to finish the Bridge street job this year, but has been waiting on the Locks and Canals company, which is to put a new bridge over the canal at the Massachusetts mills. The Locks and Canals company has failed to put in the bridge and hence the paving cannot be done this year.

NEW SPANISH TREATY

Raises Question Between United States and Cuba

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Through the U. S. minister in Havana the state department has called upon the Cuban government for a statement intended to disclose whether or not the newly negotiated treaty between Spain and Cuba constitutes such an arrangement as would destroy the preferential treatment granted American imports into Cuba under the existing reciprocity treaty. The continuance of this treaty, which has done much to foster trade between Cuba and America, depends probably upon the nature of this answer.

Under the terms of the reciprocity treaty, United States imports into Cuba were to be granted a preferential rate ranging between 25 and 40 per cent, in return for a like preferential rate of 20 per cent on Cuban goods coming into the United States. Now news comes from Madrid that Spain has practically completed a new treaty with Cuba, allowing an abatement of 60 per cent on Cuban imports into Spain in return for concessions of a like nature of Spanish goods entering Cuba.

PETER DELOREY

Says That His Confession Was All a Lie

For three hours and sixteen minutes yesterday Peter Delorey was on the witness stand denying the "confession" which he made to the police in the North Cambridge police station the night of April 2, 1909, relating to the murder of Annie Mullins.

For three hours of that time he was under the rigid questioning of District Attorney Higgins.

Delorey declared he had not been warned by the police that what he might say would be used against him at the trial.

"Lieut. Gordon said James Mantir had confessed he had cut Annie Mullins' throat and that I was with him, so I said the same thing about him," declared Delorey.

"I was frightened," he said. "When I denied I knew anything about it, Lieut. Gordon said I was lying. Then my aunt told her story. I was frightened and I cried. They kept telling me I was lying and that the Greek had confessed. Finally I said 'Yes' it was true. I don't remember all of the story I told."

Witness is Nervous

There was a noticeable difference between Mantir's attitude while testifying and that of Delorey. While Mantir was at all times cool and quiet, Delorey was plainly nervous and ill at ease.

His eyes were glistening with tears once during the cross examination. District Attorney Higgins began to question him about the alleged confession. Standing close in front of Delorey with outstretched hand and finger pointing accusingly at his face, the prosecutor went over the narrative, sentence by sentence, and asked: "Did you tell Mr. Gordon and Mr. Byrnes that?"

"I don't remember that I did," Delorey would reply, and District Attorney Higgins would come back each time: "Will you say that you did not?" and Delorey would answer: "I will not."

The largest crowd since the trial opened was in the courtroom and thronging the building and yard during the day. They literally fought for admission in their anxiety to see Delorey and hear him retract his "confession."

Mantir Recalled

District Attorney Higgins recalled Mantir to ask about scenes at the North Cambridge police station, where Delorey "confessed."

"Did Peter cry?" he was asked.

Mantir looked at Peter Delorey in the cage, smiling, then bobbing his head up and down and puckering his face humorously, sniffed: "Like that," he said, laughing.

"Did you say at any time: 'Me no talk'?" demanded District Attorney Higgins.

Mantir flared up: "I not say it in that way. I said: 'How can I go with girl that time when I can't speak good English?'"

When Peter Delorey was first put on the stand by Lawyer McDermott for direct examination his replies were scarcely audible.

Coming to the day of Annie Mullins' death, March 27, 1908, Delorey said he left the farm of his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Delorey, in the morning with some cranberries, gold stones sent to Boston for assay by Mrs. Delorey, and a valise.

"I got off the car at North Cambridge," said Delorey, "and went into the pool room a little while and then I went to my aunt's, Mrs. Alma Delorey, at 33 Dudley street, to leave half the cranberries. Then I went home about noon with the rest of the cranberries.

"That afternoon I went to North Cambridge again and about 4 o'clock I started for Boston to see Mr. Harding. The next morning I got up about 6 o'clock and went in to Boston after breakfast. I met Mr. Harding on Union street at 7 o'clock on the way to the Central market on North street. I worked all day in his stall."

Retracts Confession

Attorney Frank McDermott asked him: "At the time you were in the station house with Officers Gordon and Byrnes did you tell them you were with James Mantir in Marathon Field at the time Annie Mullins was killed?"

"I did," answered Delorey instantly.

Everyone started up expectantly as the lawyer continued, "And was it true?"

Delorey straightened up, and with his arms folded across his breast faced the jury. "It was not," he answered.

"Your witness," said Mr. McDermott, facing toward the district attorney.

District Attorney Higgins began his cross-examination at 12.08. Delorey declared he had been in Marathon field but once in his life and that time he merely crossed it. He said he did not know there was a depression in it. This is the gully at the edge of which Annie Mullins' body was found. When District Attorney Higgins asked him what happened at the time of his arrest he replied: "Which time?"

"Why, were you arrested more than once?" flashed back the prosecutor. "I was," answered Delorey. "I was arrested in February for loitering in North Cambridge and fined $5."

A copy of the court record was then introduced by the prosecutor showing that he had been arrested and fined on March 9, 1908, instead of in February as he stated.

Delorey declared Lieutenant Gordon did not say, "I think you are not telling the truth," when the witness denied last spring that he had been with Annie Mullins, but said: "I think you are lying."

He declared Gordon told him Mantir had confessed and said Peter helped him.

"Then you said you would tell the truth?" asked District Attorney Higgins. "I did," replied Delorey.

"And you began to tell the truth?"

"I did not."

"Then what you said was all lies made out of whole cloth?"

"Yes."

A NEW BRIDGE

To be Built Between Hudson and Nashua

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 13.—Another conference between the Nashua board of public works and the selectmen of Hudson was held at the city hall here last night and resulted in placing the preparations for the proposed new bridge in better shape. The report from the engineer engaged by the town of Hudson to examine the bridge was read.

Contrary to rumors, this report declares that the bridge could be put into condition for ordinary traffic for weights not exceeding five tons for from $4500 to $7500 and states that the bridge was not designed for street car travel and cannot be made to stand up under heavy interurban cars.

A sub-committee, consisting of Arthur W. Dean and Erwin O. Hathaway of the Nashua board and James P. Howe and Kimball Webster of Hudson was appointed, with Mr. Dean as chairman and Mr. Hathaway as secretary. The four are empowered to make preparations for a new bridge and secure figures as near as possible. The sub-committee will proceed as far as it can without the authority to make contracts and ask for bids.

The Hudson selectmen hope to secure an attendance at the adjourned special town meeting next Wednesday to take action on an appropriation for the town's part of the work.

THEY'RE ELECTED

Town Clerks Vouch for Stevens and Cuff

Town Clerk Brennan of Dracut met with City Clerk Dadman at city hall yesterday and after canvassing the returns of the 14th representative district both formally declared George H. Stevens to be the regularly elected representative from that district. Of course George was wise to the fact before, but he couldn't get his name on the payroll until the clerks endorsed him.

Town Clerks Chandler of Tewksbury and King of Billerica also met with the city clerk and canvassed the returns of the 19th deestrict, after which they allowed that Tommy Cuff had won somethin'. Then the city clerk showed them his town and they all went home happy in the full performance of their duty.

INTERURBAN ROAD

Counsel Coolidge Puts the Blame Up to the Commissioners

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The state board of railroad commissioners yesterday began the hearing of final arguments as to the necessity of a high speed electric railroad between Boston, Lowell and Lawrence.

Counsel Coolidge, for the Boston & Maine, occupied practically the entire forenoon in his argument, devoting himself principally to the contention that the railroad commissioners are at fault if transportation facilities in this district are not what they should be. It is the sworn duty of the board he said, in case it finds existing transportation systems are not what they should be, to recommend improvements, and having failed to do this, the board now has not the right to inject into this territory a new system to tap the Boston & Maine's business, and render that company less able to give to the public the character of service it has a right to expect.

City Solicitor Frank W. Kaan of Somerville argued that no public necessity has been shown for the construction of such a road through that city.

At the afternoon session James F. Jackson, ex-chairman of the railroad commission, made the closing argument for the petitioners. He called attention to the statement made to the board at a former hearing by Pres. Dumaine of the Boston railroad holding company, which he said was a statement carefully prepared and studied as to its contents. Mr. Dumaine even going to the extreme of asking the newspaper men to use great care in reporting him. This statement, Mr. Jackson said, really contained nothing except an assertion that the Boston & Maine will make such improvements as it thinks necessary, just as it has always done.

Mr. Jackson reviewed the evidence presented in favor of the new project, stating that no one denies that it will be a public benefit to some extent; the question for the commission to determine is whether its benefits outweigh the damages it will cause, and if they find to this effect, then the petitioners are entitled to the certificate they pray for.

At the opening today the stocks opened up, and the steady gait which was assumed yesterday was present, and the prices took leap after leap. Trading was the best of any session held this week and the closing at noon gave the opinion to many that a very strong and aggressive market may be looked for Monday. The stocks which practically have been the buying and selling basis of the week, although holding the place attained on the sheet during the early part of the week were not as lively today, and they seemed to give way to the element of the entire list of stocks. Irregularity prevailed as was expected and the greatest selling occurred when drives were formed. Buying was mostly for trading and not for investment and this fact lent some assistance to the sheet which may have injured the situation had the stocks been held for increases.

Gains and Losses Were Quite Equally Divided—The Copper Stocks Showed Notable Strength—Railroad Stocks Not Materially Altered From Yesterday's Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The changes shown by the opening prices of stocks were insignificant and dealings very light. Gains and losses were quite equally divided. Butterick Publishing rose 1⅛ and Utah Copper ½. Interborough-Met. declined ⅝.

A firm tone permeated the market, the copper stocks showing notable strength. Utah Copper was bought in round amounts up to 57⅝ a gain of 4½. Advances in other stocks of this class was less noteworthy. Railroad stocks were not materially altered from yesterday's final prices.

The market closed firm and active. The movement in the coppers was the only feature. The rise in Utah Copper reached 6⅝. Tenn. Copper 2 and Amal. Copper 1¾.

Boston Copper Market

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—On broad active trading local copper stocks advanced sharply today with Butte stocks leading. The close was at the highest. North Butte 60¾, up ½; Butte Coalition 30¾, up 1; Utah Consolidated 46, up 1½.

Copper continued to be the stock favored most by the traders this morning and the activity which was manifest in this section gave rise to the rumor that an old fashioned copper market was being nursed. Cole-Ryan and the Guggenheim holdings were the stocks where the activity was particularly noticeable but it was thought that the entire copper situation would be helped materially in the rallies. Amalgamated and the Smelters were the buyers of the session and while not making much headway on the list they presented some life which the stocks have not enjoyed for some time.

In the presence of the money rates being announced at a stiff discount and the prospects of a poor bank statement coming out today, the afternoon hours of yesterday's market proved to be the most profitable that the market has observed for a long time. From an unprofitable and uninteresting session it developed prices which were really astonishing for the short space of time. Rallies were found and the stock prices went soaring upward and the sheet which during the morning hours of the session had been a repetition of the previous days' experience, took on the new change and every stock of any importance was sent on a good buying scale. The stocks which benefited most by the change of affairs were the industrials, copper and steel.

The Money Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $6,769,000 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule, this is an increase of $1,726,425 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week. The statement follows:

Loans, decrease, $20,731,500.
Deposits, decrease, $26,672,500.
Circulation, decrease, $55,500.
Legal tenders, increase, $37,400.
Specie, decrease, $4,974,100.
Surplus reserve $6,769,000, increase $1,726,425.

Ex U. S. deposits $7,157,175, increase $1,737,550.

The percentage of actual reserve of the clearing house banks today was 25.94.

The statement of banks and trust companies of Greater New York not reporting to the clearing house shows that these institutions have aggregate deposits of $1,251,897,700; total cash on hand $143,961,000 and loans amounting to $1,202,283,300.

Prime mercantile paper 5 to 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm at 483.15 @483.35 for sixty days and at 487.35 for demand. Commercial bills 482½@483. Bar silver 50¾. Mexican dollars 43. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds heavy. Money on call nominal; no loans. Time loans strong; sixty days 5¼ and 90 days 5@5¼ per cent.; six months 5 per cent. Exchanges, $372,456,395; balances, $12,063,051. For the week: Exchanges, $2,251,992,196; balances, $87,551,128.

Favorable news was heard on all sides and the announcement of the securing of $1,000,000 in gold by the Bank of England was welcomed. The centre of anxiety this morning, was the wiring out of the surplus reserves being held in New York. In the event of the rate of discount being increased to 6 per cent, however, it will enable the bank to show and increase in the list. Although the money market may attain higher rates next week it will not injure the market and the prices will not be lowered any in change.

WINSTON CHURCHILL ATTACKED

BRISTOL, Eng., Nov. 13.—A wild-eyed suffragette, armed with a horsewhip, attacked Winston Spencer Churchill here this afternoon and it was only after a struggle that the woman was repulsed. Churchill and his wife had just arrived by train and were leaving the railroad station when a woman suddenly darted out from the crowd and commenced to belabor the cabinet member with a rawhide. Churchill promptly seized his assailant and succeeded in wrenching the whip from her hands after a sharp struggle during which the two barely escaped falling from the platform to the tracks below. The militant suffragette was arrested and imprisoned. She refused to give her name.

$1,000,000 INVOLVED

In Case That is Being Heard in Taunton

TAUNTON, Nov. 13.—The million-dollar will case involving the admission to probate of the will of Elizabeth F. Noble of Mansfield was opened in the probate court here yesterday morning before Judge Fuller. Heirs from a dozen or more states were present in person or represented by counsel in the attempt to set aside bequests of $700,000 to various charitable societies. Mrs. Noble was 94 at the time of her death and 83 when she made the will. It is contended that she was not of sound mind when the will was executed.

Jennings, Morton & Brayton appeared for William Kindall, a legatee; Clarence J. Shearn of New York appeared for Elizabeth Johnson; Rhodes, Gray & Gorham appeared for penal charities, and Henry M. Rogers appeared for the other charities. Albert E Pillsbury also appeared, and several others of the counsel for individual legatees.

Counsel McClellan, for the will, outlined the case. Mrs. Noble's charitable bequests, he said, were in accord with the sympathies expressed during her lifetime. When the will was made it appeared to Mrs. Noble that the residue was larger than she had anticipated. A provision was inserted in the will that if the residue was larger than $40,000, six other charitable societies were to be remembered.

Witnesses to the will were called in the persons of Mrs. Marion Moultrop of Mansfield, Mrs. Alma M. Hagerty and Charles G. Hagerty.

Mr. Hagerty was questioned at length, and, in reply to a query, said the estimated value of the estate was $842,598.50. Asked what other wills he had found, Mr. Hagerty said the first instrument he found was in a box sent to him after the death of his client. It was executed in New York, March 13, 1892, and the next in order of date was a will purporting to be executed Oct. 24, 1896, at witness' office in Mansfield. Witness did not draw the will, but Mrs. Noble said that she had it written in New York, and wanted Mr. Hagerty to witness the execution.

Witness proceeded to testify to the various wills, and at adjournment this afternoon it was announced the hearing would be resumed on Monday. Many fashionably dressed women from various states were in attendance at the hearing.

The institutions which will benefit should the will be upheld by the court are the New York Society for Improving the Conditions of the Poor, the Children's Aid Society of the City of New York; the New York Ladies' Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the American Humane Education society of Boston and the State Association of the Young Men's Christian Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

U.S. GOVERNMENT

Spends $18,000,000 in Experimental Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Secretary Wilson has issued a statement pointing out that the United States government is spending in the neighborhood of $18,000,000 a year on experimental work in increasing the yield and efficiency of the farms of the country. The statement was inspired by the charge made by William C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines at a dinner in New York this week that the nation could better afford to invest the cost of one battleship in agricultural experiment work than to expend it in the increase of the navy. A battleship costs approximately $9,000,000.

Secretary Wilson declares that the government is expending each year exactly twice as much as two first class battleships cost and the money is being used in precisely the manner recommended by President Brown.

The assistance given the farmers of the United States, the secretary declared, is not confined to any locality. As an instance of the aid the department renders, Secretary Wilson recited the case of a farmer who was raising only twenty bushels of potatoes to the acre and who, dissatisfied, appealed to the department for assistance and advice. Both were given him promptly and Mr. Wilson says he now is raising two hundred and fifty bushels to the acre on the same land as a result of the seed and information given him by the government.

THE HORSE SHOW

Will Come to a Close Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Children's morning opened the last day of the National Horse show. Successful far beyond the shows of recent years and up to the mark of the best of previous exhibitions, the Madison Square garden show of 1909 will close tonight with the awards of the various championships. Winners in the various classes will parade for the distinctive honor, an exhibition which always brings out the multitude.

It would be difficult, however, to crowd the amphitheatre more than it has been crowded nearly every night of the show.

During this morning in the presence of a big assemblage of children, the ponies in harness and under saddle were put through their paces. Driving horses took a prominent part in the afternoon program. The last of the international contests was decided last night. The British officers won it and with it the majority of these events three wins to two for the American army officers.

THE ARCHBISHOP

Issues a Circular Letter to Pastors

Next Tuesday will be the 25th anniversary of the consecration of Pope Pius X as bishop of Mantua, and in observance of the silver jubilee period of the sovereign pontiff's life, the Most Rev. Wm. H. O'Connell has issued a circular letter to the pastors of the Boston archdiocese which will be read in all the churches Sunday morning.

The letter reads as follows:

Reverend and Dear Father —On Tuesday, Nov. 16, our holy father, Pope Pius X, will celebrate the silver jubilee of his consecration as a bishop.

Everything that concerns the sacred person of His Holiness naturally awakens the deepest interest in our hearts, and on this occasion I know that you will all show your great affection for our reigning pontiff by offering mass and asking for prayers of the faithful that God may bless our Holy Father and strengthen him to carry out the great and wise plans he has inaugurated of "Restoring all things in Christ."

W. H. O'Connell.
Archbishop of Boston.

STABBED BY GIRL

Young Woman Went to Aid of Companion

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—John J. Sullivan, 26, of 71 Dover street, was taken to the City hospital yesterday morning with wounds received from a girl who fled in a taxicab with another man after stabbing Sullivan.

According to Sullivan, the man who was walking with the girl made an offensive remark to him near Washington and Castle street. He retorted and the man hit him. A scuffle followed and Sullivan was having the best of it when the girl stuck the blade of a knife into his back.

The girl's hands were covered with blood and her companion called a taxicab and they drove off.

Court Allows That Sum to a Baby

NEW YORK, Nov 13.—That a three year old baby cannot get along without an income of $15,000 a year. If she is heiress to an estate worth $320,000 and yielding an income of nearly $20,000 a year, was the dictum laid down by Judge Truax in the supreme court yesterday.

The lucky baby is Althea Rudd Ward, daughter of T. Edwin Ward and grand-daughter of the late George Rudd. When the grandfather died he left an estate valued at $640,000, of which little Althea was made the legatee of one-half.

Thomas Dimond, general guardian of the little girl, was made defendant in yesterday's action, the father being the plaintiff. He set forth that a child brought up in the surroundings to which little Althea had been accustomed could not live properly and be educated and reared as she should be on less than $15,000 a year. Judge Truax took the same view of the matter and ordered her father be paid $15,000 a year from the estate.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 13.—The steamer Charles A. Weston of Tonawanda, N. The Weston was lying at anchor, waiting to enter the Soo locks when the Hope rammed her port side.

PRICE OF EGGS.

At present fresh eggs are 55 cents a dozen, and the supply even at that price is quite limited. Here is an object lesson for farmers on the necessity of raising poultry. It seems that the farmers of this state could make money by raising poultry for the production of eggs which always command a good price in the local markets.

PENSIONS FOR RAILWAY EMPLOYES.

Apart from an improved system there is nothing that will tend more to decrease the number of accidents on railroads than good treatment of the employes. In this connection it is gratifying to find the Boston and Maine, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central railroads establishing pension systems for their employes. Good wages, reasonably short hours and pensions after a certain period of faithful service should inspire the employes to do all in their power to prevent accidents.

RESIGNING UNDER FIRE.

Rather than pass through the ordeal of a hearing on charges of irregularity conflicting with rule 19 of the police department, Officer Hersey has resigned. It is reported, however, that he will apply for a reinstatement within six months. If an officer can evade punishment for any offense committed, by resigning and then making application to get back with any prospect of success, it is time the police department made a rule to prevent any such abuse. The charge against Officer Hersey has been placed on file in the police department, but should he hereafter make application for reinstatement, it would depend largely upon the police board then in office whether these charges would be brought up against him.

THE DISGRACE OF ILLINOIS.

It would be impossible to conceive of a more blood-thirsty and barbarous mob of citizens than that which lynched negro James, hanging him to a telegraph pole, piercing his body with bullets and then dragging it nearly a mile to be publicly burned. The head was cut off and elevated upon a stake and the heart was cut out and cut in pieces to be given as souvenirs to the mob.

Was ever such barbarity witnessed in a civilized land? When this tragedy had been completed, another prisoner, a white man, was taken from prison and lynched with somewhat less cruelty.

Not only the city of Cairo and the state of Illinois are disgraced by this outrage but the entire country. Governor Dineen sends troops to the scene but that will not prevent a repetition of the outbreak whenever a murder is committed.

If leaders in these lynching mobs were brought to justice and hanged there would be fewer such outbreaks in the future, but while Governor Dineen sends troops to Cairo, he does not institute an investigation that might result in the arrest of the ringleaders.

THE APPLE CROP NEGLECTED.

Among other crops neglected in New England is the apple crop which, according to the best authorities, might be made one of the best assets of the New England farmer. The farmers of past generations planted some orchards here and these bear the greater part of the apple crop of New England. The trees are old and rotting. They receive very little attention and little in the line of pruning, protection against the moth pests or any assistance in the enrichment of the soil.

It is estimated that with proper care and cultivation the sum of $300 an acre can be easily made from apples at the present prices. This, of course, would require special cultivation and attention.

There is a great deal of waste land that might easily be converted into apple orchards. Of course an apple tree, like every other tree that bears fruit, requires a soil in which there is some nourishment or plant food. There are many tracts of waste land abundantly rich to grow apples, and if apple trees were planted in such places, in a short time they would prove quite profitable. Worcester county, in this state, has the credit of being the best county for apples. Other counties could do equally well if the farmers paid special attention to the cultivation of apples. There is scarcely any crop that can be raised with as little cost as apples, once the trees have reached maturity.

THE CANDIDATES ASSAIL EACH OTHER.

We notice with regret that some of the democratic candidates for mayor are becoming quite personal in their remarks relative to one another. In doing this they are laying the foundation for democratic defeat, because they are furnishing ammunition to be used against their own party by republicans. Until within the past few days the canvass was conducted quietly and without personal attacks, but now it seems a different policy is being pursued by some of the candidates. The candidates who do this must realize that they are sowing dragons' teeth that may rise into armed men to strike them down on election day.

Let the candidates who address large audiences at the mill gates, on the street corners and elsewhere, remember that they owe an obligation to their party not to adopt a course that may make victory at the polls impossible. When a candidate is defeated for the nomination he may promise support to the man who bitterly assailed him but he finds it a difficult thing to do and he cannot force his friends to support the nominee, try he ever so hard.

The people of Lowell, regardless of party, look to the democrats for redemption from the humiliating conditions that have prevailed during the present year. It is the duty of democrats to select their strongest man as candidate for mayor and then unite as never before for his election. The man who undertakes to deal out abuse against this or that candidate is merely helping to make his own election impossible, even though nominated, and thereby helping to elect the republican candidate.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Many an heiress buys a gold brick in the form of a husband.

The less a man knows about women the more he thinks he knows.

The average man's idea of a "good story" wouldn't go in a church paper.

If a man gives up a bad habit it is because he's tired of it.

Married men imagine that heaven is a place where there is no housecleaning.

The average man is willing to risk choking if permitted to bite off more than he can chew.

What has become of the old-fashioned boy who would rather stay home and work than go to school?

Most of us are anxious to pose as reformers, but we don't want to begin at home.

In the nature of things a wedding isn't a wedding if it proceeds without a hitch.

Our idea of a satisfactory wife is one who refuses to purchase ties and cigars for her husband.

When a man in a small town tries to be dignified the best he can get is a reputation for having a swelled head.

A woman can look at a man in a way that makes him feel like a plugged nickel—then she spoils the effect by saying things.

An Ohio man died of blood poisoning after being pecked by a hen. Most hen pecked men, however, continue to live and suffer.

Nothing jolts a man harder than the discovery that the card up the other fellow's sleeve is bigger than the one up his own.

Say girls, it's about time to start in making neckties and sofa cushions. No fairs to give him a cushion that you won at a church bazaar.

OASIS.

Let them go by—the heats, the doubts, the strife;
I can sit here and care not for them now,
Dreaming beside the glimmering wave of life
Once more—I know not how.

There is a murmur in my heart, I hear
Faint, oh, so faint, some air I used to sing;
It stirs my sense and odors dim and dear
The meadow breezes bring.

Just this way did the quiet twilights fade
Over the fields and happy homes of men,
While one bird sang as now, piercing the shade,
Long since—I know not when.

—Edward Dowden.

THY WILL BE DONE

Not in dumb resignation
We lift our hands on high;
Not like the nerveless fatalist
Content to trust and die.
Our faith springs like the eagle
Who soars to meet the sun,
And cries, exulting unto Thee,
O Lord, Thy will be done!

When Tyrant feet are trampling
Upon the common weal,
Thou dost not bid us bend and writhe
Beneath the iron heel,
In thy name we assert our right
By sword or tongue or pen,
And even the headsman's axe may flash
Thy message unto men.

Thy will! It bids the weak be strong
It bids the strong be just;
No lip to fawn, no hand to beg,
No brow to seek the dust.
Wherever man oppresses man
Beneath Thy liberal sun,
O Lord be there, thine arm made bare,
Thy righteous will be done!

— John Hay

The society woman who entertains much will appreciate a little story that is laid at the door of Count von Moltke. The count one evening invited to his home a large number of friends and acquaintances. Some of these people he had met but recently and among the number were two brothers who were members of the general staff. The count, as he strolled from group to group, tried to recall the names of these officers, whom he desired to welcome personally, but his memory failed him utterly. He could not even remember how or when or where he had met them. He might of course, have asked some of his other guests who the gentlemen were, but that would have been confessing that he did not know whom he was entertaining, which, of course did not appeal to him to be good policy. He decided, therefore, to ascertain from the men themselves who they were. Accordingly, he approached a group of officers among whom was one of his two unidentified guests and joined in the conversation there. Awaiting a favorable opportunity, the count explained. The questioned officer looked in the direction indicated: "Oh," he said. "Why, your excellency, that is my brother." "Certainly! Of course! Why, how stupid of me!" the count explained as he made a smiling retreat. It was some time before he gained courage to approach the "tall officer near the fireplace," but one of the officers who had witnessed the count's first attempt to ascertain his guest's name, observed that he finally joined the second group as he had the first and that after a short conversation he turned away as he had done before. The observer, being curious, found opportunity later to speak to the "tall officer." He inquired what the count had asked him. "He asked me," the officer explained, "who that officer was over there near the table." "And what did you tell him?" the inquisitive one inquired. "Why I said that he was my brother."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

A Chicago jury commissioner says that a man who is accustomed to take tips is not the right sort of man to serve on a jury.

Miss Anna B. Eckstein of Boston, who is now abroad in the interests of the international peace movement, is making her headquarters at Coburg, Germany, and from these goes to various places on brief visits. She has just gone to Copenhagen, Denmark, to deliver a series of lectures on peace and the abolition of war.

"If I could have my way," writes James J. Hill in the World's Work, "I would build a couple of warships a year less. I would take that $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 a year and start at least one thousand agricultural schools in the United States at $5000 a year each in the shape of model farms. The purpose of each farm would be to furnish to all the neighborhood a working model for common instruction."

A Kentucky postmaster made trouble for three United States judges when he held up a lot of letters of a distilling company in which a certain brand of whiskey was described as "old." The postmaster, doubting the age of the liquor, took the ground that the letters were fraud letters. Now the case has reached the federal court at Cincinnati, and at last accounts Judges Lurton, Severens and Warrington were unable to tell at what age whiskey is really "old."

The two women graduates of the College of Engineering of the Ohio State university are: Mrs. R. S. Feicht, nee Bertha A. Lamme, who received the degree of Mechanical Engineer in Electrical Engineering in 1893; and and Mrs. Walter F. Lineburger, nee Florence E. Hite, who received the degree of Civil Engineer in Architecture. Mrs. Feicht lives in Pittsburg, where her husband, a graduate of the same college in 1890, is an electrical engineer with the Westinghouse company. Mrs. Lineberger, up to the time of her marriage, was an architect in Chicago and Columbus. She now resides at Torreon, Coah., Mexico.

Suffragettes made their first appearance in politics, Prof. Frank Abbott says in his "Society and Politics in Ancient Rome," in 195 B. C. The occasion for the uprising of the women "to have more than half an ounce of gold, to wear a parti-colored garment or to ride in a chariot within the city or within a mile of it except for religious purposes." This was too much to be endured by the gentle ladies, and the maids and matrons of Rome rose up in their wrath and stormed the Forum very much as the suffragettes of London have stormed parliament and "blocked up all the streets of the city and the approaches to the Forum, importuning men as they came down to the Forum to vote for the restoration of their rights."

The Paris Petit Journal tells some stories gathered from the imperial nursery at Livadia about the children of the czar. The most interesting of the family is the little czarowitch, Alexis Nikolowitch. He is full of fun and play, fond of soldiers, insists on being saluted in military fashion, tyrannizes over his father, and loves no one so much as his nurse, Marie Ivanovna, and his orderly, Stepan, a grizzled veteran who never advanced to a higher grade than corporal. The liking for the orderly has its foundation in fact that the through him he receives occasionally slices of the black bread which is served to the soldiers in the barracks. When he says his prayers at night he always asks a blessing on Stepan before naming his father or mother. When chided for this disrespect by his mother, he said: "Millions of Russians pray for the czar; one prayer for Stepan can be spared."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL.

The degree staff of Empire colony, U. O. P. F., held its first social and dance last night at O. U. A. M. hall. There was a good attendance and the affair proved to be a success both from a social and financial standpoint. Atwood's orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

M. U. Odd Fellows

The third annual dance by the Burial Lot association of the I. O. O. F., M. U., was held in Prescott hall last evening. There was a good attendance. Hibbard's orchestra furnished the music. The following were responsible for the success of the social: General manager, George Emsley, P. F. G. M.; assistant general manager, Fred Bell, P. G.; floor director, Frederick M. Silk; assistant floor director, William Saunders; chief aid, George Camp; aids, Charles Neild, James Everett, George Chase; reception committee, Brothers Charles Sargent, Roland Taylor, Willis Bowles, Merritt Johnson, Isaac Tinker, Jesse Whitworth, Wm. Walker, Arthur Mansell, William Boutilier, Walter Hird, E. Hanson, and Wm. Bostwick.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night. Sachem James Kershaw occupied the stump. Three applications were received and referred to a committee. An invitation was received from Passaquol tribe 27, of Haverhill to attend their Trading Post (Fair) at Lafayette hall, tonight. It was accepted, and a number of the brothers will attend.

The degree staff exemplified the warriors' degree in a creditable manner, and the visting chiefs spoke words of praise for the staff. The warriors will be exalted to the chief's degree at the next meeting. The anniversary committee stated that some of the high officers of the order are expected to be present. Remarks for the welfare of the tribe were made by G. E. Sutherland, William Martin, A. W. Garland, G. W. Randall and L. F. Steele.

Centralville Foresters

A prize drawing contest and dance was held under the auspices of Court Centralville, Foresters of America, in Foresters' hall last night, the occasion being the 12th anniversary of the organization of the court.

Those in charge were: General manager, Matthew Coope; assistant general manager, Duncan McKeon; floor director, John P. Hulmes; assistant floor director, George M. Shields. The aids were members of the court. Gilmore's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

Knights of Pythias

Chevalier-Middlesex lodge, No. 2, met last night in regular session, with a large attendance and with many out-of-town guests. The rank of knight was conferred in long form on six esquires. Friday, the 19th, the rank of knight will be conferred on the remainder of the class, and on that occasion the new paraphernalia will be on exhibition for the first time.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"This Woman and This Man" was presented last night at the opera house. The leading role of "Thekla Muller" was acted in an admirable manner by Miss Minnie Victorson. Miss Victorson is a very clever actress, and would play to better advantage in a play of a different character. Master Joseph Hughes as "David Thompson," and Joseph DeStefan as "Norris Townsend," were both in leading parts and met favorable criticism.

"THE CANDY SHOP."

Today at the opera house, matinee and evening, comes "The Candy Shop," the big new musical gaiety sponsored by Charles Dillingham, that is now ending an all autumn run at the Tremont theatre, Boston, where it was presented at the close of its all summer run in Chicago. It also enjoyed an all spring stay in New York. The cast of "The Candy Shop" is one of the most imposing musical comedy organizations of the day. Rock and Fulton, popular here in vaudeville and musical comedy companies Frank Lalor, a comedian well known throughout the country, Lucy Weston, famous comedienne, Mrs. Annie Yeamans, Louis Harrison, Douglas Stevenson, W. J. McCarthy and Mlle. Rayo, a premier danseuse are some of the big names on the list. The choruses are said to rank with the most attractive of the feminine ensembles of the gayest of the Dillingham organizations. George V. Hobart wrote the book of the production, and John L. Golden, composer of the music of Elsie Janis' "The Hayden," the score. The Chicago run, which began in June is said to have surpassed the attendance records of all prior summer musical shows in the middle western city. The fun of "The Candy Shop" passes in a candy salon in a fashionable quarter in New York, and in one of Coney Island's summer amusement parks on a summer night. The roles are said to be happily cast. William Rock's role is that of a soda water attendant who becomes stage-struck, and hires out with a moving picture theatre. Miss Fulton's role is that of a lovelorn candy shop girl. Mrs. Yeamans plays a suffragette part, and Louis Harrison a Coney Island amusement promotor. Lucy Weston plays herself, and W. J. McCarthy, a broken Dutch dialect character. Douglas Stevenson is the gaiety's lyrical juvenile. He will be recalled as the support two seasons ago of Edna Wallace Hopper, and before that as the Adonis of the companies sent on tour by Joe Weber. Last season he appeared as the prince in Weber's burlesque of "The Merry Widow."

HELEN GRAYCE

During the three past seasons Miss Grayce has undoubtedly done more for the popular priced drama than any other star on the stage today. She has succeeded in giving the very best of the recent successes in a perfect manner at popular prices. Plays that are even now being presented at the highest prices are offered by her at the minimum admission rates and the general public is thus given an opportunity to see all that is recognized as being the very best in the dramatic line. Among the productions that will be made next week at the Opera House are "When We Were Twenty-One," "In the Palace of the King," "The Toast of the Town," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The Pit," "In the Bishop's Carriage," and "Secret Orchard." Miss Grayce is a most prepossessing and talented actress. She has surrounded herself with a carefully selected company of metropolitan artists, while each and every play is staged with its special settings.

ELSIE JANIS.

Elsie Janis, lately "The Hoyden" of Cosmo Hamilton's fanciful comedy, is now "The Fair Co-Ed" of Mr. George Ade's cleverly satirized mid-western "fresh water" college play. Mr. Ade, it is said, has written a fitting successor to his merry "College Widow," and in "The Fair Co-Ed" Miss Janis is even happier than she was as the dainty and delightful "Hoyden" of previous seasons. Miss Janis and her associates in Mr. Charles Dillingham's company in "The Fair Co-Ed" will shortly be seen at the Lowell Opera House.

HATTIE WILLIAMS

Hattie Williams in "Detective Sparks" is one of the big New York hits soon to be seen at the Opera House. Miss Williams has just completed a run of one hundred nights at the Garrick Theatre, New York city, and after a short tour of the principal cities in the East will return to that theatre for another three months and then start on a trip to the Pacific coast.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Vaudeville of the "sure-to-please" sort will be shown on the stage of the Hathaway theatre next week, and large audiences should prevail, as unlimited enjoyment opportunities are provided. Among the many pleasing contributors to a program that is excellent throughout, are the Farrell-Taylor company, in "That Minstrel Man," the funniest blackface act in vaudeville. The humor of the skit is interpreted by two men and a woman, and they do it with the cleverness that gives the act an unresistible zest. James R. McCann & Co. will present a very entertaining one act comedy, "Uncle Charles From Charlestown." McCann and his associates are talented comedians, and they handle the brilliant lines and situations of the playlet in admirable fashion. McDevitt and Kelly are past masters at light and graceful stepping, all the latest and catchiest steps are included in their repertoire, and their dancing act is well worth watching. A novelty that has never before been seen in this city is supplied by Marabini, the ice sculptor. Using as his material a huge block of ice, Marabini evinces marvelous skill in sculpturing the frigid substance into various forms of beauty, and the exhibition is destined to arouse eager interest. A roar of fun never fails to go up with the advent of Morgan and Chester, who are infectiously funny comedians. The title of their skit, "The Arrival of Dr. Cook," is suggestive of timeliness, in view of the present Polar controversy, and this suggestion is more than borne out with its presentation. Miss Mayhelle Adams is a charming violinist, and every music-lover will be entranced by the sympathy and technique of her playing. Sam Doty, monologist, has at his command an exhaustless flow of witty conversation, and his sallies are continually provocative of merriment. The show closes with a series of the latest moving pictures.

STAR THEATRE

"The Girl Scout," a thrilling tale of life on the Canadian border, depicting events which have been recorded in history, is the feature picture at the Star theatre today. There are vaudeville acts by Marsh and Middleton, two clever young women, and John Lovely, eccentric dancer. New vaudeville and other new features will be presented Monday.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Prodigal Son" will be shown for the last times at the Theatre Voyons today, and it should not be missed for its story is one that everyone should know and know well. "From Cabin Boy to King" pleases the lovers of dramatic pictures for the adventures of the young hero are sensational enough for anyone. There is a laughable comedy and a beautiful scenic subject included in this banner show. The songs are good and well sung, Mrs. Bales winning much praise for her great work in "Mollie Maloney," the popular hit of Lowell today.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today is continuous performance day at the Academy of Music, and a bill varied enough to suit everybody and by far one of the best and snappiest shows of the season is being presented. In the feature act, Kenney and Hollis presenting "The College Chums" have met with phenomenal success. Ben Wilson, the sweet tenor singer, has made many friends as his singing is far above the average. Three reels of the latest pictures, illustrated songs and the views of the world complete an excellent program.

REVIVAL WEEK

AT THE NEW CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

The first week of revival at the new Calvary Baptist church in the Highlands closed last night. There will be no meeting this evening. At the 10.30 service tomorrow Mr. Stair will speak. At 3.15 there will be a meeting for men at the Highland Congregational church in which Mr. Stair and Mr. Reynolds, the soloist, will take part. At the Calvary church at 6.30 p. m., the Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches will unite in the evangelistic service.

The subject of Evangelist Stair's sermon last evening was "Is Temptation a Blessing?" the text being from James 1.12, "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation;" also Luke 4.2, "Being tempted of the devil."

The Thanksgiving Pumpkin Pie

Michaud, the Famous Hotel Astor Chef, Gives His Heretofore Secret Formula For Making It

WHILE the menus of the great New York hotels give special prominence to their French dishes, there is one day in the year when good old fashioned American cookery comes to the front. That is Thanksgiving. Though dishes from many countries may lead in popularity during other days in the year, New York still clings to its turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie on Thanksgiving day, even in its most famous eating places. Particularly does pumpkin pie continue in favor, although the manner of its makin is now perhaps more complicated than in the early New England days. At the Hotel Astor, one of New York's most noted hostelries, the famous chef Michaud has a recipe, which heretofore has remained a secret, that seems to reach the American palate more effectively than any other. His manner of compounding this famous Thanksgiving pie, as furnished by himself, is as follows:

To eight whole eggs and the yolks of two more well beaten together add eight ounces of sugar, one-half pint of molasses, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of ginger. To this, after it is well beaten, add one quart of mashed fresh pumpkin and mix well together. Pour into the pie plates, which have been covered with a lower crust, and bake in a medium oven. This quantity is sufficient for five good sized pies.

Whether it is due to Michaud's skill or to the effectiveness of his recipe the fact remains that on Thanksgiving day the guests and employees at Hotel Astor consume more than 3,000 of these pumpkin pies.

Although pumpkin pie is a gastronomic triumph accredited to New England housekeepers, there is no good reason why it should be reserved for any special part of the country or class of housekeepers. It seems that the "colossal oranges of the cornfields," as Oliver Wendell Holmes termed the pumpkin, are being used nowadays quite as much as a pie filling in the south as on the stern New England coast. And it is interesting to compare a creole recipe for the great Thanksgiving day piece de resistance with a famous old formula in a Massachusettes family, which says: "The flavor of the pumpkin is developed only by a long and gentle application of heat, so when preparing it for pies always stew it with the other ingredients. To each cupful of pulp add two well beaten eggs, half a cup of sugar, tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a cupful of cream; half a teaspoonful each of ginger and cinnamon and a teaspoonful of lemon extract; add a large tablespoonful of melted butter and fill the paste full with this mixture; bake in a moderate oven."

The creole recipe is as follows: "One quart of pumpkin, one pint of sugarhouse molasses boiled with one tablespoonful of butter, two well beaten eggs and two teaspoonfuls of ground and pulverized ginger. Thin pastry and the pumpkin one inch deep in the pan must be observed. Top pastry is not necessary, but a very nice finish over the top of each pie is pastry cut into stars and diamonds in small sizes laid over the pumpkin pulp and baked." Now, Mesdames Housekeepers, you may take your choice or discard both in favor of the recipe which produces the favorite brand "that mother used to make."

There is little variety in pumpkin pudding. To two cupfuls of the pumpkin add the yolks of four eggs that have been thoroughly beaten, a teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper. Fill custard cups with the mixture, stand them in a pan of hot water and bake in an oven for twenty minutes. As soon as they come from the oven turn them out of the cups and serve.

The crowning ambition of many a young housewife when a big family dinner—for her small establishment—is on is to have a gelatin of chicken or boned turkey as one of the pieces de resistance. Yet she hesitates. Will not a caterer charge a terrible sum for the coveted luxury? Will not her butcher charge for boning the bird, and will there not be the loss of bones and giblets in any case, which latter are to the thrifty manager of domestic economics a great desideratum? "If it could only be done at home," she sighs, "what a wonderful tribute to my skill it would be?" And why not? It is so easy if one only knows how to set about it.

What, after all, is it that must be accomplished? Simply that the entire carcass, leg and wing bones and body altogether, must be removed from the flesh, or, to put it more properly, the flesh must be removed from the bones, leaving the carcass a lonely splendor to be drawn and consigned to the stock pot along with the giblets, while the flesh is spread with forcemeat and other delectable dainties and rolled into shape, tied up, cooked, glazed or covered with white sauce, garnished and sent to table a credit to both cook and kitchen. DAPHNE DEAN.

A Business Girl's Success

Determination to Get There, to Impress Those Who Can Aid Her and to Ask No Favors on Account of Sex Win the Battle.

THERE is no place for a girl in the business world unless she has convinced herself that she is going to be a success.

It matters not what branch of business she chooses or is driven by the force of circumstances to adopt, the fact remains that unless she goes into it with the notion that she is certain to make a go of it there is precious little likelihood that she ever will occupy a satisfactory position either in her own estimation or in that of those with whom she comes in business contact.

From the earliest moment of her entrance into a business concern it should be her constant endeavor to make a good impression on those who have it in their power to further her material welfare. There is only one sure way by which she may accomplish this, and that is by making it evident that she is capable of giving full value received; that she is both anxious and able to "deliver the goods."

It does not matter so much if she is inexperienced. A disposition to learn and a manifest interest shown in what must be learned will go far toward counteracting the effect of the inevitable early mistakes she will make.

Ask No Favors on Account of Sex.

First of all—make a note of it, my dear would be business woman—resolve firmly never to solicit or expect any favors on account of your sex. This may seem to be harsh and distasteful in the abstract, but in actual practice you will find it works admirably.

Take my advice and at the very beginning of your business career frown on any attempt to have it understood in your place of business that something less is to be expected of you than of your male coworker in the same department. The moment you permit such an understanding to take root you will find that you have lost ground which it will be hard to regain.

Do not forget also that it will never do to fall into perfunctory methods of doing your work. Nothing is more fatal to your success than that.

Half the Battle.

Fall into the habit of taking pride in doing your very best, and do not conceal the fact that you feel that way. If you can make it evident to your employer that you are dealing liberally with him, that you actually have his interest at heart and take pleasure in promoting it to the extent of your opportunity, your battle is more than half won. He will not be critical of your minor business imperfections, and a growing confidence in yourself will soon enable you to avoid the greater ones.

Try, my dear, to get down to the real business of the matter. Business is nothing but a great machine. When you enter the life you become a cog in the machine. If you fail to do your entire duty you are certain to throw the machine out of gear.

It will be worth while to remember, too, that the life of the woman in business and the home life are entirely separate and distinct, or should be. It is a fatal mistake to commingle them in any proportion. Do not on any account attempt to transfer the incidents of the one to the legitimate course of the other.

In business it is your duty and your interest to be friendly to all, but it is neither the time nor place for marked social interchange. If you are so absorbed in what is given you to do that you have little time or inclination for anything else you may rest assured that all is well, that you are performing the functions of a real business woman and that your efforts are certain to be appreciated sooner or later.

ELIZABETH AKERS.

THE IMPORTANCE OF HEALTH

IT is rather remarkable that the bachelor girl who prides herself on the fact that she is able "to take care of herself" has not the remotest idea of how to "take care of her health." At least most of these girl don't look as if they knew the A B C of common sense and hygiene. Pale and sallow after a few years of business life, they never take any precautions to retain their health, and incidentally their appearance, until one day they suddenly realize that they are "looking seedy," and then they seem ten years older than their real age.

Of course they blame their work. They say that "business is a killing life for a girl," and if they are very foolish and shortsighted they make up their minds to get married at the first opportunity and "chuck the whole thing."

The real truth is these girls neglect their health shamefully. First they neglect their food. They expect to do a man's work and a share of domestic work probably as well on diet fit for a sparrow. They know perfectly well that men are much wiser in this respect. They get a square meal at noon, when a girl often has a sandwich and a cup of tea or coffee. Now, this kind of diet accounts for their chronic state of seediness.

No, girls; if you want to keep fit for work, to enjoy life, you simply must make a point of having good, hot, nourishing meals. Like dressing well, it is a real economy. You must "feed up" to get your appetite back. You are afraid of dyspepsia, you say. Why, the cause of indigestion is starvation diet. Your stomach cannot do its work without pain because it is ill nourished. So nourish it. Feed it with tumblers of hot milk, sipped slowly.

If you have no appetite t breakfast take thickly buttered toast and a large tumblerful of hot milk, sipping it slowly, of course. Add a pinch of salt and a pinch of baking soda and there is no risk of not digesting it. Take as much milk as you can drink and you will see the pinched yellow look disappear from your face as it gets filled out with nourishing food.

Next to diet, sleep is all important. Many business girls never go to bed until after 12 o'clock and then wonder why they feel so tired in the morning. Every business girl needs nine hours of good sleep every night of the week if she has not a constitution of cast iron. And if she sleeps with the window open and makes a point of a morning bath or cold sponge she will feel like a different person.

The business girl must recognize that if she wants to do good work she must have a healthy body. The tired out, anaemic brain is not fit to do good work. So, girls, keep your brains clear and bright and your minds and bodies healthy; otherwise you will miss your opportunities. Study your diet; study your rest. Take exercise every day. You can always walk to and from all or part of your work and have ten minutes' exercise of some sort at night.

THE THINGS ONE HEARS

"HAVE you noticed," asked an observant woman, "how much more heavily women walk this year than ever before? I have learned the cause of it. The high heels are responsible for the extra noise. You see, the balance of the body is completely changed, especially for those people who have been wearing comparatively low heels, and the result is that the entire weight apparently 'comes down plunk' on those high heels. It will certainly be a blessing when low heels are once more in favor, for then our nerves will not be racked by the awful thumping as people wander on their way."

"To live in the present," said a man recently, "is really one of the most difficult things to do. If people would only cultivate this faculty more they would find their mental force enormously increased. A great deal of the secret of success consists in devoting oneself entirely to the subject in hand. Concentration, in spite of the many occult books published on the subject, is still one of the rarest of mental qualities. Yet the possession of this virtue greatly adds to human happiness. The person who can lose himself in his work or in his amusement is likely to be a much more useful member of society than he who is continually looking forward or looking backward. The persistence of the wandering feeling should be fought with and overcome if life is to be lived successfully."

Mr. Sherard, an English literary man and a great-grandson of the poet Wordsworth, tells the following interesting story: "There used to be at Rydal Mount a large oaken chest which was filled with manuscripts sent to Wordsworth by strangers for his opinion. My mother told me that there was once a poet who kept writing to her grandfather, claiming some manuscript which he said he had sent to him, but which the old gentleman said he knew nothing about. One day after a very urgent letter from this man my mother, who was then a very little girl, went to the oak chest, selected the fattest manuscript she could find and sent it to the man, inclosing half a crown, which she extracted from her money box and wrote, 'Grandpa Wordsworth cannot find your manuscript and does not remember ever to have received it, but I send you a very big poem, which will perhaps do as well, and I also send you half a crown of my own money, so I hope you will be satisfied and that you will not send grandpa any more letters, as he is an old man and they worry him.'"

Rose Coghlan, the actress, says that there are wrinkles and wrinkles, but that it is only the wrinkles made by ill temper and dissipation which are disfiguring.

THE IDEAL HUSBAND

A FRENCH writer has been making investigations as to what, in the opinion of women of various nationalities, constitutes the ideal husband. American women professed themselves satisfied with their countrymen as regards their devotion and money making proclivities, but lamented their lack of romance and idealism. On the necessity for her husband being a congenial friend and companion the Frenchwoman laid greatest emphasis, while the German frau desired, above all things, good temper and an infinite capacity for staying by his own fireside. The Spanish lady demanded love primarily, while the Russian voted for a husband who would understand her.

It is strange that none of these women demanded in her husband what is really of paramount importance—principle and a fine sense of honor. The cavalier who said

I had not loved thee, dear, so much Loved I not honor more

was really voicing a great truth, and the love of a man who does not possess this quality is not worth having. The woman who marries such a man has little chance of real or lasting happiness. There are two kinds of men whom the wise women should flee from as from a pestilence—the fussy and the flirtatious. All romance, all realism, all good humor and comradeship, fade away in the presence of the man whom a fleck of dust fills with fury and to whom a book or a cushion out of order is as a red flag to a bull. The husband who is continually having little love affairs is likewise an unenviable possession. He may possibly be, in his own way, quite charming, but his wife's lot is not a happy one. Every little while the question arises, "Should wives obey their husbands or husbands their wives?" Perfect equality is the ideal, and if there is any masterfulness at all it is better, though not advisable, on the part of the husband. It is said by foreigners that American men are the bond slaves of their wives. Well, there may be some of the species who spend their time in bringing and carrying, in matching ribbons and silks at shops, in buttoning shoes, gloves and blouses and in various other ways making themselves uxoriously utilitarian. Such a husband is useful, but not exactly inspiring. There are some wives who order their husbands about in a manner that no self respecting servant would tolerate for a moment. "He that has a wife has a master," says the Scottish proverb, and many men realize the truth of this saying when it is too late. It is, however, a man's own fault if he is relegated to a secondary position in his household. Even in these days of strong minded women and suffragettes the man who is incapable of maintaining at least a position of equality must be either a coward or a comedian.

DON'TS FOR THE THIN GIRL.

Don't walk until you are dead tired. Overwalking will make you haggard.

Don't wear black. Black has a tendency to make any one look slender. Light clothes are the most becoming.

Don't have your lingerie too close fitting. A full front in your camisole is an immense improvement.

Don't strive for long waisted effects or use pointed girdles. The longer you make yourself look the thinner you will appear.

Don't stay up too late at night. Get at least nine hours' good sleep.

Don't wear stripes. Checks, plaids and horizontal effects are better for thin women. They should strive for becoming, deceiving effects if they study art in dressing at all.

Don't wear a large, broad brimmed hat. It looks out of proportion, especially as the face of a slender girl is usually small. A moderate sized or small hat will be found much better.

Don't fail to have your gowns made with an eye to hiding the fact that you are too slender. Full skirts, fancy fronts and bouffant effects are the most becoming.

Don't fail to look dainty. Slender women can always do that, and the most delightful word that can be applied to a woman is the word dainty. A woman may be stylish, well dressed, good looking and a half hundred other things without any considerable amount of trouble, but to live up to the requirements of the word dainty means something more. It means absolute freshness of material, of ribbons, laces, muslins, garnitures of all kinds. It means muslins uncrumpled, ruffles fresh from laundering, laces unspotted from the world and everything else. It means water and soap and starch in abundance, together with unceasing care. But it is worth it.

PRINCESS COMING TO AMERICAN STAGE.

The Princess Bariatinsky, the only princess on the stage, is planning a visit to this country with her St. Petersburg company. She wants to learn English and abandon the Russian stage. She has two reasons for her wish to turn her back on Russia—the rigid censorship and the blackmail of officials. A short time ago a woman in court circles was displeased with a one act play presented by the princess, and a note from an obscure official was enough to force its withdrawal. It was an experience in Tiflis, however, that made the princess finally despair of continuing in the czar's dominions. She received a note informing her that unless she paid $16,000 "as a fine to the governor of the province" she would be made to suffer the penalties of the law. As she was guiltless of any crime, she took the letter as a poor practical joke. Then it was made known to her that a wealthy physician a month before had received a similar note and that, following his refusal to pay the blackmail, he was strangled. The princess then hurried to the governor. He said he could give no protection, because, as he alleged, she had given money to the Socialists. It was futile for her to protest and to demand justice, and finally she paid the $16,000 and fled to St. Petersburg.

About the New Coats

There is a little war raging in Paris between admirers of long and short coats. The practical result of this difference of opinion is a distinct revival of moderate three-quarter length coats and the introduction of a short and very smart garment, which will be in favor for afternoon wear. This latter model is very fussy in outline, with pointed fronts and a quantity of embroidery or braiding on the shoulders, sleeves and pockets. Then there is a revival of the Russian blouse coatee, which this winter is included in the wardrobe of the best turned out women.

As to the ultra long, ultra tight coat that is now with us, but is worn chiefly by women who command fashion instead of becoming its slave—this very long coat has proved exceedingly becoming to women with tall and slender figures. It is a smart model when carried out in sealskin, in astrakhan and heavy serge, trimmed with a deep border of fur on the hem. In other words, this coat is either elaborately trimmed or is made severely plain, with merely a large turnover collar and cuffs of thick black moire. In fur it is modishly developed in sealskin and seal musquash, a fashionable pelt try just now. The illustration shows a coat made of the musquash, with trimmings of skunk, a fur, by the way, which is receiving unprecedented favor this season. The lining of the coat is a handsome mauve brocade, and a bow of the same silk ornaments the big musquash muff.

NEW COLORS FOR WINTER GOWNS.

There are few new shades in the fashionable color card for winter gowns. With the exception of raisin, a kind of bluish purple, the colors are much the same as those worn last spring.

A tone of peacock is added, but it is in no sense a new color, simply a shade bidding for favor.

Wistaria is popular again, judging from the variety of materials in this color, and so are the rose shades. One of the latest, though coming under the head of rose, is really verging on terra cotta. It is a peculiar tint and one that is peculiarly trying.

Another odd shade is called mustard—not the faint yellow of unmixed mustard, but suggestive of a jar of German mustard.

It is not pretty, though a shade lighter that might have been christened old gold would have been becoming. In broadcloth the modish colors are gray, taupe, peacock, mustard, raisin, old rose, catawba, wistaria, browns and various shades of green and a line of the usual navy blues, with a tone included that is almost black. Black both for street and evening wear will be very fashionable.

WALKING STICK BANK.

The ingenuity which has been shown in the development of new ideas calculated to enlist the sympathies and subscriptions of a philanthropic public has probably reached its climax in a novel use which the authorities of the London hospital have found for umbrellas and walking sticks.

A receptacle is placed in the handles of these, which will hold exactly eighty-four half sovereigns or sixpences, and the holders draw the attention of their friends to a little slot which is of sufficient size to receive the coins as a donation to the funds of the hospital.

Already 400 of these umbrellas and walking sticks have been distributed, not only in London, but in China, Australia, South Africa and other distant parts of the world. When full they are returned to the hospital, and already a goodly sum has accrued to the coffers of the institution. The record collection in one umbrella has so far been £20 10s.

WOMEN WANT TO MAKE MONEY.

About every third independent woman at the present day has a scheme for making money. It has become almost a painful fact that women no longer talk scandal, but finance or trade. There was a time when women indulged in hobbies for the sake of possible amusement. Now it is nearly always with the hope of securing a profit.

It must be confessed that they display extraordinary acumen and courage as amateur tradeswomen and nonprofessional dealers. They have discovered what no man would go out to seek, and that is a real "home market." Nearly all the women who pursue something, no matter whether it is the cultivation of eggs or art, recognize that it is far wiser to sell to friends than to compete for public patronage.

A PRINCESS OF CHINA

Gowned in royal splendor is this Chinese princess, who is the sixth daughter of Prince Ching and sister-in-law of the present regent. This lady of high degree is said to lead the woman's movement which is just beginning to make itself felt in China. Although not in sympathy with the extreme feminist ideas that are making such strides among her sisters in western countries, this occidental princess is very advanced for one of her race and is doing a great work for the uplift of Chinese womanhood in making higher education possible for Chinese girls of both high and low degree, who until now have had few opportunities.

A BOY BANDIT

Killed Police Officer and Then Wounded Himself

EUDORA, Kan., Nov. 13.—Earl Bullock, a boy bandit of Lawrence, Kan., accompanied by William McKay, 15 years of age, of Jacksonville, Fla., in an attempt yesterday to repeat his exploit of a month ago, robbed the Eudora State bank of $8000 after shooting Fred Starr, a banker, and later probably mortally wounded himself when closely pressed by armed citizens.

In his first holdup of the Eudora State bank, Bullock, who is 17 years of age, shot and killed a policeman. When officers had about concluded that Bullock had left the state with the loot of the previous holdup, he and McKay entered the state bank about closing time.

Fred Starr, cashier of the Kaw Valley State Bank of Eudora, who was in the state bank with his day's clearings, stood by as the outlaw held up the state bank's cashier, Henry Wilson. Although Starr did not resist the holdup, Bullock shot him through the jaw, snatching more than $8000. Bullock and McKay fled. Each youth had two revolvers.

Cashier Wilson spread the alarm and citizens armed with shotguns, rifles and revolvers pursued the bandits across the fields. In attempting to swim the Kaw river the boys lost ground and in a few minutes the pursuers were at their heels.

McKay surrendered, but Bullock, wrenching the revolvers from his faltering partner's hands, sped on into the woods.

John Miller, who knew nothing about the pursuit, stepped into Bullock's path and, the boy, thinking him a pursuer, fired several shots which barely missed Miller. Seeing that the youth was ready to shoot at anyone, the pursuers fired a score of shots at Bullock, who returned the fire. The hunted robber with scant hope of escape fired his remaining bullet through his own head.

Thinking Bullock dead, most of the pursuers turned their attention to McKay, with the intention of lynching him, but officers hurried McKay to the Lawrence jail in an automobile.

McKay is a tall, slender and apparently weak youth, who was led into the crime by Bullock's lurid description of the thrilling life of a desperado.

HENRY L. STIMSON, PROSECUTOR OF THE SUGAR TRUST CASES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—There is a strange mixture of politics and trust rivalry in the revival of the scandals involving the American Sugar Refining company, which have recently resulted in wholesale resignations of men long in the employ of the company in New York. The story that the government was entitled to $30,000,000 when it accepted something less than $3,000,000 for the weighing frauds perpetrated on the sugar trust docks in Brooklyn has been revived and undoubtedly will cause a further investigation. Henry L. Stimson, special prosecutor for the United States in the sugar cases, denies that the government accepted anything less than its due following the weighing frauds. William Loeb, collector of customs at New York, comes to the rescue of ex-President Roosevelt in reply to hints that the sugar trust was not prosecuted as vigorously as it might have been. It is believed that a reopening of the cases will result in a series of further sensations.

NEGRO SUSPECT

Was Escorted Out of Town by Militia

CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 13.—With Arthur Alexander, the last of the persons arrested in connection with the murder of Miss Annie Pelley, safely out of town, and the Fourth regiment, Illinois National guard, on guard in the streets and about the jail, the mob spirit that kept Cairo ablaze with excitement for four days is quelled.

No crowds were allowed to gather at any place and every known danger point was occupied by troops. Bayonets held sway where 24 hours before the rope, the torch and the pistol were in evidence. Alexander, implicated in the murder of Miss Pelley by the dying statement of "Froggy" James, one of the victims of the mob, was sent to an unannounced point north of Cairo late yesterday. He was escorted from the jail to a special train on the Illinois Central railroad by seven companies of militia, two of which guarded the negro on the train during the trip. There were jeers for the militia from the small crowd that watched the departure.

The display of force was greater than the rioters had anticipated, and while there were murmurs all along the route, there was no effort to break the line.

Sheriff Davis, who made strenuous and repeated efforts for two days to save James from lynching, said last night that disposition of Alexander had been left to state officers. He has begun investigating the riots of Thursday night.

Coroner's verdicts yesterday were rendered on the men lynched and in each case the jury found that "he came to his death by injuries at the hands of persons unknown to us."

Sheriff Davis in a long interview yesterday told of having recognized several members of the mob which took James from his care Thursday night. No steps to bring those implicated in the uprising to trial have been made yet.

Mayor George Parsons said yesterday that he was asleep Thursday night and heard no shot or other sound to indicate that the city of which he is chief executive was in the grasp of a lawless horde.

Alexander Wilson, state's attorney, said that he was in several parts of the city, trying to quell the mob spirit, but he would not say that he recognized any of the leaders. He would present any evidence that came to him to a grand jury, he said.

While county officers previously declared that the evidence against "Froggy" James was purely circumstantial, they were inclined yesterday to lay stress on the evidences of his guilt.

The only ground for holding Alexander was declared to be the dying confession of James. None of the officers would acknowledge that any direct evidence of this alleged confession had come to him.

In an effort to clear up the murder of Miss Pelley, the police yesterday searched the houses frequented by James and Alexandr for the missing money, handbag and bracelet of the murdered girl. They found nothing.

Blame for the riot is generally ascribed to an inadequate police force and the fact that many men accused of felonies have been acquitted despite seemingly strong evidence against them.

MRS. ROOSEVELT

With Daughter is on Way Home

NAPLES, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, boarded the steamer Konig Albert, for New York last evening. Several friends bade them farewell. Before departing Mrs. Roosevelt said she had received no direct communication from Colonel Roosevelt or her son Kermit, but was hopeful that some news from them would come to her by wireless during the voyage to the United States.

CHAS. S. MELLEN

May Direct Big Railway Combine

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—It is believed that at the meeting of the directors of the Boston & Maine railroad which is to be held here on Nov. 16; Charles S. Mellen president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, will be elected president of the Boston & Maine to succeed Lucius Tuttle, resigned. This action will bring about openly the consolidation of the two systems, in which many stockholders are now jointly interested. These stockholders want the Boston & Maine raised to a standard uniform with the New Haven, and they believe Mr. Mellen can more easily accomplish the task by direct and actual management than through a subordinate.

The recent state election showed that Lodge's popularity is greatly on the wane and that his reign is near an end. Already several candidates for his position have been mentioned, notably, Hon. Samuel W. McCall of Winchester, but Congressman Ames is the first in the field and he's there with respectable backing.

A Boston paper discussing the situation this week said:

The revolt against Lodge and Gardner now fairly covers northeastern Massachusetts. Essex county, the home of both leaders, is its hotbed.

Mr. Ames tied up to Arthur L. Nason, according to Mr. Ames' friends, because the 4th Essex senatorial district lies within the Gardner congressional district, because J. Otis Wardwell's place on the state committee went along with the senatorship, and because the scene of conflict was close to Lodge's door.

The Lowell congressman believed that here was a good place to test the feeling of the people of Massachusetts toward Lodge and Gardner and Wardwell at one sitting. Nason won. Lodge and Gardner were "rebuked," so to speak, and Wardwell was fired from the state committee.

AMES GETS BUSY

He Starts His Campaign Against Lodge

Although he has made no formal announcement Congressman Ames has begun his campaign for senator to succeess Henry Cabot Lodge in the United States senate and his candidacy will be welcomed by the republicans of the different cities in which Lodge has interfered in matters of local interest. Lodge is reputed to be the man who interfered with success in the legislature when Lowell was trying to get a new charter and for years he has had his hand in everyone's business until even the members of his own party have become weary of his bossism.

COAL STEAMER

Sank Off Wharf at Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—The big coal steamer Kanawha went down suddenly in 27 feet of water at the Curran and Burton wharf here last evening with her cargo of 3000 tons of coal.

So suddenly did the steamer sink into the Providence river that J. J. Costello, a fireman asleep in his bunk, narrowly escaped drowning. He had a hard fight to reach the deck. The Kanawha arrived late yesterday afternoon from Norfolk with 3440 tons of Pocahontas coal for Curran and Burton. Work of unloading began as soon as the steamer docked.

A member of the crew whose duty it was to close the sea cocks evidently forgot a big one on the port side for as the coal was taken out of the starboard side the vessel listed to port and the water flowed in. Captain W. H. Small and all his crew but Costello was on deck, when suddenly the steamer sank quickly in the Providence river. The crew clung to the high places, portions of the bow and stern remaining above water. Operations toward raising her were begun today.

The Kanawha was built for service on the Great Lakes. She is owned by F. B. Chesebro & Co. of Boston and chartered for coal carrying by Curran and Burton.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Mother and Her Child Found Dead

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 13.—Carrying with her into eternity her four months old baby, Mrs. Frank Brodeur, closing doors and windows of her kitchen, turned on a gas cock and awaited death. With the infant in her arms Mrs. Brodeur's body was found when her husband, a motorman, returned home last night. Family troubles are believed to have been responsible for the act. The woman left a note in which she said:

"I hope you will be happy now that I am gone."

EXPLORER PEARY

Spoke Before National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—"I had made good to myself, my friends and the flag of my country," declared Commander Robert E. Peary last night after describing to a prominent audience how after years of toil and persistent effort he at last reached the North pole. It was the commander's first lecture since his return from his last trip to the frozen north and it was delivered under the auspices of the National Geographic society, which already has endorsed him as a discoverer of the pole.

Commander Peary made no direct reference to Dr. Frederick A. Cook. He intimated, however, that he did not regard it as possible that any expedition attained the top of the earth ahead of his own.

Fully two hours were occupied by Mr. Peary in the telling of his story, which was illustrated by stereoptican views made from photographs taken by Peary in the north. He endeavored to impress upon his hearers the many hardships which had to be endured, the almost insurmountable obstacles which had to be overcome and the complete preparation and experience necessary to make the expedition a success. Arriving at the hall Commander Peary was escorted to the platform amidst applause, by Prof. Willis L. Moore, president of the National Geographic society, who also introduced him.

Mr. Peary related the incidents of the trip in a simple, straightforward manner. He gave much of the credit to the other members of his expedition, and spoke of the fundamental importance of his supporting parties.

In describing his feeling, as he said, when he reached the goal of his ambition, Commander Peary declared that the conditions were very commonplace and that they were the same as they had been experiencing for days before. There were no new unusual sensations for the eye or ear to detect except that the sun moved parallel with the horizon.

"It was a feeling," declared Commander Peary, "that at last after 23 years, in spite of every financial and other difficulties, I had made good to myself, my friends and the flag of my country."

Among those present at the lecture were Secretary and Mrs. Knox, Secretary and Mrs. Dickinson, Secretary and Mrs. Nagel, Secretary to the President F. W. Carpenter and Mrs. Donald McLean, former president of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Practically every other embassy or legation in Washington was represented, the majority of the legations by the ministers themselves.

JUDGE MOORE

HAS MADE NEW RECORD AT HORSE SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—With horse show week drawing to its close, it became apparent last night that Judge William H. Moore has established a record never before equaled in the history of the National association. His 11 entries have thus far taken 10 firsts, six seconds and one third—a showing all the more remarkable in that C. W. Watson of Baltimore, who swept everything before him last summer at the International Horse show in London, and the open air meets on this side has only one first, six seconds and six thirds to share among 18 entries, while Alfred and Reginald Vanderbilt, with 27 entries, have captured but two blues, seven seconds and seven thirds.

The lively interest in draught horses shown by the crowd is deemed a healthy symptom by breeders.

VALUE OF MILK

Prof. Lockwood Lectured to Pomona Grange

Prof. W. P. B. Lockwood, head of the department of dairying at Massachusetts Agricultural college, spoke in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, last evening, on "The Value of Milk as a Food and Its Care in the Home." He spoke under the auspices of the Middlesex North Pomona grange.

"If one can keep milk at 40 degrees or below that we will get along very well," he said.

"It has been figured out that one bacteria will reproduce five to seven bacteria in 24 hours, at a temperature of 50 degrees. Ten degrees higher one bacteria will reproduce 750 bacteria.

"There are three principal kinds of bacteria, as follows: The inert, which are not harmful and which are usually present in the largest numbers; the scouring, of which there are about fifty varieties, and whose principal functions consist in souring milk, and the peptinal, which result generally from filth and decayed organic matter. These latter are pathegenic, or disease producers.

"The fly furnishes a big problem to the producer and it should to the consumer. They carry millions of bacteria into milk, and when near manure piles are a very great menace to health.

"When it is possible for the consumer to get milk in bottles from a reliable source he should invariably do it."

He then spoke of the "Do's" and "Don'ts" for the consumer, the "Do's" being as follows:

Use bottles from the best source of supply, if possible.

Put the bottles in the ice box, the cellar or other cool, clean place as soon after receiving as possible.

Use clean receptacles.

Use cold water to wash the receptacles with at first. Later scald with hot water.

Keep the milk in the original retainers and put cap on or an inverted glass.

Have tight covers on retainers.

Avoid buying cheap milk, which is usually milk below standard or old milk.

Avoid buying milk at groceries or other places where varied kinds of supplies are on sale.

Keep the refrigerator clean. It should be scalded at least once a week.

Rinse the top of the bottle, after receiving and before using any milk.

The "Don'ts" are:

Don't use unclean utensils.

Don't put tickets in the milk caps. The boy who delivers the milk may have dirty hands.

Don't allow the sun to shine on the receptacle after the milk is delivered.

Don't use a towel or rag to wipe out the receptacle. Scald it and then let it dry off.

Should diphtheria, typhoid or scarlet fever break out in the family, don't return the bottles to the milk dealer without a physician's knowledge and under conditions prescribed by him.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

CHARLES F. BUCK REMEMBERED BY HIS FRIENDS

Mr. Charles F. Buck observed his 22d birthday yesterday at his home, 65 Pine street and his friends assisted him in observing it right. When the company had assembled Nathan C. Moulton, representing the members of Lodge 19, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, presented him a beautiful meerschaum pipe. He also received a gold mounted cane from friends at the Whitcall Mfg. company.

Refreshments were served and games were played, and a very pretty musical program was carried out.

Among the program numbers were a piano solo by Miss Daisy Labounty; "Camp Life," by Joseph Cunningham; "Songs My Mother Used to Sing," was sung by Mr. Joseph Perkins; a violin selection by Miss C. Raymond also made a great hit, and Mr. Brock sang "My Wife's Gone to the Country" with great effect. Mr. Moulton was accompanist. Miss Phillips gave some very good readings, and the party closed with everybody singing "America."

AT CHURCH DOOR

Girl's Brother Slashed Intended Bridegroom

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—As he was emerging from the Italian church of the Sacred Heart, North square, yesterday with his bride-to-be, Francesco Musolino, 38 years old of 113 Brighton street, was assaulted with a razor by Paoli F. Lena, 45 years old, of North square, a brother of the young woman.

Musolino and his sweetheart, Miss Concetta Lena, went to the church shortly before noon yesterday to complete arrangements for their marriage. As they were leaving the church Lena, it is charged, struck at Musolino with a razor, inflicting a wound on the cheek. Musolino raised his right hand to protect himself from a second low and the razor struck his right thum, almost severing it. Musolino was taken to the Relief hospital. His injuries are not serious.

VIEWS OF THE NEW WHITE HOUSE OFFICES BUILT ON THE ROOSEVELT TENNIS COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—When President Taft returned from his long journey he found the new executive offices at the White House completed, furnished and in spick and span shape for his occupancy. In fact, a part of the presidential office force had been occupying the rooms for a week before the president arrived. The new annex built on the ground formerly used as a tennis court by Mr. Roosevelt, cost with its furnishings in the neighborhood of $100,000, and the president now occupies the most spacious office quarters ever yet provided for a chief magistrate of the U. S. The furnishings in the president's private office and the cabinet room are of mahogany, upholstered with leather of a greenish tint. The president's chair in his private office swings on a swivel. The chair he occupies in the cabinet room is of solid wood, differing somewhat in make from the chairs used by the cabinet members. It is probable that a new tennis court will now be laid out in the president's "back yard." Colonel Spencer Cosby, superintendent of grounds and buildings, is now preparing plans for it, and it will be chiefly for the use of Miss Helen Taft and Robert Taft, who are ardent devotees of the game which President Roosevelt made popular at the White House.

SUPTS. OF SCHOOLS

Tell of the Need of Courses in Industry

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The importance of industrial education and the growing need for the introduction of vocational courses in high schools was emphasized in the report and papers read before the New England Association of School superintendents at the 58th meeting, held yesterday in Latin school hall, Warren avenue.

A committee of Superintendents was appointed a year ago to investigate the criticisms of high school courses and the demand for different instruction, and reports were submitted yesterday by Payson Smith of Augusta, Me.; J. C. Gray of Chicopee, Charles H. Morss of Medford and W. A. Baldwin of Hyannis.

Mr. Smith declared that the schools will lose pupils unless an effort is made to supply subjects which the communities demand, while Mr. Gray reported that vocational training would not only benefit students who are taking up industrial courses, but would be of advantage to those engaged in classical studies. Mr. Morss called attention to the effort being made all over the country to effect a closer relation between colleges and secondary schools. Mr. Baldwin suggested courses in practical ethics, political economy, sociology and civil government.

Other reports were on educational progress, by Ellor E. Ripley; legislative enactments, by George H. Martin, and necrology, by G. A. Southworth. Papers on school penmanship were presented by Harry Houston of New Haven Haven, George E. Gay of Haverhill, A. H. Keyes of Dover and J. C. Moody of New Britain.

At the afternoon meeting the following officers were elected: President, Frank O. Draper of Pawtucket; vice-president, Bernard M. Sheridan of Lawrence; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Deevin Call of Hartford; executive committee, Payson Smith of Augusta, A. H. Keyes of Dover and F. E. Parlin of Cambridge.

The question whether the association should affiliate with the American Institute was left open till the next meeting.

At the invitation of Supt. Brooks of Boston, as trustee of the Museum of Fine Arts, the assembly visited the new art building and the 1915 Boston exposition.

PLEADED GUILTY

More Teachers Dropped During Past Week

The attendance at the elementary evening schools is about 250 less than last year and the decrease in attendance has been met with a steady reduction in the number of teachers. The schools opened this year with 23 less teachers than last year and thus far seven more have been dropped. The "18 year old minor" law, so-called, is responsible for the dropping of the attendances. The high school at which attendance is voluntary is ahead of last year.

fire were banked with human faces. The fire was discovered by Frank Santive, the night clerk at the St. Charles hotel. Mr. Santive has a reputation as a wide-awake watchman. It was Mr. Santive who discovered the Richardson house fire.

Soon Under Control

By the time that the incident having to do with the rescue of the baby was closed, streams were playing on the fire from all directions and half an hour later the fire was under control. Fortunately there was but slight wind blowing at the time and there was lots of open territory that gave the firemen good opportunity to get at the seat of the conflagration. The heat was intense but the firemen worked nobly and succeeded in confining the flames to a comparatively small area.

Were Badly Scared

According to the story told by a man who dropped into The Sun office shortly before the noon hour today, the two pigs are still in the land of the living and two men, employes of the Lowell machine shop, were given the scare of their lives by the porkines. The two men in question were on their way to the shop at about 5 o'clock this morning and while passing through Jackson street they heard a series of peculiar grunts. They could not see anything or anybody, according to the story told by the man who called at The Sun office, one of the scared ones jumped into the canal and the other sought refuge in the Appleton mills. The fellow who jumped into the canal was taken out more dead than alive. He hurried home for dry clothing and it remained for the fellow who pulled himself through a window in the Appleton mills to tell the story of his and his comrade's fright. "We thought it was the evil one," said he, "and the reason I didn't follow suit and jump into the canal was because I can't swim. In view of the fact that I was so badly scared I wonder how it happened to dawn upon me that I couldn't swim. I am willing to buy all kinds of things if nothing is said of it, but who in the world would ever expect to meet two infuriated pigs in Jackson street at 5 o'clock in the morning? The chances are that the two runaway grunters met somebody who invited them in. The price of pork is soaring high these days and this may have something to do with the mysterious disappearance of the pigs.

M. T. I. NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST ABOUT SOCIETY AND UNION

A general meeting of the presidents of societies and the deputies recently appointed by President Shea of the C. T. A. U. will be held in Boston tomorrow to discuss several important questions.

For the first time in years Lowell has lost its representation on the board of deputies of the union. Since 1904 not less than three men from Lowell have been on the board at one time, but now the list has been revised and Lowell was overlooked, a fact that will cause much comment throughout the state as well as locally. North Chelmsford societies fared better than Lowell, for Miss Loretta Ward, a prominent worker in the Ladies' society, has been chosen as deputy to the St. Charles T. A. S. Ladies' auxiliary, one of the finest ladies' societies in Massachusetts.

The appointment of James F. McGovern, Sr., of Woburn as deputy to the Mathews of Lowell pleases not only the gentleman himself but the members of the local society as well. Mr. McGovern is regarded as an earnest exponent of the cause and has been prominent in total abstinence work in Woburn for nearly 40 years.

Former Vice Pres. James F. Riley has resigned the position he held in Fitchburg to accept a more lucrative one in Boston.

The announcement that Wm. J. Gargan had been appointed deputy to the St. John T. A. S. was a bit premature as subsequent reports show. In the first list that was made up, Mr. Gargan was named for the position but later when the list was revised by Pres. Shea, Mr. Edward E. Gaughan of Cambridge was named for the place. It is known that there were many candidates for positions as deputy and although Mr. Gargan's candidacy was urged it appears that Mr. Gaughan's popularity in the Cambridge society was not to be overlooked and hence the appointment.

The committee appointed to consider plans for the observance of the anniversary of the Mathews has several plans under consideration, one of which will be recommended to the institute.

BRIDE HAD MOVED

And Prospective Groom Hustled for License

It wasn't a case of "My wife's gone to the country" with George E. Hildreth, aged 33, of Leominster, Mass., but rather "My bride's gone to the country," for when George blew into Lowell yesterday with a marriage license from his home town and attempted to get one from Lowell, the home town of his 18 year old bride, he discovered that his bride had moved to Methuen and he was obliged to go to that burg for his other half and the other half of his marriage license.

When Hildreth applied to the city clerk for a license he answered all the questions but that as to the bride's residence. He wasn't sure of the street as the young woman had recently moved. He was instructed to find out the name of the street. Returning in about an hour and wreathed in smiles Hildreth said: "It's all right. There isn't any street and number; it's just plain Methuen."

But Methuen plain or decorated didn't go with the city clerk, and George was informed that he would have to visit the down-river town and wake up the town clerk ere he could wed. George went forthwith, got the license, was married and lived happy ever after.

GREAT VICTORY

Harvard Won From Dartmouth in Presence of Immense Throng

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 13.—Under fair weather conditions Harvard and Dartmouth lined up in the great stadium on Soldiers field today in their annual contest. For Dartmouth the game was the climax of the season's schedule, while for the Crimson it was of special interest, inasmuch as the all important game with Yale is now only a week distant. While neither team has met with defeat this season, Dartmouth's goal line has not been crossed although last Saturday at Princeton two field goals were scored against the Hanoverians. Harvard's goal line has been crossed once, by Williams earlier in the season, but no other score has been marked against the Crimson's record.

The rivalry between the two teams is intense and the outcome of today's struggle was awaited with interest. In the past six years each team has won two games and two games have been tied. While Harvard was favored in the betting today, the supporters of the Green were hopeful of victory for the New Hampshire hillmen. Nearly every one of the 37,000 seats in the stadium was occupied long before the game was called.

The lineup:

Harvard	Dartmouth
G. Browne le	le Daley
McKay lt	lt Sherwin
L. Withington lg	lg Tobin
P. Withington c	c Needham
Fisher rg	rg Farnum
Fish rt	rt Lang
Smith re	re Bankhart
O'Flaherty qb	qb Brady
Corbett lhb	lhb Ryan
Leslie rhb	rhb Ingersoll
Minot fb	fb Marks

Both teams ran on to the field at 1.55 and immediately each side of the stadium lired back cheers for the players.

Then Harvard cheered Dartmouth and the visiting undergraduates returned the compliment. The usual practice followed with each side joining in their different cheers. The weather was dull and lowering but the rain kept off and the wind blew toward the bowl of the stadium.

Harvard Won Toss

Harvard won the toss and took the advantage of the wind giving them the kick-off.

Captain Tobin kicked off the Harvard goal line and Harvard put the ball in play on her 26 yard line. The Crimson kicked on the second play to Dartmouth 45 yard line.

A change of kicks and a tilt in which Harvard showed ability to make her first down with the ball on their own 43 yard line. Dartmouth kicked on second down the Harvard 45 yard line. Harvard kicked from her 50 yard line and two minutes later Dartmouth followed with one from her own 25 yard line, the ball landing in the centre of the field in Harvard's possession.

Harvard Made Gains

Harvard rushed the ball eight yards and then tried an onside kick which gave the ball to Dartmouth on their 12 yard line. In the first ten minutes of play Harvard gradually pushed Dartmouth toward the green goal.

Up to that time neither side had shown a very formidable offense.

Each side kicked on the third down and once more it was Harvard's ball in the center of the field. Minot began rushing and ploughed eighty yards through the center. Two more and then Minot made a first down on Dartmouth's forty-yard line. Dartmouth held well and got the ball on downs on their forty-yard line.

Dartmouth kicked on the third down to Harvard's 35-yard line and on the second play Corbett made 25 yards and carried the ball into Dartmouth's territory. There Harvard could not gain and Minot kicked to Dartmouth's 18-yard line.

Dartmouth again kicked to the center of the field and after O'Flaherty had run it 20 yards kicked on the third down to Harvard's 25 yard line. O'Flaherty ran the ball back 25 yards for Harvard.

After this a Harvard man got the ball on Dartmouth's 40 yard line on a punt.

Once more Dartmouth's defense proved too strong and Harvard kicked to Dartmouth's five yard line. Marks kicked to the center of the field and the ball went through O'Flaherty and Harvard did not recover it until it was on their own forty yard line. A Crimson penalty put the ball still further back in the Crimson territory.

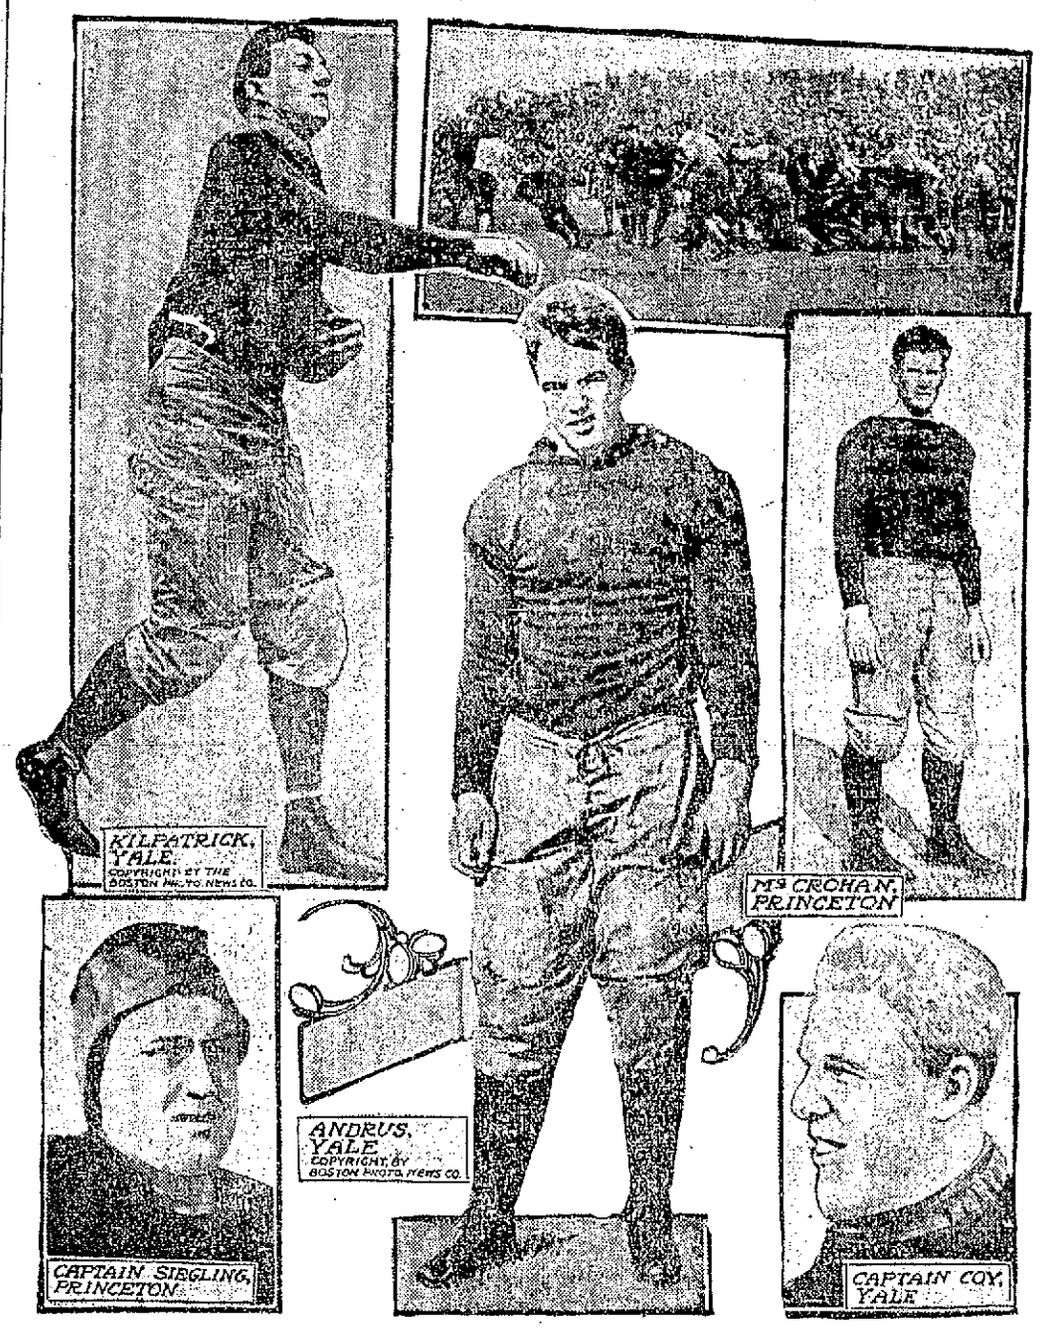

Minot kicked on the third down to Dartmouth's 36 yard line.

After an exchange of punts once more Harvard had the ball on her own 42 yard line. This time neither side seemed able to show a consistent offense and almost invariably kicked on the third down.

Had to Kick

More kicking and then Dartmouth got the ball on their own 45 yard line but was forced to kick on the third down. Up to this point the play had been straight line plunging with no forward passes or onside kicks. Most of Dartmouth's plays were sent between tackle and the greater part of Harvard's in center. One run of Ingersoll of ten yards after a penalty was

SOME YALE AND PRINCETON PLAYERS AND SCENE OF A GAME AT NEW HAVEN

VICTORY FOR YALE

Princeton Was Defeated by the Sturdy Blue Eleven

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 13.—With the members of each team confident that the final call of time would see victory in their hands, the Yale and Princeton elevens met this afternoon at Yale field in what for the New Jersey men was the final game of the season and for the Blue team the first of the big games of the college football year. The Yale team with the exception of Capt. Coy, who stayed at home over night, slept at the infirmary, while the Princeton players remained at their quarters in Farmington, coming down to this during the morning. A great throng of visitors with their pennants of blue or of orange and black poured into the city in the morning. A great throng ternoon eager for the great struggle. Pretty girls with corsage bouquets of either chrysanthemums or violets and college graduates wearing the colors of their team gave animation and picturesqueness to a scene which although no novelty here, is always interesting. The day broke bright and clear and while from the spectators' point of view the weather was all that could be desired, the coaches and players were hoping that it would be cooler.

The line-up follows:

Yale	Princeton
Kilpatrick le	le Ballin
Hobbs lt	Capt. lt Sigling,
Andrus lg	lg Waller
Cooney c	c Bamman
Goebel rg	rg Buckingham
Lilley rt	rt McCrohan or MacGregor
Vaughan re	re Welch
Hower qb	qb Bergin
Daley lhb	lhb Cunningham
Murphy or Philbin rhb	rhb Sparks

Teams Arrive

A great Yale yell at 1.45 heralded the flying wedge which dove in from the entrance which when broken into individuals revealed Coy's team. A minute later the Princeton stands broke into life as Captain Sigling led his orange-legged warriors to the gridiron. Lilley kicked off for Yale, Welch getting the ball at his 25-yard line and running it back 12 yards. McCormick made five yards around Vaughan's end. McCormick kicked to Philbin at Yale's 30-yard line and he ran it back in mighty clever fashion to his 35-yard line. Philbin then took the ball in another run to Princeton's 45-yard line.

Coy was shoved through the line for eight yards. Daley went through Sigling for seven yards. Philbin got eight yards more. Howe was sent through for three yards, but Yale was penalized 15 yards. Coy carried the ball to Princeton's 26 yard line.

Coy failed at a drop kick from the 35 yard line.

The ball was brought in by Princeton to its 25 yard line where McCormick dropped back, but it was a fake. Reid going through Cooney for three yards. McCormick kicked to Philbin at Yale's 35 yard line. He dodged it back 10 yards. The ball went back to Coy at his 35 yard line and he took it out of bounds at Yale's 52 yard line. Coy punted to Bergin at Princeton's 30 yard line.

McCormick kicked to his own 50 yard line. Coy made an onside kick to Princeton's 15 yard line. Yale was penalized five yards for offside play. McCormick punted to Philbin at his own 15 yard line and he ran 28 yards but the ball was brought to Princeton's 43 yard line. Yale was penalized 15 yards for holding. Coy tried a long end run without gain. He then punted to Bergin at Princeton's 25 yard line. McCormick returned the ball to Philbin at Yale's 47 yard line. The latter got it to the midfield line. A line play gave Yale 3 yards.

Coy punted to Bergin at Princeton's 20 yard line, the latter being thrown instantly. McCormick punted to Coy at midfield where Hart threw him like a flash.

Coy Gained Seven Yards

Coy was driven through Bamman for seven yards. Philbin then took the ball for five yards more on a plunge through McCrohan. Coy went like a steam engine through the whole Princeton team to the 35 yard line. Daley was shot over outside of left tackle for five yards more. Daley made it eight more through the other side of the Princeton line. Then Coy burst through centre to the 12 yard line, Daley tore off four yards more.

On the next play Coy was forced out of bounds at the six yard line. Princeton held Yale's gain on the next savage attack to four yards. Princeton was given the ball on downs at the 3 yard line and McCormack dropped back to the line to punt.

Princeton Scores

McCormick's kick was blocked and the ball bounded along the ground behind the goal post with both teams dashing after it. McCrohan fell on the ball and also made a safety, giving Yale two points.

The ball was brought into the 25 yard line and McCormick punted to Coy at his 40 yard line. He returned the kick to Bergin at the 30 yard line.

McCormick tried an end run and then he punted to Philbin at Yale's 50 yard line. This player once again made a wonderful run to Princeton's 35 yard line. Yale got three yards on a play against the line and then made an onside which Ballin got on his own 32 yard line. McCormick punted to Philbin but the ball was brought back for offside play. McCormick again punted to Coy who signalled for a fair catch at midfield. Coy punted to Bergin at the 20 yard line and the little quarterback was thrown back five yards.

McCormick punted to Philbin at Princeton's 50 yard line. He made 9 yards on the run back.

McCormick dropped back for a kick which was blocked and the ball went behind the goal line by half a foot where Lilley fell on it for a touchdown.

Hobbs kicked an easy goal.

Score: Yale 8, Princeton 0 (first half).

This was because of the reflection in the plate glass. But all the same it is a good photograph of the best window display of the kind ever made in this city. MEANDERING HOBO

Caused Great Excitement on President Taft's Train

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A meandering hobo seeking shelter from a ticket hunting conductor on board the Federal express bound from Boston to Washington, last night, wandered haplessly into President Taft's private car, the Mayflower, locked himself in the kitchen and created the greatest excitement of all the president's travels.

Jimmy Sloan of the secret service was given the rare opportunity of distinguishing himself by making a real arrest, while Will Anderson and Ed. Letcher, the two presidential porters of the Pullman service, became real heroes.

The incident occurred just outside of Bridgeport, Conn., and the hobo was delivered by Sloan to the authorities of that place.

President Taft's car was switched on the Federal express at New Haven shortly after midnight. Two local day coaches had been placed on the express ahead of the president's car and it was from one of these that the hobo found his way into the front end of the Mayflower. Letcher, when he discovered the hobo crouched in a corner of the kitchen, almost turned white but in another minute he had pounced on the wanderer and had safely embraced him in arms that hung with the grim strength of a grizzly. Letcher called for Anderson and Anderson called for Sloan. Jimmy said a few polite things to the tramp who claimed at first to be a brakeman on the New Haven road. He was immediately discredited by the train crew and at Bridgeport was handed over to the police. The president meantime was asleep in his stateroom at the rear end of the car in blissful ignorance of the excitement on board.

LOSS IS $250,000

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13.—The immense plant of the Union Distillery Co. known as the Edgemont Springs distillery at Carthage, near this city, was almost destroyed by fire early today. The loss is estimated at between $250,000 and $300,000, fully covered by insurance.

FUNERALS

JONES—The funeral of Mr. Joseph L. Jones, who passed away at the Soldiers Home in Chelsea, Mass., last Wednesday, took place from the chapel in the Edson cemetery this morning at 11 o'clock. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Chambre, pastor of St. Anne's church, and the interment was in the family lot in the Edson cemetery in charge of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co.

CAVANAUGH—The funeral of Bridget Cavanaugh took place this morning from her home, 24 Fulton street at 8.30 o'clock and was largely attended by relatives and friends. The cortege proceeded to St. Michael's church, where at 9 o'clock a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of the church, with Rev. Fr. Mullin as deacon and Rev. Fr. Murphy as sub-deacon. The choir under the direction of Mr. Thomas P. Boulger sang the Gregorian mass and at the offertory sang "Pie Jesu." At the conclusion of mass "In Paradisium," and as the remains were borne from the church "De Pro Fundis" was chanted. Miss Carolyn White presided at the organ. There were many beautiful floral offerings among them being a large pillow of lilies, roses and chrysanthemums inscribed "Our Aunt" from the Burns family; cross of roses and chrysanthemums, Smith family; large wreath of roses and chrysanthemums, M. J. Burns; wreath of galax leaves and wheat, Miss Mary Brady; basket of cut flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burrows; spray of white chrysanthemums, Catherine Furlong; spray of white carnations, Mrs. Peter Donohoe and Miss Margaret Staples, and a spray of yellow and white chrysanthemums from Mr. Patrick B. Clark. The bearers were Messrs. Michael Burns, Thos. Burns, Jos. Burns, and Thos. Burns. Burial was in the family lot in the Catholic cemetery where Rev. John J. IN POLICE COURT

David Collins, who gave his age as 76 years, appeared before Judge Hadley in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a complaint charging him with unlawfully keeping and exposing for sale intoxicating liquors.

As a result of a complaint made at the police station, the liquor inspectors visited the home of Collins in Adams street last Sunday and seized a quantity of whiskey.

Collins admitted to the court that he had been doing wrong but asked Judge Hadley to take his age and the condition of his health into consideration. Probation Officer Slattery also spoke a good word for Collins. As a result of the talk with Mr. Slattery Judge Hadley placed Collins on probation for two months.

Five Months In Jail

Mrs. Dolan was charged with being drunk, had pleaded guilty and a fine of $2 had been imposed when the woman's husband stated that he wished to speak to the court relative to the actions of his wife. Mr. Dolan said that he could do nothing with her and if unable to secure anything better that she would drink alcohol and Jamaica ginger. He also told the court that she had been arrested frequently in Maine. After hearing the man's story the court withdrew the $2 fine and sentenced Mrs. Dolan to five months in jail.

Other Offenders

William Smith, charged with being drunk, looked as though he was very much under the weather. To all appearances the man was still under the influence of liquor, but Supt. Welch informed the court that Smith was shamming, saying: "This man wanted a glass of whiskey this morning and when he was refused it he said he would act like a fool when he got into court." Smith will spend the next 20 days in jail.

John J. Carroll and John W. Powell were each fined $6 while two first offenders were fined $2 each.

LOW DEATH RATE

Lowell's Health Was Good This Week

The health department feels pretty good over this week's death rate which is remarkably low, the weather undoubtedly having something to do with it. There were no deaths from the contagious diseases nor from tuberculosis. The mortality is as follows:

For the week ending November 13, 1909: Population, 96,880; total deaths, 18; deaths under five, 5; acute lung diseases, 4.

Death rate for the week ending November 13, 1909: 10.25 against 17.26 and 20.50 for previous two weeks.

Infectious diseases reported for the week ending November 13, 1909: Typhoid fever, 2; scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 6; measles, 7.

Board of Health.

The demand upon the city dispensary is also unusually light.

AN INVESTIGATION

INTO THE DEATH OF ELMER PARMENTER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—Coroner Lincoln continued today the investigation into the death of Elmer Parmenter, who met his death while going to the polls in an auto on election day. It is hoped to fix the responsibility on either the driver of the machine or the motorman of an electric car. A decision is expected next week.

INMATES ESCAPE

Make Their Way Out of Truant School

Two boys, inmates of the Middlesex County Truant school, in North Chelmsford, made their escape from that institution last night by lowering themselves from a window in the dormitory which they occupied.

At the time of going to press the boys were still at large.

Yesterday noon two Cambridge boys, who have been confined at the school, also made their escape, but they were later arrested in Medford and returned to the school.

LOWELL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

A GREAT CROWD

At Game Between Lowell and Lawrence High Teams Today

The Lowell and Lawrence High school elevens met on the gridiron at Spalding park this afternoon in one of the most interesting and exciting games ever witnessed here. The rivalry between these two teams is very keen. It is the sole ambition of the Lowell team to defeat the down-river aggregation and the same can also be said of Lawrence, for the latter team takes particular pains to have its men in the pink of condition on the day that it is pitted against Lowell.

If the scores of the different games in which Lowell and Lawrence have taken part this year can be taken as a criterion it would appear that the Lawrence eleven has a trifle the better of the argument. In none of the regular games played so far this season has Lawrence been scored upon. Boston English was beaten by a 5 to 0 score by Lawrence, while the game between Lowell and Boston Latin resulted in a victory for Lowell by a score of 6 to 5.

The Lowell boys were in the pink of condition for the game. They retired early last night and this morning the squad assembled and a training table dinner was served. Early in the afternoon the team was taken to the field and final instructions given.

The attendance at the park was very large, the student body of both schools turning out in large numbers, while former pupils of the school and no football enthusiasts were on hand with flags and various noise making contrivances.

Special cars were run between this city and Lawrence during the afternoon in order to accommodate the large number that came to this city to witness the game. Between 1 and 3 o'clock this afternoon cars were run every few minutes between Merrimack square and Spalding park.

DYNAMITED THEIR VESSELS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Before leaving Greytown Thursday after their defeat, the Nicaragunn revolutionists dynamited the two government vessels, the Managua and the Norma, ships of about 300 tons burden each and burned various places in the city. The recapture of Greytown, the officials say, is of great importance to the government as heretofore ports on the Atlantic have been held by the revolutionists. The victory over the latter presages in their opinion an early collapse of the rebellion.

PROF. SNEDDEN IN CHARGE

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The entire supervision of the Massachusetts educational institutions was today placed in the hands of Prof. David Snedden of Columbia university as commissioner of education. He will begin his duties on Monday.

The appointment is under a recent act of the legislature which completely reorganized the system of educational control in the state, including a new state board of education. It is expected that special attention will be given to industrial training.

CHESTER JORDAN

Convicted of Murder Will Not be Granted New Trial

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 13.—Chester S. Jordan, the Somerville man who was convicted last night of murdering his wife, Honorah Jordan, will not be granted a new trial, according to a ruling filed by Judges William B. Stevens and Charles Bell of the superior court in the office of the clerk of courts at East Cambridge today. Attorneys for Jordan made a motion for a new trial on the ground that one of the jurors who convicted Jordan, Willis White of Maynard, was insane during the trial and at the time the verdict was rendered.

In their ruling, Judges Stevens and Bell find that as a matter of evidence Juror White was of sufficient mental capacity during the trial to arrive at a rational conclusion.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD

Her Companion Was Discovered in a Dying Condition

HARTFORD, Nov. 13.—The local authorities are making every effort to clear up the facts concerning the finding of a woman dead in a local hotel yesterday and a man with her whose death was nearly accomplished. He was removed to a local hospital and this morning was reported as being much improved. The conditions of the room indicated apparently that the couple had agreed to end their lives, and with that object had taken morphine. They registered at the hotel on Sunday, it was stated, as R. S. Brown and wife of Canton, but later developments seemed to indicate that the woman may have been Blanche Ferguson of Washington, D. C., and that the man's name is F. J. Reid, possibly of Cleveland, O. The police are not sure of the identity, however, in either case, according to statements made by them this morning. Telegrams have been received at police headquarters both from Washington and from Canton and with these in hand the investigation is being pursued. The man, while conscious and resting easily at the hospital, refuses to tell his name or to give any information about himself or his companion. It is expected, however, that the authorities will have some definite information within a few hours.

$300 PER DAY

For the Use of City Streets

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—The Detroit United railway today acceded conditionally to the city's demand for $300 per day for the use of streets upon which the franchises are said to expire tomorrow. The company specifies that it waives no rights and that the city waives none as far as an ultimate readjustment is concerned.

CITY IS QUIET

The National Guard to be Withdrawn From Cairo, Ill.,

CAIRO, Nov. 13.—Orders for the demobilization for the fourth regiment of the Illinois National guard which has occupied Cairo since early yesterday were expected by the commanders of the organization early today. The absence last night of any sign of a disposition to review mob rule and the safe arrival at Kankakee of Arthur Alexander, who was escorted from here late yesterday by two companies of militia led both the local and state authorities to believe that there was no chance of further disturbance in this city.

Alexander, who is suspected of complicity in the murder of Annie Pelley is the only person in whom members of the mob have any interest. The announced intention of Sheriff Davis and General Wells was to land the negro at some point so far from Cairo that no attempt would be made to take him from the authorities and it is the general opinion here that this object was fully accomplished by the journey to Kankakee. Whether a special grand jury is to be summoned to consider possible charges against members of the mob may also be determined today. It is likely, however, that the matter will be left for the next regular grand jury which is to meet early in December. Under present conditions of public opinion it is conceded by the local police authorities that the chances of obtaining indictments against members of Thursday night's mob are remote.

KING MANUEL IS ILL

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 13.—King Manuel of Portugal who is on his way to visit King Edward arrived here this morning. He is slightly indisposed and in order to break the journey spent the day here. He expects to proceed tonight direct to Cherbourg from where he will sail for England.

FOR NEW FIREMEN

Appropriations Committee Wants $1375

In order to get a report before the board of aldermen at its meeting next Tuesday evening the appropriations committee will meet at 6.15 on that evening.

Among the matters to be taken up is the request of the fire department for an appropriation of $1375 to pay the salary of 15 additional permanent firemen for the remainder of the year. If the money is found the 15 new men will be appointed at once.

The request for $1000 for walks at the North common, for which the ward two committmen have been working for some time, also comes before the committee.

Some time ago the park commission asked for a transfer of $1000 from the appropriation for labor to that of sundries and the committee allowed a transfer of $500. Now the commission asks that the other $500 be transferred and will appear before the committee to show why the transfer should be made.

The health, state aid and soldiers' relief will ask for additional money to complete the year and the school board threatens to ask for $5,000.

POLITICAL NEWS

Candidates Were Busy Last Night

The ward six friends of Major Robert J. Crowley met at his headquarters last evening and the meeting was presided over by John T. McCarthy while William Mackenzie was secretary. Major Crowley addressed the meeting on the issues of the campaign. There were about 300 present and the meeting was most enthusiastic. At the close of the meeting reports were submitted by the rallying committees.

Rep. John F. Meehan addressed a large gathering at the Lyon street school house last evening, speaking on the issues of the day. He was liberally applauded.

Rep. Meehan claims that he can in all fairness expose a man's public record and that he does not consider this as mudslinging or dealing in mere personalities.

O'Donnell Meetings

James E. O'Donnell appeared at several informal gatherings of friends in different parts of the city last evening and there was no meeting at his headquarters. He appealed strongly for a clean and honorable campaign without any mudslinging. He said in all cases he was guided by his convictions of right and was the tool of no special interest.

There is a noticeable absence of enthusiasm about republican headquarters these days.

Maloney Rally

A largely attended rally at the High street ward room was addressed by Wm. E. Maloney last night. He spoke of the issues already outlined by him in former addresses. Mr. Maloney was loudly applauded when he concluded his address.

SECY. McVEAGH

To Probe the Customs House Frauds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh has come out with the flat statement that not only will he probe to the bottom the scandal growing out of the frauds committed in the New York custom house by the so-called sugar trust and its agents, but he purposes to renovate the entire service. He declares he will shoulder all the responsibility for such a campaign and that the investigation will be thorough and vigorous.

Attorney General Wickersham also has been gathering evidence through his corps of special agents.

Secretary MacVeagh, however, indicates that he is going further than merely seeking to punish those who have been guilty of past wrongdoing.

LABOR SUNDAY

To be Observed by the Laboring Men

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 13.—A closer union of the church and the workingman is suggested in a resolution presented to the American Federation of Labor convention by its secretary, Frank Morrison. The resolution calls attention to the growing interest in the study of the labor movement by the church and by the clergy; it asserts that many ministers are discussing problems of the toilers in their pulpits and asks that the first Sunday in September be officially designated by the American Federation of Labor as Labor Sunday. It asks that the churches of America be requested to devote some part of this day to the presentation of the labor question and that the various labor bodies be requested to co-operate in every legitimate way with the ministers who thus observe "Labor Sunday."

The convention went on record as in favor of securing an extension of the eight hour law to cover all government work, whether by contract or sub-contract, and President Taft will be urged to recommend such a measure in his message to congress. Favorable action was taken on a resolution asking Secretary Nagel of the department of labor and Commissioner Neill of the bureau of labor to create in that bureau a department for the investigation of the condition of working women and requesting that a woman be appointed as the head of such a department.

The deep waterway project throughout the country was endorsed and a continuance of the campaign of education for the prevention of tuberculosis was advocated.

PASTOR MADE CHARGES

Against Haverhill Police Board and Hearing Was Held

HAVERHILL, Nov. 13.—The municipal council last night gave a hearing on charges preferred Nov. 4 by Rev. Frederick B. Greul, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, against the license board.

After counsel for the commission had admitted the facts set forth in the petition, which asked for the removal of the three members, the council took the matter under advisement and upon considering the evidence will render a verdict, probably not before next Thursday night.

The charges resolved themselves down to two points: First, that Haber F. McKenna, Herbert F. Taylor, and John M. Roche, as license commissioners, granted licenses to unfit persons, the specifications including the names of five persons who in the preceding no-license year had been convicted in the district court of a liquor law violation; and that the commission granted licenses to persons who did not have the premises from which they made application equipped with facilities to serve a meal.

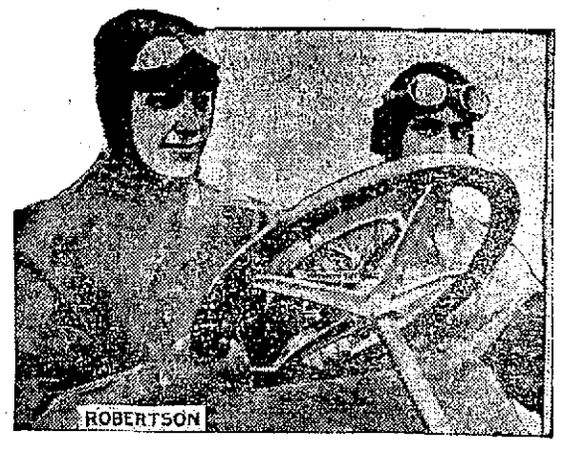

Boyd J. Jones and Judge John J. Ryan, appearing for the commissioners, agreed with Johnson and North, for Dr. Greul, that the facts were true in the main. Dr. Greul was called to testify, and he said his motives were inspired by nothing but for the good of the community.

Commissioner Taylor was put on the stand by Atty. Jones and admitted that he did not investigate the complaint upon which the five persons named as unfit had been convicted. He said, however, that he had been legally advised that the grant would stand all test.

Atty. Jones contended that the commissioners were the sole judges as to who the fit persons were; he said there had been nothing but a technical violation, which did not warrant the removal of the board. Atty. Johnson disagreed and demanded that the council vote to remove.

The hearing was spirited, there being several clashes between counsel; and at times the audience of some 500 persons broke out into thunderous applause as one lawyer or the other passed out some brilliant remark.

NEW AUTO RECORD

GEORGE H. ROBERTSON

Robertson Made 50 Miles in 40 Minutes, 14.40 Seconds

ATLANTA, Nov. 13.—Yesterday's automobile races reached their height when George H. Robertson, driving a 60 horse power Fiat, lowered the American track record for 50 miles by 12m. 7s. The previous record was held by John Aiken, who made the distance at Indianapolis in 44m. 21.2s. Aiken drove a National to second place in yesterday's race and Stillman to third in a Marmon, and both bettered the Indianapolis mark. Aiken made the distance in 43m. 11.41s. and Stillman in 43m. 30.56s. Robertson's time was 40m. 14.40s.

Eight cars started in the contest and five finished, despite the record breaking pace. Lewis Strang, piloting his 200 horse power Fiat, set a terrific pace in the first 17 miles, but in the 18th, as he was passing the judges' stand, the tire of the rear right wheel exploded, compelling his withdrawal. His time for the first 10 miles was 7m. 18.32s.

Strang traveled on an average of three seconds a mile faster than Robertson. On this basis it is figured that had he finished the race he would have gone the 50 miles in four minutes less than the time made by Robertson.

While on the 27th mile Harding, in an Apperson, made an attempt to escape from a pocket. Lorimer blew a tire, running against the fence and losing a wheel. Harding was about six feet behind when he also blew a tire, but managed to avoid running into his rival. Neither driver was injured.

A more serious accident occurred during the practice hour, when a specially designed and high powered Pope Toledo car was wrecked. H. J. Kilpatrick the driver, and R. Church, mechanician, were thrown 150 feet from their seats, but they fell in underbrush and escaped with slight injuries. The car was a total loss.

The blowing up of Strang's tire gave Robertson the lead at the end of the 2nth mile. He was followed by Aiken, Harding, Lorimer, Stillman, Dingley and Disbrow. After the accident to Harding and Lorimer, Stillman occupied third place until he finished. The summary of the other races:

Twenty mile handicap, entries restricted to drivers and cars who had contested in the New York to Atlanta tour—Won by Benz (Stoecker), Matheson (Whalen), second, Renault (Shaab) third. Time 20m. 36.86s.

Twelve mile stock chassis—Won by National (Aiken), Chalmers-Detroit (Lorimer) second, Chalmers-Detroit (Dingley) third. Time 10m. 7.65s.

Ten mile handicap—Won by Marmon (Harroun), Chalmers-Detroit (Knipper) second, Chalmers-Detroit (Matson) third. Time 9m. 51.01s.

Six mile stock car—Won by Fiat (Rogertson), National (Aiken) second, Apperson (Dingley) third. Time 4m. 45.57s.

Twenty-four mile amateur—Won by John Rutherford in a Stearns, J. P. Kiser in a Pope-Hartford second. Time 29m. 35.25s.

Two mile free for all—Won by Strang, Christie second, Robertson third. Time 1m. 34.37s.

A $200,000 GIFT

To the Academy at Strafford, N. H.

MARLBORO, Nov. 13.—By the death of Mrs. Della E. Cate the trustees of the academy at Strafford, N. H., will soon come into the possesson of about $200,000. Mrs. Cate was the wife of George N. Cate, who died several years ago. He was for years one of the city's most successful business men, and when he died he left an estate valued at about $250,000. During her life Mrs. Cate was to have the interest accruing from the possessions of her husband, and at her death the property not otherwise disposed of was to go to the trustees of the academy referred to, which is located in the native town of Mr. Cate.

When a lad, poor but desirous of getting an education, there were certain opportunities given Mr. Cate at the academy which came to him as a very welcome surprise, and he many times declared that if he ever accumulated enough to make it an object the little educational institution in his native town would be remembered. He was very fond of rehearsing to his friends how much he appreciated what had been done for him by the academy trustees when he was a youth.

Mrs. Cate left a personal estate valued at about $20,000. Of that amount one-seventh, in accordance with the provisions of her will, will go to the Marlboro hospital, one-seventh to the Ladies' Charitable society connected with the Unitarian church of this city. The other beneficiaries will be relatives. She left a number of very valuable books, and some of these will be given to the public library, as provided in her will.

EX-SEC. CARLISLE

Said to Have Passed Comfortable Night

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—John G. Carlisle, secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of the late President Grover Cleveland, was reported this morning at St. Vincent's hospital in this city where he is a patient, to have passed a good night and to be resting comfortably.

That the ex-secretary, now 74, has been and still is seriously ill was learned today, although it is stated that he is in no immediate danger. The hospital authorities and his physicians at first would discuss his case only guardedly, but this morning an authoritative expression as to the nature of his malady and his present condition was obtained.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant in charge of Mr. Carlisle's case and the hospital physicians authorized the following statement:

"Mr. Carlisle has an attack of acute intestinal obstruction associated with chronic kidney complications. No operation was performed. He is resting quietly and is apparently in no immediate danger."

SUPREME COURT

Decided That Judge Dana Erred

The full bench of the supreme court yesterday sustained the defendant's exceptions in the cross suits of George E. Searle vs. the Roman Catholic bishop of Springfield, holding that Judge Dana erred in excluding from the jury any Roman Catholic.

Under the ruling of Judge Dana two jurors were excluded from the panel. The actions related to the title of a building on land that had been required by Bishop Beaven on Union street, Easthampton, as a site for a church.

When the case came up for trial counsel for the plaintiff asked the judge to rule that a Roman Catholic could not sit on the jury, on the ground that the defendant was the Roman Catholic bishop of Springfield, a corporation sole under the acts of 1898, who held the title to the real estate in trust for the Roman Catholic church and that such jurors had an interest in the suit analagous to that which taxpayers have in a suit against the city or town in which they reside.

The supreme court says:

"It is not contended, and it could not successfully be contended, that holding the same religious belief as one of the parties, or affiliation with him in the same church, would disqualify a person from sitting as a juror in his case. The application of such a doctrine would be unjust and impracticable.

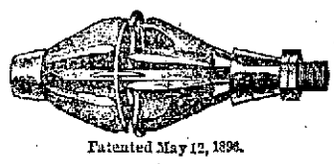

"The real estate held by the defendant is in the town of Easthampton, and it was bought as a site for a church. The excluded jurors were not taxpayers in that town, and it may be assumed that they were not members of the parish that was expected to use the church. The ruling applied to all jurors of the Roman Catholic faith, without reference to their residence or to any close affiliation with the local church."

The court holds the ruling was a violation of the statutory provision and of the defendant's right to have the excluded men sit as jurors unless challenged by the plaintiff.

The court is of opinion that the ruling was an injury to the defendant, which entitles him to a new trial. In the superior court a jury returned a verdict of $800 for the plaintiff, but a new trial will be held.

NIGHT EDITION

PUBLIC OPINION

Is that State Has Not Made Case Against Mme. Steinheil

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The public today awaits with confidence the acquittal of Madame Steinheil. Guilty or innocent the impression is general that the state has not made out a case against her. Originally charging that she murdered both her painter husband, Adolphe Steinheil, and her step-mother, Madame Japy, the prosecution modified its allegations as the trial progressed finally eliminating the charge of parricide and admitting that the accused woman might have been an accomplice rather than the principal in the death of her husband.

The confidence of the public is shared by the accused, her counsel and friends. This was evidenced when Madame Steinheil entered the courtroom today. Her large expressive eyes flashed unpleasantly from a face that was plainly grief stricken but the faintest suspicion of a smile was detected. It was also apparent that she had recovered somewhat from the physical collapse of yesterday. Her counsel, M. Aubin, glanced first at his client and then about the courtroom triumphantly and grinned broadly as though his case had already been won. In anticipation of her acquittal her friends have arranged to spirit the widow away to some quiet place in the country where she may recuperate from the effects of her trying ordeal. This will be done immediately after the verdict is pronounced, assuming, of course, that the expected will happen. All Paris, it seemed, clamored today at the doors of the palace of justice when the curtain rose on the final act of the legal drama which had absorbed France to the exclusion of practically everything else for ten days.

The resumption of the trial this afternoon with the argument of M. Aubin for the defense was delayed by the unexplained absence of the foreman of the jury.

Judge Devalles inquired whether anyone knew why Foreman Poupart, a merchant of St. Ouen, was absent, whereupon a fellow juror replied that only yesterday the foreman had complained of a seizure of giddiness. The judge ordered a physician sent to see Poupart and in the meantime suspended the sitting of the court.

Marietta Wolf, the former cook in the Steinheil household, and her son, Alexandre, both of whom had testified for the defense, contributed to the general excitement today with grandiloquent outbursts of indignation. Before the sitting of the court the Wolf woman and her son were told of the open intimation made in the court yesterday that they had been accomplices in the murder. Marietta flew into a towering rage and for a time could not control herself. She had turned pale at the words of her informant, but when she recovered herself declared that she had no fear. When court convened Marietta forced her way into the courtroom and made a desperate attempt to reach the judges's bench. Amid much excitement she was seized by the police and unceremoniously dragged out of the place. Subsequently both the woman and her son consulted a lawyer and avowed their intentions of bringing damage suits for slander against the prosecution. The report continues current that both Marietta and Alexandre are in imminent danger of arrest. Among those who bought standing room in the courtroom today was Madame Gabrielle Rejane, the actress.

During the suspension of the sitting a telegram was received from Poupart, stating that he was ill and asking the court to replace him with one of the supplementary jurors, of whom there are always two present during the trial of a case. Judge DeValles announced that it would be necessary to await the report of the physician who had been sent to the foreman's home.

DELOREY'S SISTER

Says Accused Man Was at Home on Night of Murder

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 13.—Efforts by the defense to establish an alibi for Peter Delorey, who, with James Mantir, is on trial in the superior court for the murder of Annie Mullins on March 30, 1908, continued today with the testimony of several of the young man's relatives.

His sister, Maybel Delorey stated that her brother was at home in Somerville on the night the murder took place and that her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Delorey, of Billerica, told her that Delorey and Mantir came up there three days after the murder instead of the morning of the day when the body was discovered. Miss Margaret Delorey, of Somerville, was positive that Peter was home on the fatal night.

Peter's father, Henry Delorey, of Somerville, his sister, Mrs. Charles Hardy and her husband, Charles F. Hardy, all testified that Peter was at home during the entire evening and night of March 27, the date on which Annie Mullins died. Mr. Hardy said that he saw Peter when he left home to go to Boston and saw him at work in Boston that afternoon.

Mrs. Elmer Delorey, aunt of Peter, testified that Mrs. Elizabeth Delorey of North Billerica told her Mantir had sued her for his wages and said it was a case of blackmail and she would try to put him behind the bars.

DRIVEN FROM BEDS

20 Families Driven Out By Flames This Morning

Fire Started in Jackson Street Junk Shop and Spread—Gallant Rescue of Little Girl Found Alone in Burning House by a Fireman—Three Horses Perished in Flames—Fire Department Did Good Work

The quiet of slumbering Lowell was broken at about 2 o'clock this morning by the ringing of fire bells, and some woke as in a dream to find the sky illumined by the glare of a fire that threatened life and property. Thanks to the good work of "Bob" Carland, a ladderman of truck 3, no loss of human life will be recorded, and while the fire covered considerable ground the property loss is practically insigfinicant because of the fact that the buildings burned were being torn down to make way for the new storage warehouse to be erected by a Boston concern.

The scene of the fire was in Jackson and Middlesex streets, and it was responsible for no less than four alarms, three box and a telephone alarm. The first alarm was sounded from box 72 at 2.05 a. m., and a second alarm was sent in at 2.13. Then came the telephone alarm and later an alarm from box 172, located at the corner of Appleton and Favor streets. Sparks from the Jackson street fire carried to Appleton street and took root there, but did not do any material damage.

Started in Junk Shop

The fire which had gained very considerable headway before the arrival of the firemen is supposed to have started in T. McAvoy's junkshop in Jackson street and it is said by firemen and others that had the wind been blowing at all hard there would have been something in the nature of a widespread conflagration. The surroundings were of the sort to appeal to the flames and hungry tongues of fire were licking their way from pillar to post when the firemen arrived. Ten minutes after the second alarm was sounded no less than fifteen streams were pouring in on the fiery furnace from Middlesex, Jackson and Revere streets.

The Property Destroyed

The property destroyed consisted of an old stable that was being torn down, an old blacksmith shop, and two out buildings, all of which were to be eliminated to make room for the big storage warehouse.

A tenement block owned by A. C. Wheelock and fronting on Middlesex street at a point known as the "big yard," was badly gutted; other tenement property was more or less damaged and the ambitious flames found their way to a long wooden building owned by the Appleton company and in which is located. Bergeron & Fontaine's laundry. This place was badly scorched and all of the windows on the side nearest the burning buildings were shattered by the force of water. No estimate of the damage has yet been made, but because of the nature of the property it will not be very great.

Three Horses Perished

Three horses perished in the flames and there are two pigs missing. The pigs found their way to the open, but inasmuch as they have not been recovered it is thought that they went back to their pen where they were drowned or suffocated. When the firemen arrived the pigs were running about in the open. Two of the horses burned belonged to Mr. Brennan, who has a wood yard on the premises, and the third horse was the property of Mr. Wilson, a tea man.

Escaped in Night Clothes

At least 20 families, the tenants of A. C. Wheelock and H. A. Racicot, whose building is numbered 317 Middlesex street, escaped in their night clothes and the excitement at the time can better be imagined than described. Fortunately the night was not very cold and the shivering ones scantily clothed took refuge in doorways in Middlesex street. Most of the tenants were foreigners who could speak but little English and their loss, principally by water, will weigh heavily upon them as it is understood that but few of them carried any insurance.

Baby Girl Rescued

When Lieut. Herbert Merrill and Robert Carland of truck 3 arrived on the scene they went through the Wheelock block to arouse the sleeping inmates. All of the rooms with the exception of one on the upper floor were deserted and there they found a baby girl. Sparks that entered by an open window had set fire to the bed in the room and the little one, two-years-old, was standing in the middle of the room waving her tiny hands apparently frightened at the danger and the noise that surrounded her. Mr. Carland took the little tot in his arms and carried her to the street. Upon his arrival there he found a woman hysterically weeping and calling for her baby in a foreign tongue. When the child was placed in her arms by the sturdy fireman her joy knew no bounds. She smothered the little one with kisses and her gratitude to the fireman she extended on bended knees.

Streets Were Crowded

Despite the fact that the fire occurred at an hour whenall Lowell was supposed to be wrapt in slumber a crowd of several hundred gathered almost as quickly as did the firemen, and before the fire was under control Jackson and Middlesex streets in the vicinity of the

AT COLLINSVILLE

Arrival of Pastor Enthuses Parishoners

The parishioners of the new St. Mary's parish are most enthusiastic over the coming of Rev. Thomas Walsh, as their resident pastor, and while the parish numbers a comparatively few Catholics, the residents look forward to its development in the near future, while its geographical feature will greatly increase its numbers during the summer months. The parish starts at Girard avenue in Walbrook, one side of the street being in St. Mary's parish and the other in St. Michael's, Lowell, for under the division the Navy Yard continues in the Lowell parish. The line runs over in one direction to the Mammoth road, below Collinsville, and on the other it takes in the village of New Boston. The upper line is at the state line, thus including Tyngsboro, Lakeview, Long Pond, Willow Dale, Mountain Rock to Hudson, N. H.

Rev. Fr. Walsh has taken the Hervey cottage at Canney's corner for the present but the land adjoining the church, where the lawn parties were formerly conducted, has been purchased and a parochial residence will be built on it. The men of the parish are to excavate and build the foundation themselves. A grand whist party and dance will be held on Thanksgiving eve in aid of the new parish. While the parish is in embryo state Fr. Walsh is most enthusiastic over its possibilities and he asks the co-operation of the parishioners in bringing about its development.

Murphy made five yards on a run.

There was a conference on the execution of this play but it was found that Princeton had worked it legally with the tackle.

Hart hit the line for 2 yards and again for 3.

With the ball at Y: 52 yard line Murphy ran it back x yards.

BRAKEMAN KILLED

Howard F. Barber Run Over at Middlesex St. Station Today

Howard F. Barber, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad, presumably a brakeman, was run over and killed by a passenger train at the Middlesex street station a few minutes before nine o'clock this morning.

Barber, who was about 35 years old, was standing on the lower step of one of the forward cars of the Concord train due in Lowell at 8.56. The train was a long one and Barber either attempted to jump or stumbled from the step. He fell to the platform and rolled under the train. Four cars passed over him, mangling him terribly. His identity was disclosed by papers he had in his pocket showing him to be a member of the order of Railway Trainmen and an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad. His home is at 14 Pearley street, Concord, N. H. The body was removed to Healey's undertaking parlors in Branch street and his people have been notified.

HARVARD VICTORY

the only feature of the Green play in the first 25 minutes.

One of Ingersoll's punts drove Harvard back to her own 25 yard line. Then came three Harvard rushes and Minot was given the ball for the distance. Minot immediately punted to Dartmouth's 30 yard line and Ingersoll ran it back 10 yards.

The Harvard centre proved almost impervious for Marks was jammed in for almost no gains. On the other hand Minot was usually able to gather 10 or 15 yards. Harvard, however, seemed to be saving strength for the second half and kicked on the third down frequently whenever Dartmouth started to gain.

There are frequent delays on account of injuries which extended the half to an unusual length.

After O'Flaherty had run back one of Ingersoll's punts thirty yards Harvard kicked to Dartmouth's 25-yard line when the Green was penalized and the half ended with the ball in Dartmouth's possession on their ten-yard line.

A Great Struggle

Harvard and Dartmouth struggled for some 25 minutes in the first half without scoring in their annual contest today. It was a kicking game, as both teams showed a powerful defense. Harvard outplayed Dartmouth in line plunging and made five first downs. The Crimson, however, seemed to be saving her strength for the second half and punted almost invariably from the third down even with a scant yard to gain. Dartmouth was once on Harvard's 54 yard line but was immediately sent back into her own territory on a penalty. On the other hand Harvard jammed the ball three times to the Dartmouth 35 yard line, losing once on downs and kicking twice rather than expend further strength.

Ingersoll of Dartmouth with the wind against him outkicked Minot of Harvard throughout the half.

Second Half

Withington kicked off to Tobin, who ran it back to Dartmouth's 30 yard line. After Marks and Tobin had failed to gain, Ingersoll kicked to Harvard's 38 yard line.

Harvard kicked on the third down and as Ingersoll fumbled the Crimson regained possession of the leather on Dartmouth's 32 yard line. Minot made two yards through centre, Leslie gained four more and immediately followed it with five more and it was Harvard's first down on Dartmouth's 20 yard line.

Frothingham took Corbett's place at left half back for Harvard and Mingle went in for Needham at Dartmouth's centre. Minot made four yards through centre and Frothingham followed it up with five yards farther. There Minot made it a first down on Dartmouth's 7 yard line. Line plunges sent the ball to Dartmouth's 3 yard line.

Harvard Scores

After the third down Harvard made the distance and scored the touchdown.

The touchdown was made on nine rushes, nearly all through the centre, and mostly by Minot and Frothingham. Frothingham made the touchdown and Withington kicked the goal.

Score—Harvard 6, Dartmouth 0.

Resuming play Dartmouth kicked to Minot on Harvard's 20 yard line and after the ball had been run back ten yards Harvard punted on the second down and it was Dartmouth's ball on their own 47 yard line. Dodge took Bankart's place at right end for Dartmouth.

Marks was thrown back for 2 yards on the first rush. Then came a forward pass but without gain.

Dartmouth punted on first down to Harvard's 30 yard line. Harvard playing on the defensive punted on the third down and again it was Dartmouth's ball. Three ineffective line plunges and the ball was punted to Harvard's 25 yard line. Frothingham made six yards through center.

Harvard Punted

Harvard punted on the second down and Ingersoll ran the ball back 38 yards to Harvard's 39-yard line, a distance of 40 yards. It was the first time the ball had been in Harvard's territory in this half. On the first down Marks made 7 yards through center but Ryan was thrown back for a loss.

Then Dartmouth tried a forward pass but the ball landed in Frothingham's arms and Harvard had escaped from a tight place. Minot punted on the first down but the ball went too short. Dartmouth's ball on Harvard's 39-yard line.

O'Flaherty's Clever Work

Then came an onside kick which went outside but the ball was given to Dartmouth on Harvard's 44-yard line. Marks made two yards through center. Marks followed with two more. With the ball on Harvard's 11-yard line Dartmouth tried a forward pass but O'Flaherty caught the ball between the goal posts and ran to Harvard's 35-yard line before he was downed.

Line plunges gave Harvard a first down on their own 50 yard line. Then Minot was jammed 9 yards and the ball was once more in Dartmouth's territory.

Some Fierce Rushing

Line rushing at this point was very fierce and soon the ball was on Dartmouth's 38 yard line.

Long took Minot's place at full back for Harvard.

Frothingham reeled off 14 yards to Dartmouth's 22 yard line, on a triple pass and a dash around Dartmouth's left end. After Harvard had rushed the ball to Dartmouth's 16 yard line they were sent back ten yards for holding.

Eight yards of this was regained on the first rush. Then came an unsuccessful forward pass, and it was Dartmouth's ball on their 12 yard line. Marks could not gain and Dartmouth kicked on the second down to their 50 yard line. O'Flaherty ran it back to the 35 yard line.

Pulling and pushing, Harvard sent the ball through the Dartmouth line to the 25-yard line. Again there was a Crimson penalty and the ball was sent back 20 yards. Harvard tried a forward pass which came off successfully and claimed the ball on Dartmouth's 17-yard line.

Harvard Scores Again

From Dartmouth's 17-yard line Harvard worked a forward pass and the ball was carried over the line by Houston. Houston took Brown's place at left end. Withington kicked the goal.

Harvard 12, Dartmouth 0.

Wigglesworth takes O'Flaherty's place at Harvard quarter. Tobin kicked off to Wigglesworth after the touchdown and on the first play Frothingham carried the ball 16 yards to the 46 yard line the whole Harvard team yanking him along.

Harvard punted on the second down to Dartmouth's 26 yard line. On a fake kick Ingersoll made nine yards through center. Then Dartmouth tried a forward pass but gained only a yard. It was sufficient, however, for a first down.

Then Harvard held and Dartmouth kicked to Harvard's 50-yard line where the ball went outside. Dartmouth, however, recovered the ball and an onside kick gave them the ball on Harvard's 20-yard line. Three rushes gained six yards and then with the ball on Harvard's 14-yard line Tobin dropped the kick for a try for a field goa.

Brown Scores

The try was successful and Tobin on Harvard's 24-yard line sent the ball over the cross for three points.

Score: Harvard 12, Dartmouth 3.

Harvard kicked off to Dartmouth's 30 yard line and the ball was punted on the second down to the middle of the field. After two ineffective quarterback runs Harvard kicked to Dartmouth's 25 yard line. The game ended with the bal in Dartmouth's possession on her 25 yard line.

CORNELL VS. CHICAGO

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Hundreds of college enthusiasts poured into the Forest city on the early trains this morning to witness one of the most important intersectional games between Cornell and Chicago on Percy field this afternoon. The Cornell-Chicago gridiron contest will be looked upon to some extent as deciding the supremacy of the east and west. The battle will be old football against the new.

Coach Stagg of the visiting team predicted an even game.

MICHIGAN VS. PENN

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—The university of Michigan football team met the university of Pennsylvania eleven today on Franklin field. As a meeting of representative players of the east and west the game had unusual interest. Michigan has played Pennsylvania four times and has failed to win a game, but this year the western university came east with a team

CAST OF HEIDELBERG "MAN"

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 13.—Prof. Otto Schoetensack of the University of Heidelberg has given to the anthropological department of the Yale university museum a cast of the Heidelberg "man." The "man" consists of the lower jaw of the ancestral type of prehistoric character found in a sand pit near Heidelberg, Germany, by Prof. Schoetensack and is the oldest part of a human body ever found in the world. It belongs to the lower quarternary geological period. The teeth of the jaw are perfectly preserved and the jaw nearly twice the size having variations human jaw besides having variations which mark it as belonging to the missing link between the race of apes and man. It is said to be the first specimen of the jaw received in this country.

Counsel Coolidge Puts the Blame Up to the Commissioners

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The state board of railroad commissioners yesterday began the hearing of final arguments as to the necessity of a high speed electric railroad between Boston, Lowell and Lawrence.

Counsel Coolidge, for the Boston & Maine, occupied practically the entire forenoon in his argument, devoting himself principally to the contention that the railroad commissioners are at fault if transportation facilities in this district are not what they should be. It is the sworn duty of the board he said, in case it finds existing transportation systems are not what they should be, to recommend improvements, and having failed to do this, the board now has not the right to inject into this territory a new system to tap the Boston & Maine's business, and render that company less able to give to the public the character of service it has a right to expect.

City Solicitor Frank W. Kaan of Somerville argued that no public necessity has been shown for the construction of such a road through that city.

At the afternoon session James F. Jackson, ex-chairman of the railroad commission, made the closing argument for the petitioners. He called attention to the statement made to the board at a former hearing by Pres. Dumaine of the Boston railroad holding company, which he said was a statement carefully prepared and studied as to its contents, Mr. Dumaine even going to the extreme of asking the newspaper men to use great care in reporting him. This statement, Mr. Jackson said, really contained nothing except an assertion that the Boston & Maine will make such improvements as it thinks necessary, just as it has always done.

Mr. Jackson reviewed the evidence presented in favor of the new project, stating that no one denies that it will be a public benefit to some extent; the question for the commission to determine is whether its benefits outweigh the damages it will cause, and if they find to this effect, then the petitioners are entitled to the certificate they pray for.

SLIGHT CHANGES

IN THE OPENING PRICES OF STOCKS

Gains and Losses Were Quite Equally Divided—The Copper Stocks Showed Notable Strength—Railroad Stocks Not Materially Altered From Yesterday's Prices

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The changes shown by the opening prices of stocks were insignificant and dealings very light. Gains and losses were quite equally divided. Butterick Publishing rose 1⅛ and Utah Copper ½. Interborough-Met. declined ⅝.

A firm tone permeated the market, the copper stocks showing notable strength. Utah Copper was bought in round amounts up to 57¾ a gain of 1⅛. Advances in other stocks of this class was less noteworthy. Railroad stocks were not materially altered from yesterday's final prices.

The market closed firm and active. The movement in the coppers was the only feature. The rise in Utah Copper reached 6⅝. Tenn. Copper 2 and Amal. Copper 1⅜.

Boston Copper Market

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—On broad active trading local copper stocks advanced sharply today with Butte stocks leading. The close was at the highest. North Butte 60¾, up ⅛; Butte Coalition 30¾, up 1; Utah Consolidated 46, up 1¼.

Copper continued to be the stock favored most by the traders this morning and the activity which was manifest in this section gave rise to the rumor that an old fashioned copper market was being nursed. Cole-Ryan and the Guggenheim holdings were the stocks where the activity was particularly noticeable but it was thought that the entire copper situation would be helped materially in the rallies. Amalgamated and the Smelters were the buyers of the session and while not making much headway on the list they presented some life which the stocks have not enjoyed for some time.

In the presence of the money rates being announced at a stiff discount and the prospects of a poor bank statement coming out today, the afternoon hours of yesterday's market proved to be the most profitable that the market has observed for a long time. From an unprofitable and uninteresting session it developed prices which were really astonishing for the short space of time. Rallies were found and the stock prices went soaring upward and the sheet which during the morning hours of the session had been a repetition of the previous days' experience, took on the new change and every stock of any importance was sent on a good buying scale. The stocks which benefited most by the change of affairs were the industrials, copper and steel.

At the opening today the stocks opened up, and the steady gait which was assumed yesterday was present, and the prices took leap after leap. Trading was the best of any session held this week and the closing at noon gave the opinion to many that a very strong and aggressive market may be looked for Monday. The stocks which practically have been the buying and selling basis of the week, although holding the place attained on the sheet during the early part of the week were not as lively today, and they seemed to give way to the element of the entire list of stocks. Irregularity prevailed as was expected and the greatest selling occurred when drives were formed. Buying was mostly for trading and not for investment and this fact lent some assistance to the sheet which may have injured the situation had the stocks been held for increases.

The Money Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The statement of clearing house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $6,769,000 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule; this is an increase of $1,726,425 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week. The statement follows:

Loans, decrease, $20,731,500.
Deposits, decrease, $26,672,500.
Circulation, decrease, $55,500.
Legal tenders, increase, $37,400.
Specie, decrease, $4,974,100.
Surplus reserve $6,769,000, increase $1,726,425.

Ex U. S. deposits $7,187,175, increase $1,737,850.

The percentage of actual reserve of the clearing house banks today was 25.94.

The statement of banks and trust companies of Greater New York not reporting to the clearing house shows that these institutions have aggregate deposits of $1,251,897,700; total cash on hand $143,961,000 and loans amounting to $1,202,283,300.

Prime mercantile paper 5 to 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange firm at 483.15 @483.35 for sixty days and at 487.55 for demand. Commercial bills 483½@483. Bar silver 60¾. Mexican dollars 43. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds heavy. Money on call nominal; no loans. Time loans strong; sixty days 5½ and 90 days 5@5¼ per cent; six months 5 per cent. Exchanges, $372,466,895; balances, $12,063,864; For the week: Exchanges, $2,251,992,195; balances, $87,561,128.

Favorable news was heard on all sides and the announcement of the securing of $4,000,000 in gold by the Bank of England was welcomed. The centre of anxiety this morning, was the wining out of the surplus reserves being held in New York. In the event of the rate of discount being increased to 6 per cent, however, it will enable the bank to show and increase in the list. Although the money market may attain higher rates next week it will not injure the market and the prices will not be lowered any in change.

WINSTON CHURCHILL ATTACKED

BRISTOL, Eng., Nov. 13.—A wild-eyed suffragette, armed with a horsewhip, attacked Winston Spencer Churchill here this afternoon and it was only after a struggle that the woman was repulsed. Churchill and his wife had just arrived by train and were leaving the railroad station when a woman suddenly darted out from the crowd and commenced to belabor the cabinet member with a rawhide. Churchill promptly seized his assailant and succeeded in wrenching the whip from her hands after a sharp struggle during which the two barely escaped falling from the platform to the tracks below. The militant suffragette was arrested and imprisoned. She refused to give her name.

$1,000,000 INVOLVED

In Case That is Being Heard in Taunton

TAUNTON, Nov. 13.—The million-dollar will case involving the admission to probate of the will of Elizabeth F. Noble of Mansfield was opened in the probate court here yesterday morning before Judge Fuller. Heirs from a dozen or more states were present in person or represented by counsel in the attempt to set aside bequests of $700,000 to various charitable societies. Mrs. Noble was 94 at the time of her death and 83 when she made the will. It is contended that she was not of sound mind when the will was executed.

Jennings, Morton & Brayton appeared for William Kindall, a legatee; Clarence J. Shearn of New York appeared for Elizabeth Johnson; Rhodes, Gray & Gorham appeared for penal charities, and Henry M. Rogers appeared for the other charities. Albert E Pillsbury also appeared, and several others of the counsel for individual legatees.

Counsel McClellan, for the will, outlined the case. Mrs. Noble's charitable bequests, he said, were in accord with the sympathies expressed during her lifetime. When the will was made it appeared to Mrs. Noble that the residue was larger than she had anticipated. A provision was inserted in the will that if the residue was larger than $40,000, six other charitable societies were to be remembered.

Witnesses to the will were called in the persons of Mrs. Marion Moultrop of Mansfield, Mrs. Alma M. Hagerty and Charles G. Hagerty.

Mr. Hagerty was questioned at length, and, in reply to a query, said the estimated value of the estate was $842,598.50. Asked what other wills he had found, Mr. Hagerty said the first instrument he found was in a box sent to him after the death of his client. It was executed in New York, March 13, 1892, and the next in order of date was a will purporting to be executed Oct. 24, 1896, at witness' office in Mansfield. Witness did not draw the will, but Mrs. Noble said that she had it written in New York, and wanted Mr. Hagerty to witness the execution.

Witness proceeded to testify to the various wills, and at adjournment this afternoon it was announced the hearing would be resumed on Monday. Many fashionably dressed women from various states were in attendance at the hearing.

The institutions which will benefit should the will be upheld by the court are the New York Society for Improving the Conditions of the Poor, the Children's Aid Society of the City of New York, the New York Ladies' Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the American Humane Education society of Boston and the State Association of the Young Men's Christian Association of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

U.S. GOVERNMENT

Spends $18,000,000 in Experimental Work

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Secretary Wilson has issued a statement pointing out that the United States government is spending in the neighborhood of $18,000,000 a year on experimental work in increasing the yield and efficiency of the farms of the country. The statement was inspired by the charge made by William C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines at a dinner in New York this week that the nation could better afford to invest the cost of one battleship in agricultural experiment work than to expend it in the increase of the navy. A battleship costs approximately $9,000,000.

Secretary Wilson declares that the government is expending each year exactly twice as much as two first class battleships cost and the money is being used in precisely the manner recommended by President Brown.

The assistance given the farmers of the United States, the secretary declared, is not confined to any locality. As an instance of the aid the department renders, Secretary Wilson recited the case of a farmer who was raising only twenty bushels of potatoes to the acre and who, dissatisfied, appealed to the department for assistance and advice. Both were given him promptly and Mr. Wilson says he now is raising two hundred and fifty bushels to the acre on the same land as a result of the seed and information given him by the government.

THE HORSE SHOW

Will Come to a Close Tonight

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Children's morning opened the last day of the National Horse show. Successful far beyond the shows of recent years and up to the mark of the best of previous exhibitions, the Madison Square garden show of 1909 will close tonight with the awards of the various championships. Winners in the various classes will parade for the distinctive honor, an exhibition which always brings out the multitude.

It would be difficult, however, to crowd the ampitheatre more than it has been crowded nearly every night of the show.

During this morning in the presence of a big assemblage of children, the ponies in harness and under saddle were put through their paces. Driving horses took a prominent part in the afternoon program. The last of the international contests was decided last night. The British officers won it and with it the majority of these events three wins to two for the American army officers.

THE ARCHBISHOP

Issues a Circular Letter to Pastors

Next Tuesday will be the 25th anniversary of the consecration of Pope Pius X as bishop of Mantua, and in observance of the silver jubillee period of the sovereign pontiff's life, the Most Rev. Wm. H. O'Connell has issued a circular letter to the pastors of the Boston archdiocese which will be read in all the churches Sunday morning.

The letter reads as follows:

Reverend and Dear Father —On Tuesday, Nov. 16, our holy father, Pope Pius X, will celebrate the silver jubilee of his consecration as a bishop.

Everything that concerns the sacred person of His Holiness naturally awakens the deepest interest in our hearts, and on this occasion I know that you will all show your great affection for our reigning pontiff by offering mass and asking for prayers of the faithful that God may bless our Holy Father and strengthen him to carry out the great and wise plans he has inaugurated of "Restoring all things in Christ."

W. H. O'Connell,
Archbishop of Boston.

Young Woman Went to Aid of Companion

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—John J. Sullivan, 26, of 71 Dover street, was taken to the City hospital yesterday morning with wounds received from a girl who fled in a taxicab with another man after stabbing Sullivan.

According to Sullivan, the man who was walking with the girl made an offensive remark to him near Washington and Castle street. He retorted and the man hit him. A scuffle followed and Sullivan was having the best of it when the girl stuck the blade of a knife into his back.

The girl's hands were covered with blood and her companion called a taxicab and they drove off.

Court Allows That Sum to a Baby

NEW YORK, Nov 13.—That a three year old baby cannot get along without an income of $15,000 a year, if she is heiress to an estate worth $320,000 and yielding an income of nearly $20,000 a year, was the dictum laid down by Judge Truax in the supreme court yesterday.

The lucky baby is Althea Rudd Ward, daughter of T. Edwin Ward and grand-daughter of the late George Rudd. When the grandfather died he left an estate valued at $640,000, of which little Althea was made the legatee of one-half.

Thomas Dimond, general guardian of the little girl, was made defendant in yesterday's action, the father being the plaintiff. He set forth that a child brought up in the surroundings to which little Althea had been accustomed could not live properly, and be educated and reared as she should be on less than $15,000 a year. Judge Truax took the same view of the matter and ordered her father be paid $15,000 a year from the estate.

STEAMER WAS BEACHED

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Nov. 13.—The steamer Charles X. Weston of Tonawanda, N. Y., was beached on the Canadian shore of Whitefish bay, Lake Superior, early today after a collision with the steamer H. P. Hope of Duluth. The Weston was lying at anchor, waiting to enter the Soo locks when the Hope rammed her port side.

PRICE OF EGGS.

At present fresh eggs are 55 cents a dozen, and the supply even at that price is quite limited. Here is an object lesson for farmers on the necessity of raising poultry. It seems that the farmers of this state could make money by raising poultry for the production of eggs which always command a good price in the local markets.

PENSIONS FOR RAILWAY EMPLOYES.

Apart from an improved system there is nothing that will tend more to decrease the number of accidents on railroads than good treatment of the employes. In this connection it is gratifying to find the Boston and Maine, the Pennsylvania and the New York Central railroads establishing pension systems for their employes. Good wages, reasonably short hours and pensions after a certain period of faithful service should inspire the employes to do all in their power to prevent accidents.

RESIGNING UNDER FIRE.

Rather than pass through the ordeal of a hearing on charges of irregularity conflicting with rule 10 of the police department, Officer Hersey has resigned. It is reported, however, that he will apply for a reinstatement within six months. If an officer can evade punishment for any offense committed, by resigning and then making application to get back with any prospect of success, it is time the police department made a rule to prevent any such abuse. The charge against Officer Hersey has been placed on file in the police department, but should he hereafter make application for reinstatement, it would depend largely upon the police board then in office whether these charges would be brought up against him.

THE DISGRACE OF ILLINOIS.

It would be impossible to conceive of a more blood-thirsty and barbarous mob of citizens than that which lynched negro James, hanging him to a telegraph pole, piercing his body with bullets and then dragging it nearly a mile to be publicly burned. The head was cut off and elevated upon a stake and the heart was cut out and cut in pieces to be given as souvenirs to the mob.

Was ever such barbarity witnessed in a civilized land? When this tragedy had been completed, another prisoner, a white man, was taken from prison and lynched with somewhat less cruelty.

Not only the city of Cairo and the state of Illinois are disgraced by this outrage but the entire country. Governor Dineen sends troops to the scene but that will not prevent a repetition of the outbreak whenever a murder is committed.

If leaders in these lynching mobs were brought to justice and hanged there would be fewer such outbreaks in the future, but while Governor Dineen sends troops to Cairo, he does not institute an investigation that might result in the arrest of the ringleaders.

THE APPLE CROP NEGLECTED.

Among other crops neglected in New England is the apple crop which, according to the best authorities, might be made one of the best assets of the New England farmer. The farmers of past generations planted some orchards here and these bear the greater part of the apple crop of New England. The trees are old and rotting. They receive very little attention and little in the line of pruning, protection against the moth pests or any assistance in the enrichment of the soil.

It is estimated that with proper care and cultivation the sum of $300 an acre can be easily made from apples at the present prices. This, of course, would require special cultivation and attention.

There is a great deal of waste land that might easily be converted into apple orchards. Of course an apple tree, like every other tree that bears fruit, requires a soil in which there is some nourishment or plant food. There are many tracts of waste land abundantly rich to grow apples, and if apple trees were planted in such places, in a short time they would prove quite profitable. Worcester county, in this state, has the credit of being the best county for apples. Other counties could do equally well if the farmers paid special attention to the cultivation of apples. There is scarcely any crop that can be raised with as little cost as apples, once the trees have reached maturity.

THE CANDIDATES ASSAIL EACH OTHER.

We notice with regret that some of the democratic candidates for mayor are becoming quite personal in their remarks relative to one another. In doing this they are laying the foundation for democratic defeat, because they are furnishing ammunition to be used against their own party by republicans. Until within the past few days the canvass was conducted quietly and without personal attacks, but now it seems a different policy is being pursued by some of the candidates. The candidates who do this must realize that they are sowing dragons' teeth that may rise into armed men to strike them down on election day.

Let the candidates who address large audiences at the mill gates, on the street corners and elsewhere, remember that they owe an obligation to their party not to adopt a course that may make victory at the polls impossible. When a candidate is defeated for the nomination he may promise support to the man who bitterly assailed him but he finds it a difficult thing to do and he cannot force his friends to support the nominee, try he ever so hard.

The people of Lowell, regardless of party, look to the democrats for redemption from the humiliating conditions that have prevailed during the present year. It is the duty of democrats to select their strongest man as candidate for mayor and then unite as never before for his election. The man who undertakes to deal out abuse against this or that candidate is merely helping to make his own election impossible, even though nominated, and thereby helping to elect the republican candidate.

OASIS.

Let them go by—the heats, the doubts, the strife;
I can sit here and care not for them now,
Dreaming beside the glimmering wave of life
Once more—I know not how.

There is a murmur in my heart, I hear
Faint, oh, so faint, some air I used to sing;
It stirs my sense and odors dim and dear
The meadow breezes bring.

Just this way did the quiet twilights fade
Over the fields and happy homes of men,
While one bird sang as now, piercing the shade,
Long since—I know not when.

THY WILL BE DONE

Not in dumb resignation
We lift our hands on high;
Not like the nerveless fatalist
Content to trust and die.
Our faith springs like the eagle
Who soars to meet the sun,
And cries, exulting unto Thee,
O Lord, Thy will be done!

When Tyrant feet are trampling
Upon the common weal,
Thou dost not bid us bend and writhe
Beneath the iron heel,
In thy name we assert our right
By sword or tongue or pen,
And even the headsman's axe may flash
Thy message unto men.

Thy will! It bids the weak be strong
It bids the strong be just;
No lip to fawn, no hand to beg,
No brow to seek the dust.
Wherever man oppresses man
Beneath Thy liberal sun,
O Lord be there, thine arm made bare,
Thy righteous will be done!

The society woman who entertains much will appreciate a little story that is laid at the door of Count von Moltke. The count one evening invited to his home a large number of friends and acquaintances. Some of these people he had met but recently and among the number were two brothers who were members of the general staff. The count, as he strolled from group to group, tried to recall the names of these officers, whom he desired to welcome personally, but his memory failed him utterly. He could not even remember how or when or where he had met them. He might of course, have asked some of his other guests who the gentlemen were, but that would have been confessing that he did not know whom he was entertaining, which, of course did not appeal to him to be good policy. He decided, therefore, to ascertain from the men themselves who they were. Accordingly, he approached a group of officers among whom was one of his two unidentified guests and joined in the conversation there. Awaiting a favorable opportunity, the count explained. The questioned officer looked in the direction indicated: "Oh," he said. "Why, your excellency, that is my brother." "Certainly! Of course! Why, how stupid of me!" the count explained as he made a smiling retreat. It was some time before he gained courage to approach the "tall officer near the fireplace," but one of the officers who had witnessed the count's first attempt to ascertain his guest's name, observed that he finally joined the second group as he had the first and that after a short conversation he turned away as he had done before. The observer, being curious, found opportunity later to speak to the "tall officer." He inquired what the count had asked him. "He asked me," the officer explained, "who that officer was over there near the table." "And what did you tell him?" the inquisitive one inquired. "Why I said that he was my brother."

Miss Anna B. She has just gone to Copenhagen, Denmark, to deliver a series of lectures on peace and the abolition of war.

"If I could have my way," writes James J. Hill in the World's Work, "I would build a couple of warships a year less. I would take that $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 a year and start at least one thousand agricultural schools in the United States at $5000 a year each in the shape of model farms. The purpose of each farm would be to furnish to all the neighborhood a working model for common instruction."

A Kentucky postmaster made trouble for three United States judges when he held up a lot of letters of a distilling company in which a certain brand of whiskey was described as "old." The postmaster, doubting the age of the liquor, took the ground that the letters were fraud letters. Now the case has reached the federal court at Cincinnati, and at last accounts Judges Lurton, Severens and Warrington were unable to tell at what age whiskey is really "old."

The two women graduates of the College of Engineering of the Ohio State university are: Mrs. R. S. Feicht, nee Bertha A. Lamme, who received the degree of Mechanical Engineer in Electrical Engineering in 1893; and and Mrs. Walter F. Lineburger, nee Florence E. Hitt, who received the degree of Civil Engineer in Architecture. Mrs. Feicht lives in Pittsburg, where her husband, a graduate of the same college in 1890, is an electrical engineer with the Westinghouse company. Mrs. Lineberger, up to the time of her marriage, was an architect in Chicago and Columbus. She now resides at Torreon, Coah., Mexico.

Suffragettes made their first appearance in politics, Prof. Frank Abbott says in his "Society and Politics in Ancient Rome," in 195 B. C. The occasion for the uprising of the women "to have more than half an ounce of gold, to wear a parti-colored garment or to ride in a chariot within the city or within a mile of it except for religious purposes." This was too much to be endured by the gentle ladies, and the maids and matrons of Rome rose up in their wrath and stormed the Forum very much as the suffragettes of London have stormed parliament and "blocked up all the streets of the city and the approaches to the Forum, importuning men as they came down to the Forum to vote for the restoration of their rights."

The Paris Petit Journal tells some stories gathered from the imperial nursery at Livadia about the children of the czar. The most interesting of the family is the little czarowitch, Alexie Nikolowitch. He is full of fun and play, fond of soldiers, insists on being saluted in military fashion, tyrannizes over his father, and loves no one so much as his nurse, Marie Ivanovna, and his orderly, Stepan, a grizzled veteran who never advanced to a higher grade than corporal. The liking for the orderly has its foundation in fact that the through him he receives occasionally slices of the black bread which is served to the soldiers in the barracks. When he says his prayers at night he always asks a blessing on Stepan before naming his father or mother. When chided for this disrespect by his mother, he said: "Millions of Russians pray for the czar; one prayer for Stepan can be spared."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL.

The degree staff of Empire colony, U. O. P. F., held its first social and dance last night at O. U. A. M. hall. There was a good attendance and the affair proved to be a success both from a social and financial standpoint. Atwood's orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

M. U. Odd Fellows

The third annual dance by the Burial Lot association of the I. O. O. F., M. U., was held in Prescott hall last evening. There was a good attendance. Hibbard's orchestra furnished the music. The following were responsible for the success of the social: General manager, George Emsley, P. P. G. M.; assistant general manager, Fred Bell, P. G.; floor director, Frederick M. Silk; assistant floor director, William Saunders; chief aid, George Camp; aids, Charles Neild, James Everett, George Chase; reception committee, Brothers Charles Sargent, Roland Taylor, Willis Bowles, Merritt Johnson, Isaac Tinker, Jesse Whitworth, Wm. Walker, Arthur Mansell, William Boutilier, Walter Hird, E. Hanson, and Wm. Bostwick.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night. Sachem James Kershaw occupied the stump. Three applications were received and referred to a committee. An invitation was received from Passaquoi tribe 27, of Haverhill to attend their Trading Post (Fair) at Lafayette hall, tonight. It was accepted, and a number of the brothers will attend.

The degree staff exemplified the warriors' degree in a creditable manner, and the visiting chiefs spoke words of praise for the staff. The warriors will be exalted to the chief's degree at the next meeting. The anniversary committee stated that some of the high officers of the order are expected to be present. Remarks for the welfare of the tribe were made by G. E. Sutherland, William Martin, A. W. Garland, G. W. Randall and L. F. Steele.

Centralville Foresters

A prize drawing contest and dance was held under the auspices of Court Centralville, Foresters of America, in Foresters' hall last night, the occasion being the 12th anniversary of the organization of the court.

Those in charge were: General manager, Matthew Coope; assistant general manager, Duncan McKeon; floor director, John P. Holmes; assistant floor director, George M. Shields. The aids were members of the court. Gilmore's orchestra furnished music for the dancing.

Knights of Pythias

Chevalier-Middlesex lodge, No. 2, met last night in regular session, with a large attendance and with many out-of-town guests. The rank of knight was conferred in long form on six esquires. Friday, the 19th, the rank of knight will be conferred on the remainder of the class, and on that occasion the new paraphernalia will be on exhibition for the first time.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"This Woman and This Man" was presented last night at the opera house. The leading role of "Thekla Muller" was acted in an admirable manner by Miss Minnie Victorson. Miss Victorson is a very clever actress, and would play to better advantage in a play of a different character. Master Joseph Hughes as "David Thompson," and Joseph DeStefan as "Norris Townsend," were both in leading parts and met favorable criticism.

"THE CANDY SHOP."

Today at the opera house, matinee and evening, comes "The Candy Shop," the big new musical gaiety sponsored by Charles Dillingham, that is now ending an all autumn run at the Tremont theatre, Boston, where it was presented at the close of its all summer run in Chicago. It also enjoyed an all spring stay in New York. The cast of "The Candy Shop" is one of the most imposing musical comedy organizations of the day. Rock and Fulton, popular here in vaudeville and musical comedy companies Frank Lalor, a comedian well known throughout the country, Lucy Weston, famous comedienne, Mrs. Annie Yeamans, Louis Harrison, Douglas Stevenson, W. J. McCarthy and Mlle. Rayo, a premier danseuse are some of the big names on the list. The choruses are said to rank with the most attractive of the feminine ensembles of the gayest of the Dillingham organizations. George V. Hobart wrote the book of the production, and John L. Golden, composer of the music of Elsie Janis' "The Hoyden," the score. The Chicago run, which began in June is said to have surpassed the attendance records of all prior summer musical shows in the middle western city. The fun of "The Candy Shop" passes in a candy salon in a fashionable quarter in New York, and in one of Coney Island's summer amusement parks on a summer night. The roles are said to be happily cast. William Rock's role is that of a soda water attendant who becomes stage-struck, and hires out with a moving picture theatre. Miss Fulton's role is that of a lovelorn candy shop girl. Mrs. Yeamans plays a suffragette part, and Louis Harrison a Coney Island amusement promoter. Lucy Weston plays herself, and W. J. McCarthy, a broken Dutch dialect character. Douglas Stevenson is the gaiety's lyrical juvenile. He will be recalled as the support two seasons ago of Edna Wallace Hopper, and before that as the Adonis of the companies sent on tour by Joe Weber. Last season he appeared as the prince in Weber's burlesque of "The Merry Widow."

HELEN GRAYCE

During the three past seasons Miss Grayce has undoubtedly done more for the popular priced drama than any other star on the stage today. She has succeeded in giving the very best of the recent successes in a perfect manner at popular prices. Plays that are even now being presented at the highest prices are offered by her at the minimum admission rates and the general public is thus given an opportunity to see all that is recognized as being the very best in the dramatic line. Among the productions that will be made next week at the Opera House are "When We Were Twenty-One," "In the Palace of the King," "The Toast of the Town," "The House of a Thousand Candles," "The Pit," "In the Bishop's Carriage," and "Secret Orchard." Miss Grayce is a most prepossessing and talented actress. She has surrounded herself with a carefully selected company of metropolitan artists, while each and every play is staged with its special settings.

ELSIE JANIS.

Elsie Janis, lately "The Hoyden" of Cosmo Hamilton's fanciful comedy, is now "The Fair Co-Ed" of Mr. George Ade's cleverly satirized mid-western "fresh water" college play. Mr. Ade, it is said, has written a fitting successor to his merry "College Widow," and in "The Fair Co-Ed" Miss Janis is even happier than she was as the dainty and delightful "Hoyden" of previous seasons. Miss Janis and her associates in Mr. Charles Dillingham's company in "The Fair Co-Ed" will shortly be seen at the Lowell Opera House.

HATTIE WILLIAMS

Hattie Williams in "Detective Sparks" is one of the big New York hits soon to be seen at the Opera House. Miss Williams has just completed a run of one hundred nights at the Garrick Theatre, New York city, and after a short tour of the principal cities in the East will return to that theatre for another three months and then start on a trip to the Pacific coast.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Vaudeville of the "sure-to-please" sort will be shown on the stage of the Hathaway theatre next week, and large audiences should prevail, as unlimited enjoyment opportunities are provided. Among the many pleasing contributors to a program that is excellent throughout, are the Farrell-Taylor company, in "That Minstrel Man," the funniest blackface act in vaudeville. The humor of the skit is interpreted by two men and a woman, and they do it with the cleverness that gives the act an unresistible zest. James R. McCann & Co. will present a very entertaining one act comedy, "Uncle Charles From Charlestown." McCann and his associates are talented comedians, and they handle the brilliant lines and situations of the playlet in admirable fashion. McDevitt and Kelly are past masters at light and graceful stepping, all the latest and catchiest steps are included in their repertoire, and their dancing act is well worth watching. A novelty that has never before been seen in this city is supplied by Marabini, the ice sculptor. Using as his material a huge block of ice, Marabini evinces marvelous skill in sculpturing the frigid substance into various forms of beauty, and the exhibition is destined to arouse eager interest. A tour of fun never fails to go up with the advent of Morgan and Chester, who are infectiously funny comedians. The title of their skit, "The Arrival of Dr. Cook," is suggestive of timeliness, in view of the present Polar controversy, and this suggestion is more than borne out with its presentation. Miss Maybelle Adams is a charming violinist, and every music-lover will be entranced by the sympathy and technique of her playing. Sam Doty, monologist, has at his command an exhaustless flow of witty conversation, and his sallies are continually provocative of merriment. The show closes with a series of the latest moving pictures.

STAR THEATRE

"The Girl Scout," a thrilling tale of life on the Canadian border, depicting events which have been recorded in history, is the feature picture at the Star theatre today. There are vaudeville acts by Marsh and Middleton, two clever young women, and John Lovely, eccentric dancer. New vaudeville and other new features will be presented Monday.

THEATRE VOYONS

"The Prodigal Son" will be shown for the last times at the Theatre Voyons today, and it should not be missed for its story is one that everyone should know and know well. "From Cabin Boy to King" pleases the lovers of dramatic pictures for the adventures of the young hero are sensational enough for anyone. There is a laughable comedy and a beautiful scenic subject included in this banner show. The songs are good and well sung. Mrs. Bales winning much praise for her great work in "Mollie Maloney," the popular hit of Lowell today.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today is continuous performance day at the Academy of Music, and a bill varied enough to suit everybody and by far one of the best and snappiest shows of the season is being presented. In the feature act, Kenney and Hollis presenting "The College Chums" have met with phenomenal success. Ben Wilson, the sweet tenor singer, has made many friends as his singing is far above the average. Three reels of the latest pictures, illustrated songs and the views of the world complete an excellent program.

REVIVAL WEEK

AT THE NEW CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

The first week of revival at the new Calvary Baptist church in the Highlands closed last night. There will be no meeting this evening. At the 10.30 service tomorrow Mr. Stair will speak. At 3.15 there will be a meeting for men at the Highland Congregational church in which Mr. Stair and Mr. Reynolds, the soloist, will take part. At the Calvary church at 6.30 p. m., the Methodist, Congregational and Baptist churches will unite in the evangelistic service.

The subject of Evangelist Stair's sermon last evening was "Is Temptation a Blessing?" the text being from James 1.12, "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation;" also Luke 4.2, "Being tempted of the devil."

MILLS IN BILLERICA

Are Enjoying a Very Prosperous Season Just Now

While the mills in this city, and in fact nearly all the mills throughout New England, are curtailing, just a few miles out of Lowell—North Billerica,—the Talbot and Faulkner mills are running on full time, and in the Talbot mills several departments are running overtime in order to balance up.

Both mills have found this year a very prosperous one and with the number of orders on hand at the present time and prospective orders there is nothing that would indicate that there will be any curtailment in either mill for a long time at least.

The Talbot Mill

The Talbot mill, which is the larger of the two corporations in North Billerica, besides furnishing plenty of work, also looks after the interests of the employe. The management has from time to time offered special inducements to the employes in order to show the latter that their work is appreciated.

Among the many advantages and inducements offered to the employes of the Tabot mills are up-to-date houses at reasonable rates, special prizes for the care of gardens and lawns about those houses, reading room, library, dining room, and many other things, including pensions.

Savings Bank Insurance

Now the management of the mill has gone a little further in its effort to assist its employes and in the course of a short time a savings bank insurance will be in operation.

G. S. Hutchinson of Boston addressed a number of the employes of the company last Tuesday evening relative to the new plan under which the Massachusetts legislature has authorized savings banks to issue various forms of life insurance policies under such conditions that the rates are lower than those of the regular companies.

Yesterday the following notices were distributed to the employes of the mill:

"To the Employes of the Talbot Mills:

"The legislature of Massachusetts has authorized savings banks to issue various forms of life insurance policies under such conditions that the rates are lower than those of the regular companies.

"Believing that this kind of life insurance is a perfectly safe investment and also that it is most desirable for wage earners to make such provision for their families, or for their old age, we have decided to act as agent for the banks issuing these policies. We shall do this without compensation from any source, and shall willingly bear the expense involved in order that we may assist our employes in the following ways:

"1. Securing full information about the matter.

"2. In taking out policies if they wish to.

"3. In forwarding to the banks their monthly payments.

"With this object we have engaged Mr. G. S. Hutchinson to come to the mill on Monday, Nov. 15, and to remain as many days as may be necessary to give all who wish an opportunity to talk with him. He is fully competent to explain the various kinds of insurance, and after receiving the information, there will not be the slightest obligation to apply for a policy if you do not wish to.

"If you are interested in the subject, please sign the enclosed card and give to the overseer of your department. He will notify you when you can leave your work to talk with Mr. Hutchinson.

"Yours truly,
"Talbot Mills,
"Frederick S. Clark, Pres."

Purchasing Outside Yarn

President Frederci S. Clark, of the Talbot mills, in conversatoin with a representative of The Sun yesterday afternoon stated that the future outlook is very good and that there is every reason to believe that this year will be a very successful one from an industrial standpoint.

At the present time the mill is running "full" in every department and the card room is being run overtime. In order to keep up with orders it is necessary for the mill to purchase outside yarn.

During the present year the company has substituted new and up-to-date looms to take the place of some older ones.

The Faulkner Mill

Agent W. A. Evans of the Faulkner mill also had good news. Business at this plant has been very good and Mr. Evans does not anticipate any change in the conditions. Orders have been given for a number of new Knowles looms which will be installed within a short time. The management is also seriously considering the advisability of installing a new boiler in the power plant of the mill.

Father Mathew T. A. S.

The 22d anniversary of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence society will be observed tonight in Thomas Talbot Memorial hall. Extensive arrangements have been made for the event.

Among the speakers who will deliver addresses are Edward F. Slattery, James O'Sullivan, Rev. John Foley, O. M. I., J. Nelson Parker, Charles H. Kohlrausch, Hugh J. Molloy and others.

The exercises will open with a banquet at 6.30 o'clock.

A STAR KICKER

Cunningham of Princeton is a Wonder

PRINCETON, Nov. 13.—In years to come when the football experts are discussing the merits of the different star kickers the name of Cunningham, Princeton's clever halfback and sensational toe artist, will always be mentioned. When the value of the field goal was reduced from four to three points last winter many were inclined to believe that this move would discourage goal kicking. Such is not the case, however, and the man with the educated toe is as much feared now as he ever was. Several times this season Cunningham's booting has been instrumental in helping the Tigers to win over their opponents. In the game against Fordham university it was heady work on the part of the clever toe of Cunningham that saved the Tigers from being played to a scoreless tie. With but a few minutes left to play in the second half of the game Princeton recovered the ball on a fumble. Cunningham was called upon to drive the oval over the crossbar for the three points that meant saving his team from the ignominy of a tie with a supposedly weaker eleven, and he was equal to the task. In the game with Yale the slogan was, "Watch Cunningham and his educated toe!"

TOMMY HUESTON, POOL CHAMPION

KLING DEFEATED

HUESTON IS AGAIN THE POOL CHAMPION

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 13.—Thos. A. Hueston of St. Louis for the third time becomes champion pool player of the world. He defeated John C. Kling, in the fourth and final block of their 800 ball match last night. The total score for the series stood: Hueston, 800; Kling, 653.

REBEL VERSION

Of the Fighting Near the Costa Rican Border

COLON, Panama, Nov. 13.—A message from Bluefield, the headquarters of the provisional government and established by General Estrada, leader of the Nicaraguan rebellion, gives the rebel version of the recent fighting near the Costa Rican border. The wireless says that the news was received at Bluefield from Boca del Colorado, Costa Rica and continues:

Fierce fighting took place on the 10th and 11th at a point near Colorado bay (Boca del Colorado) and the San Juan river. Gen. Toledo with several hundred government troops who had invaded Costa Rican territory in order to take the Nicaraguan rebels who were entrenched along the San Juan river which forms the boundary between the two republics was forced by Costa Rica to recross into Nicaragua. Toledo forthwith attacked the rebel troops under General Chamorro on the Nicaraguan side of the river. The government forces were defeated. A lack of arms has prevented the rebels from advancing. Arms are expected daily. The government forces had been expected at Greytown on the tenth and hoped to proceed thence to Bluefields. This defeat checks the advance for some time and indicates Chamorro's ability to hold the San Juan valley. General Estrada still holds all the territory east of the 85th parallel that is the eastern half of Nicaragua except a few miles on the San Juan river. Business is being carried on without interruption at Bluefields, Cape Gracias, the northeastern extremity of Nicaragua and at San Juan del Norte, Greytown, at the extreme southeast of the republic. The provisional government is being maintained in an orderly manner and it is expected that the United States will soon recognize the government of Estrada as an independent republic.

BOWLING RECORD

Broken by Catholic League Teams

Bowling records were shattered to the winds last night when the St. Peter's and C. M. A. C. teams of the Catholic league met on the alleys. The St. Peter's team won by the narrow margin of four pins. Both teams rolled over the 1400 mark, the winning team having a total of 1447.

The single string team record of 617 made by the C. M. A. C. is also a new record as are the single of 148 and triple of 353 by McCarty of the winning team.

There were several other good games played, including contests in the Manufacturers, Lamson and other leagues. The scores:

THE HURRICANE

Did Not Cause Serious Loss of Life

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti, Nov. 13.—The hurricane that swept over Hayti has wrought immense material damage but thus far no news has been received here of any serious loss of life. All communication between Port Au Prince and the towns in the northern part of the republic has been interrupted by the heavy rains. Floods followed the downpour and added to the losses but detailed information regarding the extent and severity of the storm still is lacking.

B. Coughlin; vocal solos, Peter Clune; accompanist, Emile Biron. Mr. Edward Biron is one of Lowell's most promising violinists and has been heard but seldom in public. The bazaar will continue all next week and special features will be given each evening.

STREET WORK

DEPARTMENT ABOUT FINISHED FOR THE YEAR

The street and sewer departments are about finished with their outdoor work, a few small sewers and a stretch of paving in Bridge street being all the work remaining to be done.

The street department expected to finish the Bridge street job this year, but has been waiting on the Locks and Canals company, which is to put a new bridge over the canal at the Massachusetts mills. The Locks and Canals company has failed to put in the bridge and hence the paving cannot be done this year.

NEW SPANISH TREATY

Raises Question Between United States and Cuba

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Through the U. S. minister in Havana the state department has called upon the Cuban government for a statement intended to disclose whether or not the newly negotiated treaty between Spain and Cuba constitutes such an arrangement as would destroy the preferential treatment granted American imports into Cuba under the existing reciprocity treaty. The continuance of this treaty, which has done much to foster trade between Cuba and America, depends probably upon the nature of this answer.

Under the terms of the reciprocity treaty, United States imports into Cuba were to be granted a preferential rate ranging between 25 and 40 per cent, in return for a like preferential rate of 20 per cent on Cuban goods coming into the United States. Now news comes from Madrid that Spain has practically completed a new treaty with Cuba, allowing an abatement of 60 per cent on Cuban imports into Spain in return for concessions of a like nature of Spanish goods entering Cuba.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Proclamation Was Issued by Gov. Eben S. Draper

Gov. Draper yesterday designated Thursday, Nov. 25, as Thanksgiving day in a proclamation as follows:

By His Excellency
Eben S. Draper
Governor.
A Proclamation
For a Day of Public
Thanksgiving and Praise.

In accordance with ancient custom, and by and with the advice and consent of the council, I appoint Thursday, the 25th day of November, as Thanksgiving day.

Annually, since colonial days, the people of the commonwealth have observed a day of thanksgiving for the mercies which have been vouchsafed to them by Almighty God.

No year has been more appropriate for such an observance than this year of 1909. In material things we have cause for thanksgiving, because our people are prosperous. What is of more importance is that liberty of conscience, which caused the settlement of the Massachusetts colony, has been preserved in the laws of the commonwealth and is believed in by the people.

We have great cause to be thankful that the people of this day and generation recognize peculiarly their obligations to each other, and the strong and well-to-do are giving of their strength and means to help their less fortunate neighbors.

May all the people take some time of this day to thank Almighty God for the blessings which have been so bountifully showered on the United States as a nation, and Massachusetts as a commonwealth.

Given at the council chamber this third day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and nine, and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-fourth.

Eben S. Draper.

PETER DELOREY

Says That His Confession Was All a Lie

For three hours and sixteen minutes yesterday Peter Delorey was on the witness stand denying the "confession" which he made to the police in the North Cambridge police station the night of April 2, 1909, relating to the murder of Annie Mullins.

For three hours of that time he was under the rigid questioning of District Attorney Higgins.

Delorey declared he had not been warned by the police that what he might say would be used against him at the trial.

"Lieut. Gordon said James Mantir had confessed he had cut Annie Mullins' throat and that I was with him, so I said the same thing about him," declared Delorey.

"I was frightened," he said. "When I denied I knew anything about it, Lieut. Gordon said I was lying. Then my aunt told her story. I was frightened and I cried. They kept telling me I was lying and that the Greek had confessed. Finally I said 'Yes' it was true. I don't remember all of the story I told."

Witness is Nervous

There was a noticeable difference between Mantir's attitude while testifying and that of Delorey. While Mantir was at all times cool and quiet, Delorey was plainly nervous and ill at ease.

His eyes were glistening with tears once during the cross examination. District Attorney Higgins began to question him about the alleged confession. Standing close in front of Delorey with outstretched hand and finger pointing accusingly at his face, the prosecutor went over the narrative, sentence by sentence, and asked: "Did you tell Mr. Gordon and Mr. Byrnes that?"

"I don't remember that I did," Delorey would reply, and District Attorney Higgins would come back each time: "Will you say that you did not?" and Delorey would answer: "I will not."

The largest crowd since the trial opened was in the courtroom and thronging the building and yard during the day. They literally fought for admission in their anxiety to see Delorey and hear him retract his "confession."

Mantir Recalled

District Attorney Higgins recalled Mantir to ask about scenes at the North Cambridge police station, where Delorey "confessed."

"Did Peter cry?" he was asked.

Mantir looked at Peter Delorey in the cage, smiling, then bobbing his head up and down and puckering his face humorously, sniffed: "Like that," he said, laughing.

"Did you say at any time: 'Me no talk'?" demanded District Attorney Higgins.

Mantir flared up: "I not say it in that way. I said: 'How can I go with girl that time when I can't speak good English?'"

When Peter Delorey was first put on the stand by Lawyer McDermott for direct examination his replies were scarcely audible.

Coming to the day of Annie Mullins' death, March 27, 1908, Delorey said he left the farm of his aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Delorey, in the morning with some cranberries, gold stones sent to Boston for assay by Mrs. Delorey, and a valise.

"I got off the car at North Cambridge," said Delorey, "and went into the pool room a little while and then I went to my aunt's, Mrs. Alma Delorey, at 33 Dudley street, to leave half the cranberries. Then I went home about noon with the rest of the cranberries.

"That afternoon I went to North Cambridge again and about 4 o'clock I started for Boston to see Mr. Harding. The next morning I got up about 6 o'clock and went in to Boston after breakfast. I met Mr. Harding on Union street at 7 o'clock on the way to the Central market on North street. I worked all day in his stall."

Retracts Confession

Attorney Frank McDermott asked him: "At the time you were in the station house with Officers Gordon and Byrnes did you tell them you were with James Mantir in Marathon Field at the time Annie Mullins was killed?"

"I did," answered Delorey instantly.

Everyone started up expectantly as the lawyer continued, "And was it true?"

Delorey straightened up, and with his arms folded across his breast faced the jury. "It was not," he answered.

"Your witness," said Mr. McDermott, facing toward the district attorney.

District Attorney Higgins began his cross-examination at 12.08. Delorey declared he had been in Marathon field but once in his life and that time he merely crossed it. He said he did not know there was a depression in it. This is the gully at the edge of which Annie Mullins' body was found. When District Attorney Higgins asked him what happened at the time of his arrest he replied: "Which time?"

"Why, were you arrested more than once?" flashed back the prosecutor. "I was," answered Delorey. "I was arrested in February for loitering in North Cambridge and fined $5."

A copy of the court record was then introduced by the prosecutor showing that he had been arrested and fined on March 9, 1908, instead of in February as he stated.

Delorey declared Lieutenant Gordon did not say, "I think you are not telling the truth," when the witness denied last spring that he had been with Annie Mullins, but said: "I think you are lying."

He declared Gordon told him Mantir had confessed and said Peter helped him.

"Then you said you would tell the truth?" asked District Attorney Higgins. "I did," replied Delorey.

"And you began to tell the truth?"

"I did not."

"Then what you said was all lies made out of whole cloth?"

"Yes."

A NEW BRIDGE

To be Built Between Hudson and Nashua

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 13.—Another conference between the Nashua board of public works and the selectmen of Hudson was held at the city hall here last night and resulted in placing the preparations for the proposed new bridge in better shape. The report from the engineer engaged by the town of Hudson to examine the bridge was read.

Contrary to rumors, this report declares that the bridge could be put into condition for ordinary traffic for weights not exceeding five tons for from $1500 to $7500 and states that the bridge was not designed for street car travel and cannot be made to stand up under heavy interurban cars.

A sub-committee, consisting of Arthur W. Dean and Erwin O. Hathaway of the Nashua board and James P. Howe and Kimball Webster of Hudson was appointed, with Mr. Dean as chairman and Mr. Hathaway as secretary. The four are empowered to make preparations for a new bridge and secure figures as near as possible. The sub-committee will proceed as far as it can without the authority to make contracts and ask for bids.

The Hudson selectmen hope to secure an attendance at the adjourned special town meeting next Wednesday to take action on an appropriation for the town's part of the work.

THEY'RE ELECTED

Town Clerks Vouch for Stevens and Cuff

Town Clerk Brennan of Dracut met with City Clerk Dadman at city hall yesterday and after canvassing the returns of the 14th representative district both formally declared George H. Stevens to be the regularly elected representative from that district. Of course George was wise to the fact before, but he couldn't get his name on the payroll until the clerks endorsed him.

Town Clerks Chandler of Tewksbury and King of Billerica also met with the city clerk and canvassed the returns of the 19th dsestrict, after which they allowed that Tommy Cuff had won something. Then the city clerk showed them his town and they all went home happy in the full performance of their duty.

A BOY BANDIT

Killed Police Officer and Then Wounded Himself

EUDORA, Kan., Nov. 13.—Earl Bullock, a boy bandit of Lawrence, Kan., accompanied by William McKay, 15 years of age, of Jacksonville, Fla., in an attempt yesterday to repeat his exploit of a month ago, robbed the Eudora State bank of $8000 after shooting Fred Starr, a banker, and later probably mortally wounded himself when closely pressed by armed citizens.

In his first holdup of the Eudora State bank, Bullock, who is 17 years of age, shot and killed a policeman. When officers had about concluded that Bullock had left the state with the loot of the previous holdup, he and McKay entered the state bank about closing time.

Fred Starr, cashier of the Kaw Valley State Bank of Eudora, who was in the state bank with his day's clearings, stood by as the outlaw held up the state bank's cashier, Henry Wilson. Although Starr did not resist the holdup, Bullock shot him through the jaw, snatching more than $8000. Bullock and McKay fled. Each youth had two revolvers.

Cashier Wilson spread the alarm and citizens armed with shotguns, rifles and revolvers pursued the bandits across the fields. In attempting to swim the Kaw river the boys lost ground and in a few minutes the pursuers were at their heels.

McKay surrendered, but Bullock, wrenching the revolvers from his faltering partner's hands, sped on into the woods.

John Miller, who knew nothing about the pursuit, stepped into Bullock's path and the boy, thinking him a pursuer, fired several shots which barely missed Miller. Seeing that the youth was ready to shoot at anyone, the pursuers fired a score of shots at Bullock, who returned the fire. The hunted robber with scant hope of escape fired his remaining bullet through his own head.

Thinking Bullock dead, most of the pursuers turned their attention to McKay, with the intention of lynching him, but officers hurried McKay to the Lawrence jail in an automobile.

McKay is a tall, slender and apparently weak youth, who was led into the crime by Bullock's lurid description of the thrilling life of a desperado.

HENRY L. STIMSON, PROSECUTOR OF THE SUGAR TRUST CASES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—There is a strange mixture of politics and trust rivalry in the revival of the scandals involving the American Sugar Refining company, which have recently resulted in wholesale resignations of men long in the employ of the company in New York. The story that the government was entitled to $30,000,000 when it accepted something less than $3,000,000 for the weighing frauds perpetrated on the sugar trust docks in Brooklyn has been revived and undoubtedly will cause a further investigation. Henry L. Stimson, special prosecutor for the United States in the sugar cases, denies that the government accepted anything less than its due following the weighing frauds. William Loch, collector of customs at New York, comes to the rescue of ex-President Roosevelt in reply to hints that the sugar trust was not prosecuted as vigorously as it might have been. It is believed that a reopening of the cases will result in a series of further sensations

NEGRO SUSPECT

Was Escorted Out of Town by Militia

CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 13.—With Arthur Alexander, the last of the persons arrested in connection with the murder of Miss Annie Pelley, safely out of town, and the Fourth regiment, Illinois National guard, on guard in the streets and about the jail, the mob spirit that kept Cairo ablaze with excitement for four days is quelled.

No crowds were allowed to gather at any place and every known danger point was occupied by troops. Bayonets held sway where 24 hours before the rope, the torch and the pistol were in evidence. Alexander, implicated in the murder of Miss Pelley by the dying statement of "Froggy" James, one of the victims of the mob, was sent to an unannounced point north of Cairo late yesterday. He was escorted from the jail to a special train on the Illinois Central railroad by seven companies of militia, two of which guarded the negro on the train during the trip. There were jeers for the militia from the small crowd that watched the departure.

The display of force was greater than the rioters had anticipated, and while there were murmurs all along the route, there was no effort to break the line.

Sheriff Davis, who made strenuous and repeated efforts for two days to save James from lynching, said last night that disposition of Alexander had been left to state officers. He has begun investigating the riots of Thursday night.

Coroner's verdicts yesterday were rendered on the men lynched and in each case the jury found that "he came to his death by injuries at the hands of persons unknown to us."

Sheriff Davis in a long interview yesterday told of having recognized several members of the mob which took James from his care Thursday night. No steps to bring those implicated in the uprising to trial have been made yet.

Mayor George Parsons said yesterday that he was asleep Thursday night and heard no shot or other sound to indicate that the city of which he is chief executive was in the grasp of a lawless horde.

Alexander Wilson, state's attorney, said that he was in several parts of the city, trying to quell the mob spirit, but he would not say that he recognized any of the leaders. He would present any evidence that came to him to a grand jury, he said.

While county officers previously declared that the evidence against "Froggy" James was purely circumstantial, they were inclined yesterday to lay stress on the evidences of his guilt.

The only ground for holding Alexander was declared to be the dying confession of James. None of the officers would acknowledge that any direct evidence of this alleged confession had come to him.

In an effort to clear up the murder of Miss Pelley, the police yesterday searched the houses frequented by James and Alexandr for the missing money, handbag and bracelet of the murdered girl. They found nothing.

Blame for the riot is generally ascribed to an inadequate police force and the fact that many men, accused of felonies have been acquitted despite seemingly strong evidence against them.

MRS. ROOSEVELT

With Daughter is on Way Home

NAPLES, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Miss Ethel, boarded the steamer Konig Albert, for New York last evening. Several friends bade them farewell. Before departing Mrs. Roosevelt said she had received no direct communication from Colonel Roosevelt or her son Kermit, but was hopeful that some news from them would come to her by wireless during the voyage to the United States.

CHAS. S. MELLEN

May Direct Big Railway Combine

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—It is believed that at the meeting of the directors of the Boston & Maine railroad which is to be held here on Nov. 16, Charles S. Mellen president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford road, will be elected president of the Boston & Maine to succeed Lucius Tuttle, resigned. This action will bring about openly the consolidation of the two systems, in which many stockholders are now jointly interested. These stockholders want the Boston & Maine raised to a standard uniform with the New Haven, and they believe Mr. Mellen can more easily accomplish the task by direct and actual management than through a subordinate.

The recent state election showed that Lodge's popularity is greatly on the wane and that his reign is near an end. Already several candidates for his position have been mentioned, notably, Hon. Samuel W. McCall of Winchester, but Congressman Ames is the first in the field and he's there with respectable backing.

A Boston paper discussing the situation this week said:

The revolt against Lodge and Gardner now fairly covers northeastern Massachusetts. Essex county, the home of both leaders, is its hotbed.

Mr. Ames tied up to Arthur L. Nason, according to Mr. Ames' friends, because the 4th Essex senatorial district lies within the Gardner congressional district, because J. Otis Wardwell's place on the state committee went along with the senatorship, and because the scene of conflict was close to Lodge's door.

The Lowell congressman believed that here was a good place to test the feeling of the people of Massachusetts toward Lodge and Gardner and Wardwell at one sitting. Nason won, Lodge and Gardner were "rebuked," so to speak, and Wardwell was fired from the state committee.

For Thanksgiving The Thompson Hardware Co.'s Ideal Food Cutter will make mincemeat easy.

AMES GETS BUSY

He Starts His Campaign Against Lodge

Although he has made no formal announcement Congressman Ames has begun his campaign for senator to succeess Henry Cabot Lodge in the United States senate and his candidacy will be welcomed by the republicans of the different cities in which Lodge has interfered in matters of local interest. Lodge is reputed to be the man who interfered with success in the legislature when Lowell was trying to get a new charter and for years he has had his hand in everyone's business until even the members of his own party have become weary of his bossism.

COAL STEAMER

Sank Off Wharf at Providence, R. I.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 13.—The big coal steamer Kanawha went down suddenly in 27 feet of water at the Curran and Burton wharf here last evening with her cargo of 3000 tons of coal.

So suddenly did the steamer sink into the Providence river that J. J. Costello, a fireman asleep in his bunk, narrowly escaped drowning. He had a hard fight to reach the deck. The Kanawha arrived late yesterday afternoon from Norfolk with 3440 tons of Pocahontas coal for Curran and Burton. Work of unloading began as soon as the steamer docked.

A member of the crew whose duty it was to close the sea cocks evidently forgot a big one on the port side for as the coal was taken out of the starboard side the vessel listed to port and the water flowed in. Captain W. H. Small and all his crew but Costello was on deck, when suddenly the steamer sank quickly in the Providence river. The crew clung to the high places, portions of the bow and stern remaining above water. Operations toward raising her were begun today.

The Kanawha was built for service on the Great Lakes. She is owned by F. B. Chesebro & Co. of Boston and chartered for coal carrying by Curran and Burton.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Mother and Her Child Found Dead

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 13.—Carrying with her into eternity her four months old baby, Mrs. Frank Brodeur, closing doors and windows of her kitchen, turned on a gas cock and awaited death. With the infant in her arms Mrs. Brodeur's body was found when her husband, a motorman, returned home last night. Family troubles are believed to have been responsible for the act. The woman left a note in which she said:

"I hope you will be happy now that I am gone."

EXPLORER PEARY

Spoke Before National Geographic Society

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—"I had made good to myself, my friends and the flag of my country," declared Commander Robert E. Peary last night after describing to a prominent audience how after years of toil and persistent effort he at last reached the North pole. It was the commander's first lecture since his return from his last trip to the frozen north and it was delivered under the auspices of the National Geographic society, which already has endorsed him as a discoverer of the pole.

Commander Peary made no direct reference to Dr. Frederick A. Cook. He intimated, however, that he did not regard it as possible that any expedition attained the top of the earth ahead of his own.

Fully two hours were occupied by Mr. Peary in the telling of his story, which was illustrated by stereoptican views made from photographs taken by Peary in the north. He endeavored to impress upon his hearers the many hardships which had to be endured, the almost insurmountable obstacles which had to be overcome and the complete preparation and experience necessary to make the expedition a success. Arriving at the hall Commander Peary was escorted to the platform amidst applause, by Prof. Willis L. Moore, president of the National Geographic society, who also introduced him.

Mr. Peary related the incidents of the trip in a simple, straightforward manner. He gave much of the credit to the other members of his expedition, and spoke of the fundamental importance of his supporting parties.

In describing his feeling, as he said, when he reached the goal of his ambition, Commander Peary declared that the conditions were very commonplace and that they were the same as they had been experiencing for days before. There were no new unusual sensations for the eye or ear to detect except that the sun moved parallel with the horizon.

"It was a feeling," declared Commander Peary, "that at last after 23 years, in spite of every financial and other difficulties, I had made good to myself, my friends and the flag of my country."

Among those present at the lecture were Secretary and Mrs. Knox, Secretary and Mrs. Dickinson, Secretary and Mrs. Nagel, Secretary to the President F. W. Carpenter and Mrs. Donald McLean, former president of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Practically every other embassy or legation in Washington was represented, the majority of the legations by the ministers themselves.

JUDGE MOORE

HAS MADE NEW RECORD AT HORSE SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—With horse show week drawing to its close, it became apparent last night that Judge William B. Moore has established a record never before equaled in the history of the National association. His 11 entries have thus far taken 19 firsts, six seconds and one third—a showing all the more remarkable in that C. W. Watson of Baltimore, who swept everything before him last summer at the International Horse show in London, and the open air meets on this side, has only one first, six seconds and six thirds to share among 18 entries, while Alfred and Reginald Vanderbilt, with 37 entries, have captured but two blues, seven seconds and seven thirds.

The lively interest in draught horses shown by the crowd is deemed a healthy symptom by breeders.

Mothers find Perry Davis' Painkiller invaluable in the nursery, and it should be kept at hand in case of accident. For pain in the breast take a little Painkiller in sweetened milk and water, bathing the breast in it clear at the same time. If the milk passages are clogged, from cold, or other causes, bathing in the Painkiller will give immediate relief. Ask for Now 35c Bottle.

VALUE OF MILK

Prof. Lockwood Lectured to Pomona Grange

Prof. W. P. B. Lockwood, head of the department of dairying at Massachusetts Agricultural college, spoke in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, last evening, on "The Value of Milk as a Food and Its Care in the Home." He spoke under the auspices of the Middlesex North Pomona grange.

"If one can keep milk at 40 degrees or below that we will get along very well," he said.

"It has been figured out that one bacteria will reproduce five to seven bacteria in 24 hours, at a temperature of 50 degrees. Ten degrees higher one bacteria will reproduce 750 bacteria.

"There are three principal kinds of bacteria, as follows: The inert, which are not harmful and which are usually present in the largest numbers; the scouring, of which there are about fifty varieties, and whose principal functions consist in souring milk, and the peptical, which result generally from filth and decayed organic matter. These latter are pathogenic, or disease producers.

"The fly furnishes a big problem to the producer and it should to the consumer. They carry millions of bacteria into milk, and when near manure piles are a very great menace to health.

"When it is possible for the consumer to get milk in bottles from a reliable source he should invariably do it."

He then spoke of the "Do's" and "Don'ts" for the consumer, the "Do's" being as follows:

Use bottles from the best source of supply, if possible.

Put the bottles in the ice box, the cellar or other cool, clean place as soon after receiving as possible.

Use clean receptacles.

Use cold water to wash the receptacles with at first. Later scald with hot water.

Keep the milk in the original retainers and put cap on or an inverted glass.

Have tight covers on retainers.

Avoid buying cheap milk, which is usually milk below standard or old milk.

Avoid buying milk at groceries or other places where varied kinds of supplies are on sale.

Keep the refrigerator clean. It should be scalded at least once a week.

Rinse the top of the bottle, after receiving and before using any milk.

The "Don'ts" are:

Don't use unclean utensils.

Don't put tickets in the milk cans. The boy who delivers the milk may have dirty hands.

Don't allow the sun to shine on the receptacle after the milk is delivered.

Don't use a towel or rag to wipe out the receptacle. Scald it and then let it dry off.

Should diphtheria, typhoid or scarlet fever break out in the family, don't return the bottles to the milk dealer without a physician's knowledge and under conditions prescribed by him.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

CHARLES F. BUCK REMEMBERED BY HIS FRIENDS

Mr. Charles F. Buck observed his 22d birthday yesterday at his home, 65 Pine street and his friends assisted him in observing it right. When the company had assembled Nathan C. Moulton, representing the members of Lodge 19, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, presented him a beautiful meerschaum pipe. He also received a gold mounted cane from friends at the Whiteall Mfg. company.

Refreshments were served and games were played, and a very pretty musical program was carried out.

Among the program numbers were a piano solo by Miss Daisy Lahounty; "Camp Life," by Joseph Cunningham; "Songs My Mother Used to Sing," was sung by Mr. Joseph Perkins; a violin selection by Miss C. Raymond also made a great hit, and Mr. Brock sang "My Wife's Gone to the Country" with great effect. Mr. Moulton was accompanist. Miss Phillips gave some very good readings, and the party closed with everybody singing "America."

Girl's Brother Slashed Intended Bridegroom

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—As he was emerging from the Italian church of the Sacred Heart, North square, yesterday with his bride-to-be, Francesco Musolino, 38 years old of 113 Brighton street, was assaulted with a razor by Paoli F. Lena, 45 years old, of North square, a brother of the young woman.

Musolino and his sweetheart, Miss Concetta Lena, went to the church shortly before noon yesterday to complete arrangements for their marriage. As they were leaving the church Lena, it is charged, struck at Musolino with a razor, inflicting a wound on the cheek. Musolino raised his right hand to protect himself from a second low and the razor struck his right thum, almost severing it. Musolino was taken to the Relief hospital. His injuries are not serious.

VIEWS OF THE NEW WHITE HOUSE OFFICES BUILT ON THE ROOSEVELT TENNIS COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—When President Taft returned from his long journey he found the new executive offices at the White House completed, furnished and in spick and span shape for his occupancy. In fact, a part of the presidential office force had been occupying the rooms for a week before the president arrived. The new annex built on the ground formerly used as a tennis court by Mr. Roosevelt, cost with its furnishings in the neighborhood of $100,000, and the president now occupies the most spacious office quarters ever yet provided for a chief magistrate of the U. S. The furnishings in the president's private office and the cabinet room are of mahogany, upholstered with leather of a greenish tint. The president's chair in his private office swings on a swivel. The chair he occupies in the cabinet room is of solid wood, differing somewhat in make from the chairs used by the cabinet members. It is probable that a new tennis court will now be laid out in the president's "back yard." Colonel Spencer Cosby, superintendent of grounds and buildings, is now preparing plans for it, and it will be chiefly for the use of Miss Helen Taft and Robert Taft, who are ardent devotees of the game which President Roosevelt made popular at the White House.

SUPTS. OF SCHOOLS

Tell of the Need of Courses in Industry

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The importance of industrial education and the growing need for the introduction of vocational courses in high schools was emphasized in the report and papers read before the New England Association of School superintendents at the 85th meeting, held yesterday in Latin school hall, Warren avenue.

A committee of Superintendents was appointed a year ago to investigate the criticisms of high school courses and the demand for different instruction, and reports were submitted yesterday by Payson Smith of Augusta, Me.; J. C. Gray of Chicopee, Charles H. Morss of Medford and W. A. Baldwin of Hyannis.

Mr. Smith declared that the schools will lose pupils unless an effort is made to supply subjects which the communities demand, while Mr. Gray reported that vocational training would not only benefit students who are taking up industrial courses, but would be of advantage to those engaged in classical studies. Mr. Morss called attention to the effort being made all over the country to effect a closer relation between colleges and secondary schools. Mr. Baldwin suggested courses in practical ethics, political economy, sociology and civil government.

Other reports were on educational progress, by Ellor E. Ripley; legislative enactments, by George H. Martin, and necrology, by G. A. Southworth. Papers on school penmanship were presented by Harry Houston of New Haven Haven, George E. Gay of Haverhill, A. H. Keyes of Dover and J. C. Moody of New Britain.

At the afternoon meeting the following officers were elected: President, Frank O. Draper of Pawtucket; vice-president, Bernard M. Sheridan of Lawrence; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Deevin Call of Hartford; executive committee, Payson Smith of Augusta, A. H. Keyes of Dover and F. E. Parlin of Cambridge.

The question whether the association should affiliate with the American Institute was left open till the next meeting.

At the invitation of Supt. Brooks of Boston, as trustee of the Museum of Fine Arts, the assembly visited the new art building and the 1915 Boston exposition.

EVENING SCHOOLS

More Teachers Dropped During Past Week

The attendance at the elementary evening schools is about 250 less than last year and the decrease in attendance has been met with a steady reduction in the number of teachers. The schools opened this year with 23 less teachers than last year and thus far seven more have been dropped. The "18 year old minor" law, so-called, is responsible for the dropping of the attendances. The high school at which attendance is voluntary is ahead of last year.

ARE DRIVEN OUT

fire were banked with human faces. The fire was discovered by Frank Santive, the night clerk at the St. Charles hotel. Mr. Santive has a reputation as a wide-awake watchman. It was Mr. Santive who discovered the Richardson house fire.

Soon Under Control

By the time that the incident having to do with the rescue of the baby was closed, streams were playing on the fire from all directions and half an hour later the fire was under control. Fortunately there was but slight wind blowing at the time and there was lots of open territory that gave the firemen good opportunity to get at the seat of the conflagration. The heat was intense but the firemen worked nobly and succeeded in confining the flames to a comparatively small area.

Were Badly Scared

According to the story told by a man who dropped into The Sun office shortly before the noon hour today, the two pigs are still in the land of the living and two men, employes of the Lowell machine shop, were given the scare of their lives by the porkines. The two men in question were on their way to the shop at about 5 o'clock this morning and while passing through Jackson street they heard a series of peculiar grunts. They could not see anything or anybody, according to the story told by the man who called at The Sun office, one of the scared ones jumped into the canal and the other sought refuge in the Appleton mills. The fellow who jumped into the canal was taken out more dead than alive. He hurried home for dry clothing and it remained for the fellow who pulled himself through a window in the Appleton mills to tell the story of his and his comrade's fright. "We thought it was the evil one," said he, "and the reason I didn't follow suit and jump into the canal was because I can't swim. In view of the fact that I was so badly scared I wonder how it happened to dawn upon me that I couldn't swim. I am willing to buy all kinds of things if nothing is said of it, but who in the world would ever expect to meet two infuriated pigs in Jackson street at 5 o'clock in the morning? The chances are that the two runaway grunters met somebody who invited them in. The price of pork is soaring high these days and this may have something to do with the mysterious disappearance of the pigs."

About the Insurance

The insurance on the building of H. A. Racicot, 317 Middlesex street, was carried by the agency of Frank M. Brogan.

Take good care of your eyes. You will never have another pair. It is pretty hard to see people ruining their eyes when a pair of glasses properly fitted would save them. It cannot be the fear of expense, for my prices are always moderate. It cannot be the fear of getting the wrong glasses for my scientific examinations guard against that. Call and let me examine your eyes. If you do not need glasses I will tell you so. If you do I will fit you perfectly. The most up-to-date optical parlors in the state.

M. T. I. NOTES

ITEMS OF INTEREST ABOUT SOCIETY AND UNION

A general meeting of the presidents of societies and the deputies recently appointed by President Shea of the C. T. A. U. will be held in Boston tomorrow to discuss several important questions.

For the first time in years Lowell has lost its representation on the board of deputies of the union. Since 1904 not less than three men from Lowell have been on the board at one time, but now the list has been revised and Lowell was overlooked, a fact that will cause much comment throughout the state as well as locally. North Chelmsford societies fared better than Lowell, for Miss Loretta Ward, a prominent worker in the Ladies' society, has been chosen as deputy to the St. Charles T. A. S. Ladies' auxiliary, one of the finest ladies' societies in Massachusetts.

The appointment of James F. McGovern, Sr., of Woburn as deputy to the Mathews of Lowell pleases not only the gentleman himself but the members of the local society as well. Mr. McGovern is regarded as an earnest exponent of the cause and has been prominent in total abstinence work in Woburn for nearly 40 years.

Former Vice Pres. James F. Riley has resigned the position he held in Fitchburg to accept a more lucrative one in Boston.

The announcement that Wm. J. Gargan had been appointed deputy to the St. John T. A. S. was a bit premature as subsequent reports show. In the first list that was made up, Mr. Gargan was named for the position but later when the list was revised by Pres. Shea, Mr. Edward E. Gaughan of Cambridge was named for the place. It is known that there were many candidates for positions as deputy and although Mr. Gargan's candidacy was urged it appears that Mr. Gaughan's popularity in the Cambridge society was not to be overlooked and hence the appointment.

The committee appointed to consider plans for the observance of the anniversary of the Mathews has several plans under consideration, one of which will be recommended to the institute.

BRIDE HAD MOVED

And Prospective Groom Hustled for License

It wasn't a case of "My wife's gone to the country" with George E. Hildreth, aged 33, of Leominster, Mass., but rather "My bride's gone to the country," for when George blew into Lowell yesterday with a marriage license from his home town and attempted to get one from Lowell, the home town of his 18 year old bride, he discovered that his bride had moved to Methuen and he was obliged to go to that burg for his other half and the other half of his marriage license.

When Hildreth applied to the city clerk for a license he answered all the questions but that as to the bride's residence. He wasn't sure of the street as the young woman had recently moved. He was instructed to find out the name of the street. Returning in about an hour and wreathed in smiles Hildreth said: "It's all right. There isn't any street and number; it's just plain Methuen."

But Methuen plain or decorated didn't go with the city clerk, and George was informed that he would have to visit the down-river town and wake up the town clerk ere he could wed. George went forthwith, got the license, was married and lived happy ever after.
